Cards Blank Eagles 27-0 For Fourth Straight Win

Unbeaten Plummer remained atop the North Division standings in the North Tri County football conference Friday with a 27-0 shutout win over visiting Grygla.

The win was the fourth straight for coach Gary Brantl's Cardinals who will host Erskine in the 1975 Plummer homecoming game Friday at 7:30 p.m. Grygla fell to 1-3 with the loss and faces a stiff test this week with a 7:30 p.m. game Friday at Oklee.

Tom Martell scored three touchdowns for the Cardinals who led 6-0 at the end of the first quarter, went ahead 14-0 at halftime and then added 13 points in the fourth quarter.

A big 39-yard pass play from quarterback Jerry Fisher to end Stan Tvedt set up Martell's first score - a two-yard run in the opening stanza.

Martell scored again in the second quarter on a three-yard run after a pass interception by teammate Dave Walter gave the Cardinals the ball at the Grygla 38 yard line. John Greenwald added the two point conversion to supply Plummer with a 14-0 halftime cushion.

Plummer added two fourth quarter touchdowns to its credit. Tvedt scored on a three-yard pass from Fisher and Martell recovered a blocked punt in the end zone for another touchdown. Steve Rosten, a defensive end, blocked the punt for the Cardinals. Mark Genereux place kicked the final Cardinal point.

"We really looked good," offered Brantl. "We received excellent offensive ball games from Martell, Fisher and our whole offensive line."

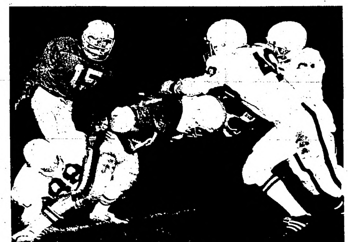
Brantl also praised the play of his team's defense in recording its second shutout of the year. "Rosten and Walter both played extremely well on defense," said Brantl who also cited the defensive play of linebackers Carl Torkelson, Todd Gustafson and Martell and tackles Neil Konickson and Erwin Marty.

Plummer finished with 129 yards rushing and 112 yards passing. Fisher completed six of 12 pass attempts. Tvedt caught two passes for 39 yards and Martell hauled in two passes for 28 yards. Plummer's offense was slowed, however, by six 15-yard penalties whistled against the Cardinals.

Grygla coach Jerry Lindstrom pointed to offensive mistakes by his Eagles as a key to the ball game. "We just made too many errors," he said. Lindstrom also felt that a pair of first quarter passes instrumental in both Plummer touchdowns "should have been intercepted or at least knocked down."

Grygla threatened to score near the end of the first half when the Eagles moved to the Plummer nine yard line before a penalty pushed the ball back to the 14 and time expired.

"Arlo Hagen, Wayne Thomas and Dwight Rud played fine defensive games for us," explained Lindstrom, "but they can't do it alone." Lindstrom praised Curt Hermanson for his offensive blocking. Injuries to quarterback Gary Satre and fullback Gordy Moe slowed the Grygla offense that produced only 97 yards on the ground and 37 yards through the air.



A TRIO of Roseau tacklers combined to bring down Newfolden ball carrier Scott Magner after a short gain during Friday night's Top of the State Conference football game played at Newfolden. Roseau blanked Marshall County Central 36-0 to lower the Nordic season record to 1-3 for the year.

TRF Runs In Strong Grand Forks Invite

Lincoln high school cross country team continued its ambitious 1975 fall schedule Thursday by taking part in a talent-laden 15 team invitational meet at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks Red River won the event with a 38-point effort, followed by Minot with 57, Jamestown 67, Fargo South 132, Moorhead 162, Bemidji 199, Valley city 209 and Thief River Falls 210.

The rest of the team scores included West Fargo, ninth with 252 points, Fargo North 297, Fargo Shanley 312, Grand Forks Central 343, Wahpeton 450, Grafton 460 and Detroit Lakes 462.

Prowler coach Russ Smith was extremely pleased with his team's performance against some of the finest high school cross country teams in the area. He pointed out that Red River, Minot and Jamestown are probably the three best cross country teams in North Dakota and Moorhead and Bemidji are rated as favorites for Region Eight AA honors in Minnesota.

Bob Newwark of Red River was the meet's top individual performer with a speedy 12:39 effort over the 2.5 mile course. There were 105 runners entered in the meet that was hampered by gale-like winds and near-freezing temperatures.

Dan Kezar was the top Prowler finisher with a 22nd place effort. Other Prowlers included Dan Heieren who was 37th, Tony Brosseau 40th, John Albrecht 49th and Mike Nessen 62nd.

Talking about the quality of the invitational meet, Smith noted that it was "probably the strongest field of runners any place except at the Minnesota state meet. We ran exceptionally well. Dan Kezar was outstanding."

Thief River Falls runners also performed well in the B team portion of Thursday's meet.

Minot won the B team title, followed by Moorhead, Red River, Fargo South, Thief River Falls, Jamestown, West Fargo, Grand Forks Central, Bemidji, Valley City and Fargo North.

There were 105 runners taking part in the B team race. Kevin Murphy was the top Prowler finisher with a 13th place effort. Tom Brosseau placed 21st, Kevin Culkins 22nd, Bob Fitzgerald 23rd and Dave Glaque 58th.

Smith praised the performances of Murphy, Brosseau, Culkins and Fitzgerald in the B squad meet.

Thief River Falls runners were also busy at another front Thursday as the junior high school B team ran in a junior high school meet at Bagley.

Roseau won the event with 24 points, followed by Thief River Falls with 75 and Bemidji 84. Bagley and Crookston also took part in the meet, but their scores were not made available.

Greg Brosseau was Thief River Falls' top performer at Bagley with an eighth place finish. Myles Lund placed 14th, Todd Bergland 16th, Joel Hallstrom 17th, Scott Sabo 20th, Robb Blankenfield 21st and Doug Green 22nd.

Smith gave special credit to Bergland and Green, both seventh graders, and Blankenfield, a sixth grader, for their efforts against teams consisting mostly of freshmen.

Thief River Falls runners are scheduled to compete in a junior high school invitational at Crookston today (Monday) at 5 p.m. The Prowler varsity and B teams will run in an invitational meet at Bagley tomorrow (Tuesday) at 4:30 p.m.

COWBOY END Dave Gunderson tried to slip away from Prowler defender Geoff Dagg after catching a short pass during Friday's Thief River Falls-Breckenridge high school football game on the Prowler athletic field. Gunderson picked up nine yards on the play. Thief River Falls won the game 35-0.

Erskine Spoils Huskies' Homecoming Event 20-6

Erskine spoiled the 1975 homecoming celebrations for Goodridge Friday by beating the Huskies 20-6.

The loss was the fourth straight for Goodridge in North Tri County Conference play this fall. The Huskies will try to get on the winning track Friday with a 1:15 p.m. game at Mentor.

Erskine runningback Cliff Kazek put the Comets on the scoreboard in a hurry when he returned the game's opening kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown. He went into the ene zone untouched.

Kazek's spectacular run was the only scoring in the first half.

Erskine moved in front 12-0 at the start of the third quarter when Jeff Lein went 21 yards for a touchdown after Goodridge gambled on a fourth down try from its own 34 moments earlier. The first down attempt came up just inches short of a first down and presented the Comets with the scoring opportunity.

Goodridge got back into the ball game, however, by marching the ensuing kickoff back downfield on a 70-yard touchdown drive. Quarterback Jim Johnson capped the drive with a three-yard run after runningback Ryan Haugen, supplied most of the yardage on the sustained drive.

Erskine put the game out of reach at the start of the second quarter when quarterback Mike Jasper passed 33 yards to John Dehne for an insurance touchdown. Lein added the two-point conversion.

"We played a good, solid football game," explained Goodridge coach Ken Ewertz. "We just had a few mistakes that hurt us—a penalty here and a penalty there."

The loss overshadowed a brilliant performance by Haugen, a 5-8, 140-pounder who rushed for 148 yards on 22 carries for the Huskies. Goodridge totaled 243 yards on the ground and picked up eight first downs. The Huskies did not complete a pass. Erskine, meanwhile, gained 252 yards on the ground and Jasper completed five of 10 passes for 93 additional yards. Goodridge has handicapped by 55 yards worth of penalties—"all coming at the wrong time," quipped Ewertz.

Haugen

Nelson

Tackle Randy Nelson was voted the Huskies' defensive player of the game. The entire team was bestowed with the offensive honor.

"We're not giving up," insisted Ewertz. "We're going to keep trying and one of these days we're going to bust someone."

Propose Plan To Improve Habitat In State Parks

A wildlife and fisheries program to improve the habitat on thousands of acres of national forest land in northern Minnesota has been developed cooperatively by the Minnesota department of natural resources and the Chippewa and Superior national forests.

The five-year $7 million program is the first of its kind proposed for the three million acres of national forests in Minnesota. The plan includes development and maintenance of wildlife and fish habitat for both game and non-game species such as moose, deer, timber wolves, lake trout, brook trout, great blue herons and loons.

Controlled burning, timber harvest, habitat and animal surveys and wetlands habitat improvement projects are also included in the plan.

The program is to be funded through public law 93-542, known as the "sikes act". This law directs the forest service to develop comprehensive wildlife and fisheries management programs in conjunction with the various states.

Copies of the proposed plan are available for public review by writing to the Forest Supervisor, Chippewa national forest, Cass Lake, Minnesota 56633; or the Forest Supervisor, Superior national forest, p.o. box 338, Duluth, Minnesota 55801.

Comments must be received by October 31, 1975 to be included in the final draft.

Medicine Lake in the Blackduck area has been producing excellent crappie fishing. The largest caught according to the latest report was a fish weighing two pounds four ounces. The fisherman was James Hawes of New Holland, Illinois. Nine-year-old Julie Seidel of Park Ridge, Illinois caught one weighing one pound, thirteen ounces. Eric Seidel of Park Ridge also had one weighing one pound, 13 ounces.

Many other lakes in this area are producing good crappie and blue gill fishing, according to Orrin Wolden of Blackduck. He also said "There seems to be a good crop of local ducks and deer apparently wintered well last winter. There are many bear in the area".

VISIBILITY PROBLEMS caused by heavy smoke resulted in this collision on Highway 32, one mile north of St. Hilaire, at 3:20 p.m. Wednesday. T. J. Skrei and a passenger, Kenneth Rossow, both of Grand Forks, were traveling south in a Thunderbird and pulling a golf cart. Skrei slowed down to allow a vehicle in front of him to turn off the Highway and was beginning to resume speed when he was struck from behind by a station wagon driven by Michael Olson of Red Lake Falls. The impact of the collision caused the golf cart to be thrown clear and the station wagon became lodged on the cart trailer and the rear of the Thunderbird. The Pennington county sheriff's office reported that Olson apparently was unable to see the Skrei car because of smoke from a burning field nearby. Damage estimates were not available.

Mission Graves Reveal History

by Rev. Roger Ose
Madagascar missionary

In October of 1972 I visited the Manasoa station of the former Lutheran Free church for the first time. I was particularly impressed by the missionary cemetery close to the mission grounds. Those grave markers tell a story.

At least six Manasoa missionaries died from 1898 to 1904. Why? Malaria. Early missionaries were determined to eat, sleep and live like the natives. But their stomachs could not take it. And the heat and cold and mosquitoes proved too much for several of them. How old were those who died? Nearly all were under 30; one nurse was 27 years old, another only 19. They died like flowers bitten by the frost.

At the turn of the century a medical doctor named John Dyrnes came to the Manasoa station. He brought with him a good supply of sulfa drug and quinine for malaria. He also suggested that the missionaries ought to live in better homes with screens on the windows to keep out mosquitoes. Even if it meant living above the natives, he saw it as essential if they were to stay alive and do their work.

Dyrnes was not married at the time, and wrote back to the mission board that he needed a wife. Would they find a suitable girl and send her to Madagascar? They did. She now lies beside her husband in the Manasoa cemetery. Dr. Dyrnes died at Manasoa on Dec. 7, 1943. In honor of his work there, the doorstep from his clinic was moved to the foot of his grave. That stone doorstep is worn nearly half way down in the middle from the thousands of bare feet that crossed it for 30 years to get medical help.

Another grave at Manasoa is that of Rev. J.B. Jerstad, who died in 1911. After his death his wife and three daughters returned to America. One of those girls, Connie, married Rev. Caleb Quanbeck on Aug. 21, 1926. A few days later they sailed together to the foreign field. Although retired, they still serve full time in Fort Dauphin as mission treasurer and receptionist. They have been here 49 years, the longest time of service of any missionaries of the former Lutheran Free church.

Across the island to the east is another missionary cemetery in Fort Dauphin. The first grave to the right of the cemetery gate is that of Hortense Quanbeck (1934-1944), only daughter of Caleb and Connie. She passed away while studying at the American school. It was almost a week after the funeral that news of her death reached her parents in the west of Madagascar. Her only brother was a first grader at the time, and vividly remembers standing by the open grave as the only family representative.

Others graves at the Fort Dauphin cemetery tell a story of how difficult it sometimes was for small children to fight off tropical diseases. Two Monson children died, under age two. Other small children's markers include names like Borge, Anderson, Hallanger, Halvorson, Toso and Vaagenes. Although all of these families are now in America, these parents cannot forget their precious little ones who were laid to rest in Fort Dauphin.

Here also is the grave of Rev. John P. Hogstad, first American Lutheran missionary to Madagascar. He was a graduate of Augsburg College, and was commissioned for missionary service at Hawk Creek Lutheran church near Sacred Heart, Minnesota, in 1887. He served in Madagascar until his death in 1911.

These grave markers tell of dedication to a task that could not wait. When missionaries died, more replacements were willing and ready to come out. Even the loss of a child was not too great a sacrifice for Christ and for the Malagasy. These are the kinds of stories grave markers tell.

Minn. Bridge Repair Program Listed For 1976

Selection of bridge repair projects for calendar year 1976, as part of one of the largest bridge repair programs in the history of the Minnesota highway system, has recently been announced by highway Commissioner, Frank D. Marzitelli.

Project selection is developed on the basis of district recommendations and conditions as observed on the field.

Classified as "bridge improvements", the projects are subject to bid by private contractors and represent jobs outside of regular maintenance work of the highway department crews.

Projected total costs for the 1976 calendar year are approximately $4,938,000. The state's share will be approximately $1,562,000.

The 1976 calendar year improvement projects will involve 53 structures throughout the state and will include repainting and deck repairs. The bridges in the Thief River Falls area included in the project listed by county and described by highway location are:

Kittson county: TH 175, 3.4 miles east of TH 75, waterproof precast concrete channel deck of bridge 35509; TH 175, 6.6 miles east of TH 75, waterproof precast concrete channel deck of bridge 35510; TH 175, 6.6 miles east of TH 75, waterproof precast concrete channel deck of bridge 35506; TH 175, 8.7 miles east of TH 75, waterproof precast concrete channel deck of bridge 35507.

Marshall county: TH 89, over Moose river, 14.3 miles south of Wannaska, waterproof precast concrete channel deck of bridge 9245; TH 89, 9.4 miles south of Wannaska, over ditch, waterproof precast concrete channel deck of bridge 9236; TH 89, 8.0 miles northwest of Grygla, over Mud river, waterproof precast concrete channel deck of bridge 9348.

Polk county: TH 220, over Red Lake river in East Grand Forks, repair concrete deck and approach spans on bridge 5365; TH 175, 0.2 mile west of TH 59, waterproof precast concrete channel deck of bridge 35508.

Rural Shelter Belts Protect Against Erosion

A warning by the federal general accounting office that elimination of rural shelterbelts and windbreaks threatens serious damage to both the environment and the agricultural economy was praised recently by Agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald as excellent and timely.

"As the GAO has pointed out," he said, "we cannot overemphasize the extreme importance of tree shelterbelts in protecting against soil erosion from wind and water.

"Although the GAO warning that soil erosion is rising alarmingly where windbreaks have been removed by time and man was aimed primarily at the historic dust bowl area of Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, it fits Minnesota equally well," commissioner Wefald declared.

He said that preliminary reports from county agricultural authorities in flood stricken sections of Minnesota indicate that massive losses of food producing topsoil have occurred.

"This is the second serious incidence of soil erosion this year for much of the western half of Minnesota, which was hit last January by the blizzard of the century and subsequent severe windstorms that painted snowdrifts black with rich displaced farmland," Commissioner Wefald pointed out.

Like the dust bowl states cited in the GAO warning, Minnesota, too, has lost many of its windbreaks and shelterbelts in the erosion prone farming areas to time and the pressures of world food production demands.

"We've scrapped too many trees, hedges and grass waterways, even contour cultivation, in the race for fence to fence and shoreline to shoreline food production. We're forgetting the bitter lessons of the 1930's when the black blizzards of soil erosion destituted much of mid-America and forced one of the biggest farm family out-migrations in the nation's history," commissioner Wefald stated.

Most of Minnesota's rural windbreaks and shelterbelts were planted, like those in dust bowl states, 30 to 40 years ago.

Time and the adverse forces of nature decimated many of the neat section and fence rows of trees and shrubs that prevented flatland soils from blowing away or washing away in wind and rainstorms. Dutch elm disease has added to the destruction of trees in the country as well as in the cities.

Recent cost-rice and increased food production demands have triggered man-made destruction of many more shelterbelts and windbreaks. Farmers claimed that removal of trees increased their cropland and income potential as much as 16 acres per mile of windbreak bulldozed and burned.

"Some of the farmers who suffered heavy livestock losses in the blizzards last winter would have given a lot for the shelters that the removed windbreaks used to provide," commissioner Wefald added.

He said that Minnesota also has another common erosion problem with the dust bowl states, the introduction of center pivot irrigation on thin sandy soils. This type of irrigation requires fields clear of vertical obstructions—both trees and powerlines.

Commissioner Wefald said farmers in the developing irrigation areas should consider alternate systems now available that function around trees and powerline poles, and carefully evaluate these erosion controls as an asset instead of only as a liability.

Irrigated areas need both windbreaks and extra electrical energy. According to rural electric cooperative officials, the irrigated farm in Minnesota uses about ten times as much electricity as the average non-irrigated farm during the irrigation season.

Commissioner Wefald emphasized that not only the sandy soils and flood plains of Minnesota require maximum conservation practices. June and early July heavy rains and flooding have resulted in serious sheet and gully soil erosion on virtually a state-wide basis particularly in row crops fields.

Red River Valley erosion may be permanent damage in some of the most severely flooded counties. Gullies several feet deep and up to 65 feet wide have been reported on the comparatively flat acreages. One farmer in Comstock township of Marshall county lost 30 acres of $400 per acre land, left with a clay and rock pit where wheat had grown.

Aid Available For Removal Of Diseased Trees

A new $1.5-million subsidy program for shade tree disease control authorized by the 1975 legislature now is operational and will be retroactive on certain costs incurred by municipalities and private property owners since June 1, Peter Grills, Minnesota department of agriculture shade tree administrator, announced recently.

Detailed instruction packets explaining how municipalities and private property owners may qualify and claim cost-sharing benefits are now available on request by all interested municipalities, state-wide.

Mr. Grills also announced that it will schedule regional information meetings on the new program within the next 30 days so that public officials and interested citizens will have an opportunity to fully understand the incentives available prior to final local budget decisions.

$800,000 has been earmarked by the legislature for the state to match municipal subsidies for the cost of removing diseased shade trees from private property. The state subsidy is limited to 25 per cent of the cost of removal, or a maximum of $50 per tree, but may only match and not exceed the municipal subsidy. If municipalities take full advantage of this new program and budget matching funds, a minimum of 16,000 diseased trees removed from private property could qualify for this cost-cutting state aid.

The other $700,000 provided by the legislature to incentive stepped up local effort and increase the effectiveness of the shade tree disease control program is reserved for grants to qualifying counties and municipalities for the establishment of diseased tree recycling centers for wood utilization and disposal.

Municipalities may obtain instruction packets, application forms, and personal counseling on the new shade tree disease control subsidy programs by contacting Peter Grills, supervisor of the grant-in-aid programs, Minnesota department of agriculture, 670 state office building, St. Paul, Mn. 55155.

North Central Boardings Here Down In August

North Central airlines in Thief River Falls experienced a decrease of passengers in August as compared to last year's figures. Passengers boarding decreased by 12 per cent (from 792 to 696) and passengers deplaning showed a six per cent drop (from 779 to 732).

In contrast, North Central Airlines as a whole showed an increase of six per cent of passenger traffic during August. For the second consecutive month, traffic improved over last year. Passenger miles rose to 111.4 million from 105.4 million.

While boarding 463,602 passengers during August, three per cent over the 449,088 in 1974, the company set a single-day record with 19,347 passengers on August 8.

"National economic stability has contributed to the gains," said David E. Moran, vice president of traffic and sales. "Business travel is up, and more people are choosing domestic vacations by air."

Cargo ton miles were ahead one per cent to 1.04 million, after lagging most of the year, Moran said. Mail tons alone jumped 28 per cent. The Thief River Falls' airport also reported an increase in cargo, although no figures were given.

Results in August pushed passenger boardings for the first eight months over the three million mark and within 2.6 per cent of last year. Passenger miles are off two per cent at 703.6 million. Cargo ton miles are down 13 per cent for the period.

Fungus Control Rewarding To Minn. Farmers

Continued emphasis on the control of a costly fungus type infection of growing grain, loose smut of barley, has rewarded the state's farmers with a 1975 barley crop nearly free of the infection, reports the Minnesota department of agriculture.

Inspection of 91 fields of barley in the Red River Valley revealed 82 fields to be infection free. One field tested eight-tenths of one per cent infection, two fields were only four-tenths of one per cent infected, and the other six had only a trace.

K.L. Blanchard, agronomist in charge of the barley smut control program, said the survey results should be fairly representative of this year's barley crop, because of the number and location of fields inspected in the state's major production area.

He cautioned that the achievement can be easily lost in 1975 unless farmers continue to plant only tested seed with zero or economically minimal infection.

Farmers selecting seed stocks from their own barley production may have the lots tested by the state agency to determine the presence and rate of any infection by loose smut. The state fee charged for the barley smut test is $5.

County agricultural inspectors, county agricultural agents, and the Plant Industry division of the Minnesota department of agriculture can advise farmers on the proper selection and transmittal of seed barley for the smut test.

Authorization was given by the board for advertising for bids on the purchase of two or three school buses and one station wagon. The board also authorized the administration to purchase food items based on low bid or quality items per bids received Sept. 12, 1975. List of bid items and vendors is on file in the school district business manager's office.

Hearing On Elk Slaying Set For Friday Morning

Omnibus hearing on charges against Gordon Foss of Grygla for shooting five elk on September 6 has been scheduled for Friday at 9:30 a.m. at the courthouse in Thief River Falls, according to Harold Myhre, Marshall county attorney prosecuting the case for the state of Minnesota.

The hearing was set Monday in Hallock by Judge Warren Saetre of Thief River Falls. Approximately 40 people attended the session in Hallock. The omnibus hearing Friday is scheduled under Minnesota law which went into effect July 1 and is a preparatory step prior to trial or other disposition of the case.

Foss has indicated that he intends to seek a jury trial on the charges which are gross misdemeanors with maximum penalties of $1,000 fines or one year in jail or both. (See related photos on page 12 of this section of the Times.)

4 Criminal Cases Reach Settlement

Four criminal cases have been resolved and one added to the calendar of Pennington county district court in Thief River Falls with the term scheduled to begin late in October. Four of the 18 cases on the civil calendar have also been settled and four of the cases have been consolidated into two cases.

Only the case of the state of Minnesota vs. James Russell Thompson Jr. for theft remains on the calendar from the criminal cases originally scheduled for trial. In addition, the case of Bradley J. Broughton for burglary has been moved onto the calendar and two other cases involving burglary and possession of stolen property may also be added.

Settled out of court through plea bargaining procedures were the following:

Dennis Barry, charged with three counts ranging from attempted first degree manslaughter to attempted first degree murder, entered a plea of guilty to aggravated assault. He is being held in the Polk county jail at Crookston awaiting the result of a pre-sentence investigation ordered by the court. One of the conditions of allowing a guilty plea to the lesser charge was that he agree to stay out of Thief River Falls for five years.

Wilbert Barnhart, charged with burglary, entered a plea of guilty to theft of property less than $100 in value. He was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail with the sentence stayed and the defendant placed on one year of probation.

Sheryl Lynn Hagen, charged with aggravated robbery, pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated assault. Pre-

NCC President To Visit Area High Schools

Theodore A. Easton, president of Northland community college begins a series of visits this week to the public schools in the Northland service area. Easton will meet with superintendents, secondary school principals and counselors for the purpose of exploring ways in which Northland can increase its services to the schools and communities of northwestern Minnesota.

"It is important that Northland be viewed as an integral part of an educational process including both formal and informal education, and including all ages," stated Easton. "The community college is in a unique position to relate to secondary school programs in significant ways, and even greater cooperation between these vital segments is desirable."

He said that although northwestern Minnesota presents geographical and population problems, Northland can present its services to an ever increasing number of individuals, but the success of programs will depend largely upon the cooperation of secondary schools in the local communities involved.

"Increasingly, Northland desires to work hand in hand with the secondary schools. Cooperative efforts utilizing the talents of all levels of education will work to the benefit of the people in our service area, and the goal of these meetings with area school personnel is to help bring that about," he concluded.

City Assessments Draw Objections

Objections to proposed city assessments for the 1974 sewer and water extensions were heard during a public hearing at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday night in the city auditorium council chambers.

The extension improvements were recently completed in the southeastern area of the city including the Park addition, Narverud's first addition, Peterson's first addition, Rustad's subdivision and two unplatted sections. A per frontage foot cost of $4.80 for water and approximately $13 for sewer are included in the assessments to residents in these areas.

Assessments would be payable in equal annual installments over a 20 years period with eight per cent interest charged on all deferred installments. No interest would be charged if the entire assessment is paid within 30 days of the adoption of the assessment roll.

Passage of the assessment role was anticipated following the hearing last night, but action was delayed due to the objections of R. D. Ohlhauser, who resides and owns other property on lot 12, north of the A & W drive-in on Highway 59.

Ohlhauser's lawyer, Robert Severson of Hallock, argued that Ohlhauser's assessment was unfair for a number of reasons including: The assessment is too high to be commensurate with the benefits Ohlhauser will derive from the extensions; Ohlhauser was not allowed deferred assessments; he had already been assessed for a 1971 extension; and the city had overestimated the potential future uses for his property.

The city countered that the city assessment formula was based on the principle of dividing payments equitably among residents in the area; and the sections of his property currently being assessed were not serviced by the 1971 extension.

After about one—hour—of—

Federal Money For County Above Norm

According to a summary prepared by the Northwest Regional Development commission which detailed the amount of federal dollars spent in Region I for fiscal year 1974, Pennington county was one of four counties in the area that exceeded the average per capita outlay in Minnesota.

The average amount spent per person in the county was $1,130, compared to $1,028, the state average. Other counties above the average were Kittson, with $1,430, Norman, $1,366, and Marshall, $1,128. Polk county, with $973 and Roseau, with $807, were below the average.

Pennington county received a total of $16,277,000 from the federal government in fiscal 1974. Only Polk county, with a total of $33,943,000 received a larger allocation in Region I. Polk, however, is the only other county in the region with a larger population than Pennington's.

The largest outlay from a single federal government unit to Pennington county came from the department of Health, Education and Welfare, with a total of $6,787,000. The county also received $3,149,000 from the department of transportation and $1,461,000 from the department of agriculture, according to the report.

H.E.W. funds to the county were largely insurance payments for social security survivors, medicare supplemental medical and medicare-hospital. A total of $502,000 was provided for a medical assistance program.

Since it contains the largest population in the region, Polk county received the largest percentage of federal dollars in most cases: One notable exception was in the area of unemployment insurance. Red Lake county received a total of $355,000 in payments, which was 59.4 per cent of the entire Region I total of $598,000.

Pennington county auditor C. W. Rodekuhr questioned why Polk county received such a large majority of the revenue sharing funds. Polk received a total of $1,032,000; 38.7 per cent of the entire Region I total of $2,667,000. Revenue sharing funds to Pennington county totaled $251,000, which was 9.4 per cent of the fiscal year total.

Discovery Place Offers Education

Learning experiences which are constructively educational in nature are being provided to youngsters at the Discovery Place day care center located in Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls, according to Dick Brown, director.

Children of working parents learn to share, express themselves, develop large and small muscles and enjoy outdoor play. The program builds on home experiences and contributes to growth of well-balanced persons, Brown said.

Some of the learning experiences are to compare objects in their environment, match colors and shapes and identify properties of objects through sight, smell, touch and taste. Carpentry, cooking, music and creative crafts are among favorite planned daily activities.

Returning as director of Discovery Place, Brown has a master's degree in elementary education, has worked with young children in the VISTA program in Hawaii and taught elementary children in Baton Rouge, La.

Discovery Place is open from 6:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday

Geno Wells-Paul Johnson Exchange Marriage Vows

Approximately 350 relatives and friends gathered recently at Zion Lutheran church in this city for the wedding of Miss Geno Wells and Paul Johnson.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Ray Wells of this city and the late Ray Wells. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson, also of Thief River Falls.

Rev. Lloyd Berger officiated at the double ring ceremony. Forming the background for the bridal party were a lighted candle and floral arrangement on the altar and lighted candelabra in the chancel.

At the organ was Jerry Joringdal, who played "Ode To Joy," as the processional. Rocky Wilson, a friend of the couple, played the guitar and sang, "Wedding Song," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Follow Me."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her uncle, James Wells of Goodridge, and given in marriage by her mother. She was attired in a floor-length gown of polyester organza over acetate, styled with a modified empire bodice with an A-line skirt. French imported Chantilly lace and crystal pleating enhanced the bodice, high neckline and the bishop sleeves. Deep crystal pleating encircled the skirt and attached chapel-length train. Her only jewelry was a pair of earrings, borrowed from a friend. Her headpiece, a Chantilly trimmed bonnet, held her two tiered, lace edged, fingertip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies, yellow sweethart roses, white carnations, babies' breath and green foliage.

Jacki Kruse of this city attended her sister as matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Val Hageman of Manvel, N.D., sister of the bride; Mrs. Susan Johnson of Thief River Falls, sister-in-law of the groom; Miss Vicky Erickson of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Sandy Larson of Brainerd and Miss Ann Kuznia of Moorhead, friends of the couple. All wore identical floor-length gowns of blue floral polyester chiffon over blue dacron, featuring empire bodices with V-necklines and cape sleeves. Back interest was created by a sash that was tied into a bow. Their headpieces were light blue wide-brimmed hats with light blue ribbon streamers that hung down to the waistline. Each attendant carried a cascade of yellow daisies with babies' breath and green foliage. Their choker chains were gifts from the bride.

Wearing a gown and headpiece, similar to the bride's and carrying a miniature replica of her bridal bouquet was the flower girl, Jennifer Kruse, a niece of the bride. Her attire was made by Mrs. Helen Krause. Her jewelry consisted of a heart shaped locket, a gift from the bride. Ring bearer was Brian Johnson, a nephew of the groom. His attire and boutonniere was similar to the groom's.

Larry Johnson attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Marvin Mikkelsen, brother of the groom, Tim Peterson, Jack Hageman, Morvin Eriksson, friends of the groom, and Dan Kruse, brother-in-law of the bride. The groom wore a powder blue Windsor tuxedo with two yellow sweetheart roses pinned on his lapel. His attendants wore similar Windsor jackets and navy blue trousers. Their boutonnieres were yellow daisies.

Serving as ushers and acolytes were Brian Wells and Gary Johnson of Goodridge, cousins of the bride and groom, respectively.

The mother of the bride was attired in a yellow polyester knit, two-piece, floor-length gown topped by a yellow floral chiffon jacket. Her corsage was of yellow roses and white daisies. Wearing a similar corsage was the mother of the groom, who was attired in a pink polyester knit floor-length gown.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wells and Mrs. Alice Dahl, grandparents of the bride. Mrs. Wells was attired in a lilac floor-length gown and Mrs. Dahl wore a pink gown. They were presented with identical corsages of white daisies; and Mr. Wells was given a yellow carnation boutonniere.

A reception followed with Mr. and Mrs. Mayer Holen of Goodridge, friends of the couple, as host and hostess. Highlighting the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake decorated by a garland of daisies. Doves accented the space between the tall Wilton Roman pillars and the floral ornament that topped the cake. On either side of the cake were tall light blue tapers. Mrs. Elsie Dahl of Tower, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Gladys Grovem, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring were Mrs. Iva Wells and Mrs. Emma Olson of Goodridge, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively.

Cheryl Swanson, a friend of the couple, presided at the guest book as Mr. and Mrs. John Nowacki of Fargo, cousins of the bride, served the punch. Waitresses were friends of the couple, Ann Galliher, Gail Fuller, Deb Peterson, all of Thief River Falls, Pam Scholin of Crookston, Joyce Feragen of Rochester and Dee Goethe of St. Cloud. Misses Fuller and Goethe also presided at the gift table and Misses Feragen and Goethe served the head table. All who assisted at the reception wore blue carnation corsages, pinned by Mrs. Florence Homme, a friend of the couple.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Iris Dicken, Mrs. Millie Bakke, Mrs. Pearl Iverson, Mrs. Susie Hruby and Mrs. Eleanor Dicken.

Following the rehearsal, a luncheon was hosted by the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Wells, at the home of Mrs. Yvonne Pederson. About 30 guests were in attendance. The same group were guests at a groom's dinner hosted by the groom's parents at their home at noon the day of the wedding.

Following the wedding trip to Winnipeg, Man., Canada, the couple is now at home at 835 South Kendall. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the Moorhead Technical institute, commercial art department. She is employed by Arctic Enterprises as assistant photographer. The groom is also a graduate of Lincoln high school. He then attended Northland Community college and St. Cloud State college, where he majored in special education. He is employed by Johnson's boarding home and Hanson's rest home as M.R. Specialist. Photo, Richard Nieland, Thief River Falls

If the Shoe Fits...

How do you achieve a good shoe fit?

A good fitting shoe on a child or adult takes in many factors. One of the first factors for consideration is shoe length. Most parents are concerned whether there is enough toe room for growth. One of the most popular methods used is the rule of thumb measurement. Those using this method claim that if there is a thumb's width between the end of the large toe to the tip of the shoe, the shoe has adequate growing room. This method is really not too adequate for fitting shoes. After all not everyone has the same size thumb.

Others claim that you should have a half inch toe room. While this may be a little better guide, there is still just one best way to make sure of adequate toe room in a shoe. The following method is the one we use in our store for accurate fitting. That is, the use of the ball of the foot arch measure. The ball of the foot is the widest part of a normal foot and this should fit into the exact widest part of the shoe. Usually if the two coincide you have the start of a good fit with adequate growing room.

The POW-MIA flag to be raised during ceremonies Friday will be flown beneath the United States flag each day. Katie Anderson is chairman of the adoption day committee.

The flag raising ceremony will be brief, consisting of the pledge of allegiance led by Sam Genereux, VFW post commander; invocation and benediction by Selmer Dimmen, post chaplain; introduction of guests; and brief comments about WO1 Knutson.

Ground troops in the vicinity of Quang Tri reported seeing a UH-1H helicopter downed by enemy ground fire and that the aircraft did not burn. No further information has been received.

Following the ceremonies Friday, relatives of WO1 Knutson will be guests at a dinner to be hosted by commander Genereux and auxiliary president Maryann Myhrer at Iver's cafe. WO1 Knutson has a number of relatives living at Thief River Falls.

City Assessment Draws Objection From Residents

discussion, alderman William Penning requested that the council move on to other items in the meeting agenda. Severson was invited to state his objections in writing, and these would be considered further at the next council meeting Oct. 14.

At the request of the council, Mike Penivich, operator of the Doyle transit company in Fargo, appeared to discuss the problem of a lack of bus shelter facilities for persons arriving on a transit company bus at 10 p.m., when the company's regular facilities are closed.

Penivich quelled the council's concern by announcing arrangements he had recently made with the management of the Thief River and Pennington hotels for temporary shelter for bus patrons. The lobbies of these establishments will be available for shelter. If overnight accommodations are necessary, these will also be provided.

The council agreed to consider a request by Larry Quillin, of Quillin and Associates, for the expenditure of special city promotional funds to pay 15 per cent of the yearly cost for 13 promotional billboards. The council will also consider adopting the sign slogan "Everybody is Somebody in Thief River Falls", as the city's official theme.

The council agreed to waive platting requrements for the transfer of 33 acres of land from Ken Beauchane to John Halsa. The land is located north of the city on the west side of county road 75. Also passed was an ordinance officially annexing 5.9 acres of Art Stordahl property to the city.

Three planning commission recommendations were passed including: Granting of a variance to Evan Armstrong for a combination beauty shop and residence on property located directly behind the Country Kitchen and adjacent to Greenwood street; re-zoning of lots 22 and 23 and part of a Meehan's addition lot for a dental office building and residence for Dr. Thomas Dimich, who is purchasing the property from Mark Goodrich; and preliminary approval to a Henry Johnson subdivision plat.

A request from police chief Kenneth Froschheiser was granted for placement of pedestrian warning signs and painting of a crosswalk at 13th and Main.

One Power Line Proposed Under New Agreement

With its plans for a western Minnesota power line postponed indefinitely, Northern States power company has signed a new letter of intent with Manitoba Hydro of Winnipeg and a separate letter of intent with Minnesota Power and Light company of Duluth for the construction of an initial single, 500 kv transmission line between Winnipeg and a point near the Twin Cities.

The new letter of intent supersedes a similar agreement between NSP and Manitoba Hydro which called for two 500 kilovolt lines, one located in the western portion of Minnesota and the other in the east. The project was reduced to the single eastern line because of escalating production costs, according to David F. McElroy, NSP president and chairman of the board.

NSP had obtained corridor designation from the Minnesota Environmental Quality Council (MEQC) for a western line that would cross the Canadian border at Kittson county, run straight south through Pennington county, turn southeast after reaching the Fargo-Moorhead area and eventually terminate in Sherburne county.

The purpose of the project is to enable NSP to buy surplus electricity from Manitoba Hydro's plants during the summer to service the heavy NSP power demands, and for Manitoba Hydro to purchase power from NSP during the Canadian winter demand peaks or during periods of low water flow.

The eastern line would tie into the Minnesota Power and Light system near Forbes on the Mesabi iron range, thereby strengthening the present transmission network and allowing additional interchange of electrical power between MP&L and NSP.

Under the new agreement for the estimated $200 million interconnection, NSP may purchase 200 megawatts of generating capacity each summer from Manitoba Hydro for a 13 week period beginning in 1980. The two companies would exchange an additional 300 megawatts on a seasonal basis. A formal contract is anticipated later this year.

NSP will ask the MEQC to designate a corridor for the northern portion of the line. Generally the corridor would travel from the international border in Roseau county to a substation near Forbes, where it would join the MP&L line.

In July the MEQC designated a corridor, requested by the MP&L, for the southern portion of the 500-kv line running from a substation near Forbes to Chisago county. From there it would continue on as a 345-kv line and tie into the NSP system.

MARRIAGE VOWS were exchanged by Dorothy Barbre of Palm Springs, Calif., and Victor Sandberg of Middle River on Monday, Sept 22, at the First Lutheran church in Middle River. Rev. Donald Fredine, pastor of the church, officiated. Attendants were Mrs. Elsie Christofferson, sister of the bride, and Joe Wirak, a friend.

Converter On 1975 Cars Could Be Fire Hazard

A 1975 model car with a catalytic converter parked on the high dry grass of autumn could present a serious potential fire hazard, the state fire marshal's office reported recently.

Repeating an earlier warning based on preliminary data, the fire marshal's office cited information received from the insurance institute for highway safety (IIHS) which suggests that the extremely high operating temperature of the converters (1,200-1,300 degrees fahrenheit) could ignite easily combustible material such as dry grass.

With Minnesota's hunting season starting in mid-September, the fire marshal's office asked that owners of new model cars with the catalytic converter be particularly wary when parking their vehicles in the field; avoiding dry grass or brush which could ignite after contact with the converter.

Tests by the U.S. forest service indicate that the problem could escalate in the future if the new model cars are operated under conditions of less than favorable engine maintenance. A misfiring spark plug for instance, will allow a supply of raw fuel to reach the converter, causing a rapid rise in converter temperature as well as a temperature rise in all exhaust system components extending from it.

The extremely high operating temperature of the device also dictates that it should be allowed to cool before any repair or maintenance is attempted in its proximity. Contact with the converter could result in instantaneous severe burns.

Beltrami County American Party To Hear Lamkin

American party in Beltrami county, organized in May, will hold its first dinner on Saturday. Serving will start at 6 p.m. and continue to 7:30 p.m. at the St. Joseph's parish hall located 10 miles north of Blackduck on highway 72, then five miles east of Busy Corners on highway 1.

Allan Lamkin, Waconia attorney and 1974 Minnesota attorney general candidate of the American party, will speak after the dinner. Question and answer session will follow a short speech.

County chairman Frederick Frenzel of Kelliher explained the event is being held to further acquaint area voters with the aims, platform and activities of the American Party.

Frenzel went on to add that area conservatives are seeking ways to resolve issues such as regionalism, land-use, peat mining, confiscatory taxation, gun control and the recently uncovered plans of legislators whereby the state of Minnesota would act as entrepreneur in the heretofore private business sector.

Advance ticket sales are available from American Party members or tickets may be purchased at the door. For more information call 681-3225 Mrs. L. Carpenter, American party seventh district chariman, Thief River Falls.

Placements By Employment Service Decline

Despite a 38 per cent increase in initial unemployment insurance claims from last fiscal year, job placements by the Minnesota department of employment services (MDES) declined by only 4.8 per cent during fiscal 1975.

MDES commissioner Emmet J. Cushing reported that 93,072 persons were placed in jobs during fiscal 1975. MDES area offices accepted 222,453 new applications for work, conducted 15,134 job counseling interviews and made over 45,000 employer job development contacts.

While agricultural placements represented only 12 per cent of total placements, they accounted for 76 per cent of the 4,709 placement decrease from fiscal 1974. Nonagricultural placements totaled 81,464 in fiscal 1975 compared to 82,612 in fiscal 1974, down only 1.4 per cent during a period characterized by economic downturn.

The department also cooperates with the Department of public welfare in administering the Work incentive program (WIN), which assists members of families receiving aid for families with dependent children in obtaining jobs or job training. During fiscal 1975, 9,594 persons participated in the WIN program. Of these, 1,429 were enrolled in skill and classroom training; 249 in work experience training; 478 in on-the-job training; and 306 in public service employment. Win participants entering employment in fiscal 1975 totaled 3,065.

For the department's unemployment insurance division, fiscal 1975 was the busiest year on record. Initial unemployment insurance claims totaled 274,848, an increase of 75,747 from the 199,101 of fiscal 1974. A record 2,628,251 weeks of unemployment insurance were claimed, up 861,229 from the 1,767,022 of fiscal 1974. For the Twin Cities metro area, the 130,579 initial claims of fiscal 1975 were up 50 per cent over last year and the number of weeks of unemployment insurance claimed totaled 1,218,350, a 70 per cent increase from fiscal 1974.

In addition to the regular unemployment insurance programs, several extended benefit programs became effective in fiscal 1975 to combat the recession and assist claimants who had exhausted their regular benefits. The extended benefits program, paid when regular benefits are exhausted, became effective Jan. 26, 1975. By the end of the fiscal year, 39,850 initial claims had been filed and 259,753 weeks of benefits had been claimed under this program. Another 12,004 initial claims and 65,941 weeks of benefits resulted from the Federal Supplemental Benefits program, which is paid when regular and extended benefits are exhausted.

An extension to the federal supplemental benefits program accounted for 2,311 initial claims and 6,539 weeks of benefits. Workers not ordinarily covered by unemployment insurance were provided assistance through the special unemployment assistance program, which accounted for 1,278 initial claims and 16,275 weeks of benefits.

Food Stamps Are Haven For Union Strikers

Federal food stamp program is reeling under the heaviest barrage of criticism since its inception more than a decade ago, reports the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Secretary of the treasury William E. Simon, in a recent speech, called the program "a well known haven for chiselers and rip off artists."

Carl B. Williams, a top official of the department of health, education and welfare, also said recently: "In effect, the government is giving away billions of dollars with virtually no control."

What began as a well-intentioned program in 1962 at a cost of less than $1 million a year has mushroomed into a gigantic giveaway. This year $6.6 billion in stamps will be distributed to nearly 20 million Americans under a system which is failing to make sure that the money goes to citizens who really need it.

Obviously, reform is long overdue and the agriculture committees of Congress have promised investigations and reform, the COFC states. One logical starting point, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States contends, is elimination of food stamps for strikers.

The chamber has been carrying on a fight for years against use of taxpayers' funds to help finance strikes.

A step in that direction was taken by Caspar W. Weinberger in one of his last acts as HEW secretary when he proposed a new regulation barring federal welfare aid to strikers in states where strikers are not eligible for unemployment benefits. The chamber urged HEW to adopt the proposed rule.

By any measure, food stamps are another form of financial aid to strikers at taxpayers' expense. Surveys show that during an auto workers' strike several years ago more than 40 per cent of the strikers in the state of Michigan were receiving food stamps.

Dispensing food stamps and welfare to strikers, the chamber maintains, undermines the collective bargaining process by upsetting the natural balance of power between management and labor unions.

Thus, strikes are prolonged, often at the expense of consumers.

Strikes are willful union actions, and unions should pay strike benefits, not the taxpayers.

Consumers pay twice when public funds are used to subsidize strikers—once when their taxes pay the cost of food stamps or direct welfare and once again when they purchase goods that reflect the cost of higher wage settlements.

So many abuses exist in the food stamp program that it is rapidly becoming a national scandal. Congress must act quickly—before the program gets completely out of control and new schemes are devised to exploit its weakness.

Motor Vehicle Deputy Registrar Schools Slated

Over 400 motor vehicle deputy registrars and their assistants have pre-registered th attend the annual one-day training sessions to be held in St. Paul in October, Mary Williams, director of the division of motor vehicles announced this week. Pennington county office will be represented at the session.

The schools, sponsored by the division of motor vehicles, will be held on 11 different days from October 6 through 21. In contrast to other years when the meetings were held in various communities throughout the state, this year's workshops will all be held in the highway building in St. Paul.

In some instances this may mean that some deputy registrars' offices will be closed for a day while staff members attend the meeting. The Pennington office will remain open, however, and operate with limited personnel.

In addition to the regular discussions on the finer points of vehicle registration and taxation, this year's workshops will cover the new laws governing truck and trailer registration.

There are 140 deputy registrar offices located throughout the state to handle the registration needs of Minnesota's vehicle owners. At these locations and two state operated license bureaus in St. Paul, over 3 million vehicles are registered annually. Car owners now re-register their vehicles during a nine-month period from March through November under a staggered registration system, and all other vehicles are registered in the remaining three months, December, January and February.

School Lunch Important For Child Nutrition

Nutrition and the foods students eat play an important part in today's learning laboratories, our nation's schools. During national school lunch week, October 12-18, students across the country will eat an "All American" meal.

ASFSA's universal menu on Wednesday, October 15, highlights the week's activities but more importantly presents a lesson in nutrition and an opportunity for parents, teachers, general public and students to learn the value of good nutrition and balanced meals.

This year's menu which includes a cheeseburger, crispy potatoes, coleslaw, peaches and milk, is an example of the well balanced, nutritious meals served everyday in 88,000 school lunch programs. These meals are referred to, by the USDA, as type A lunches.

The type A lunch students eat at school furnishes at least one-third or more of the recommended dietary allowances of the nutrients boys and girls need each day. A well-nourished student functions better than a poorly nourished one. The food they eat each day makes a difference in the way they look, the way they feel and how well they grow and learn.

In today's society where mothers often go to work before their child leaves for school in the morning, the first well-balanced meal he will receive after 18 hours is the school lunch. It is this food that is eaten which builds bodies and maintains health. These foods include choices from all of the food groups of the daily food guide plus a specified amount of butter or fortified margarine.

Researchers have found that when breakfast was omitted, students took longer to make decisions, were less steady and their work output decreased. This study alone indicates that breakfast is a very important meal. If a child does not eat an adequate lunch he will then be unable to adequately apply himself during the whole school day.

Different foods provide different nutrients needed by the body. It is a combination of these nutrients that are needed for good health and normal growth. No one food contains all the nutrients in the amounts needed by the body. Therefore, this wide selection of a variety of foods together will supply the necessary nutrients. The school lunch includes foods which supply these needed nutrients and energy for growing bodies.

More Efficient Agriculture: Aid To Sick Economy

A continued rapid growth in agriculture is the right medicine for a healthier economy, says a University of Minnesota researcher:

"Agriculture is a prime candidate for rapid growth, especially in exports," says UM agricultural economist Lee R. Martin.

This country should focus more upon the less energy intensive activities for a healthy economic development, says Martin.

"More energy intensive activities could grow less rapidly, and less energy intensive activities could grow more rapidly.

"Such an approach would favor economic development, with even more emphasis on efficiency. Rapid growth activities would fit this approach if they were less energy intensive."

How much energy does agriculture use?

Of the energy used in 1970 to get food on the table, the household preparation of the food took 30 per cent of the energy, processing the food took 33 per cent of the energy, transportation and wholesale and retail trade took 19 per cent of the energy, and agriculture took 18 per cent of the total energy to get food on the table.

Using the available 1970 data for this breakdown of energy use, Martin points out that in that same year agriculture used three per cent, or less, of the total energy used in the U.S. economy.

Honey Bees Die From Disease And Starvation

Honey bees in commercial hives take their medicine with spoonfuls of sugar. They need both the medicine and the sugar to live, but last winter high sugar prices cut into honey bees' food and medicine supply and many starved, or died of disease.

Beekeepers mix bee medicine, Fumidil B, with table sugar and water. This treatment prevents Nosema, a disease caused by microscopic animals which give bees ulcers and kill bees.

University of Minnesota entomologist Basil Furgala believes that many bee colonies did not receive enough treatment last fall because beekeepers could not afford enough sugar.

"If sugar prices drop back, Minnesota beekeepers should be okay by this fall," says the Minnesota scientist.

The biggest threats to the health of honey bees in Minnesota, says Furgala, are starvation and disease.

Bees starve during the winter when the beekeeper mistakenly either leaves too little food in the hive or fails to properly organize the bees' food.

During the early 1970's nearly one-fourth of the wintered colonies perished during the Minnesota winters and early springs, says Furgala.

If proper practices are followed, the losses shouldn't exceed five per cent, he says.

Bees keep from freezing during winter by forming a cluster which contracts more as the weather gets colder. The cluster must be able to maintain contact with honey at all times. Easy access to honey is especially crucial in extremely cold weather when bees require more food to maintain warmth and are unable to move to food elsewhere in the hive without freezing.

Boy Scouts Of America Active In United Way

Northern Lights council, Boy Scouts of America is part of more than 70 United Way and Community Fund organizations in the 74 county area served by the council. Locally, the Thief River Falls United Way allocated $5,800 for the past year to the Northern Lights council. Other major United Way organizations helping to fund the Boy Scout council budget are the Fargo-Moorhead-Dilworth-West Fargo United Way, the United Way of Grand Forks, East Grand Forks and area, the United Fund of Greater Minot, the United Fund of Bismarck and funds in the North Dakota communities of Jamestown, Valley City, Grafton, Dickinson, Devils Lake, and Williston. Other major funds from Minnesota are Fergus Falls and Alexandria.

These funds provide allocations from $4,000 to $55,000 for the needs of the scouting program in the entire state of North Dakota, 18 counties of Minnesota and a few counties in Montana and South Dakota. In addition to the above funds, there are over 60 other community funds that provide amounts less than $4,000.

Forty-five per cent of the Northern Lights council, Boy Scouts of America budget for 1976 of $610,000 is provided by allocations from the above funds. Fifty-one per cent comes from the council's annual sustaining member enrollment and four per cent from other miscellaneous sources such as the council trust fund and activity income.

Program services made possible by United Way support of the Boy Scouts of America are four long term summer camps, and four council service centers that provide badges, literature and record keeping for the Scout leaders. Also provided is a staff of fourteen district executives that train leaders and work with a large volunteer group of men and women who conduct district-wide activities. They also organize new packs, troops, and explorer posts, insure the continuity of existing units, promote and help units with their advancemant programs and provide many other services.

Says Governor May Have Abused Executive Order

Senate minority leader Robert Ashbach recently expressed his support for a Senate investigation into the possible misuse of the governor's power of executive order. Senator Edward Gearty, chairman of the governmental operations committee, has scheduled a subcommittee hearing on the issue for September 30.

Ashbach said that his study of executive orders during the last 30 years shows that Gov. Wendell Anderson has issued nearly as many as his seven predecessors combined.

While acknowledging that the state statutes and constitution clearly grant some of the governor's executive order power, Ashbach said that expressed authority for the vast majority of orders issued by Anderson could be found in neither.

"The constitution provides the governor with certain unchecked powers in times of emergencies," Ashbach said. "He can call out the national guard, search for lost persons, call for special legislative sessions, and the like. But nowhere does it state specifically that the governor has the power to do many of the things he has been doing lately, such as establishing numerous councils and commissions which are sometimes in direct opposition to legislative intent."

Ashbach said that Anderson has appointed 40 councils and commissions since 1971, which is more than four times the combined total of his immediate seven predecessors. Anderson's appointments have included more than 400 persons.

"While there is nothing inherently wrong in appointing a commission to study some aspect of state government, the potential for abuse is obvious, especially when such power cannot be checked by the legislature," Ashbach said, noting that appointments to prestigious committees—that sometimes pay expenses and mileage—can be a handy way of rewarding political supporters.

Ashbach listed some specific examples of what he believed to be the most flagrant misuses of executive power: —The establishment of a state office of human services with the capability of distributing $900,000 of state funds. —The establishment of a state office of volunteer services which was considered by the legislature but not adopted. —The establishment of councils such as the Rural development council which functions virtually unchecked even though its 36 members annually allocate $500,000 in the state, using proceeds from invested federal funds.

"I think it is vitally important that Minnesotans be made aware of this important power of the governor," Ashbach said, "and I certainly think it is a suitable subject for a legislative investigation."

Hunting, Fishing Day Proclaimed By TRF Mayor

Mayor Robert Carlson of Thief River Falls has officially proclaimed Saturday as hunting and fishing day for this community as part of a nationwide observance.

"Because of the outstanding contributions that America's hunters and fishermen have made to conservation, recreation and the economy, they are deserving of special recognition," the Mayor's proclamation states.

"Since the turn of the century, hunters and anglers have been the leaders in nearly all major conservation programs. These sportsmen-conservationists are responsible for the founding of state fish and game departments in all 50 states and asked that they be required to buy licenses to support state conservation agencies. In the last 50 years alone, they have provided $2.5 billion for conservation programs.

"Hunters and fishermen asked for the establishment of regulated seasons and bag limits so that sportsmen could harvest the annual crop of game and fish without damage to the basic breeding population," he added. "The result has been that there are now more deer, elk, antelope and wild turkeys in the United States than there were 50 years ago. Furthermore, sportsmen's programs have benefitted numerous non-game fish and wildlife through habitat development.

"I urge all of our citizens to join with sportsmen-conservationists in a rededication to the wise use of our natural resources and their proper management for the benefit of future generations," the mayor's proclamation stated.

Letters to the Editor

Department Store Owners Everywhere!

When was the last time you had a meal? Last night? This morning? When was the last time you had your house cleaned? When was the last time you cleaned the cages of the animals you have in your store and gave them fresh food and water? When was the last time that you checked and made sure that they were well and the babies had not been abandoned?

How would you like to wake up and see one of your family or your neighbors dead with part of their face eaten off? Sounds pretty gross, doesn't it? Well, how do you think the people feel when they come into your store and see one of the animals lying there dead because the other occupant was hungry that that was all he had to eat. Pretty sickening thought, isn't it.

Make this check list out now and check your pets to see if: (1) The birds, rabbits, gerbels, and hamsters have fresh food and fresh water; (2) Their cages are clean; (3) There are no dead fish floating on top; (4) The fish tanks are clean and the food is fresh.

If you can honestly say that each of these points apply to your pets in your store, then you're a good person. However, should there be one thing that isn't right, you had better get yourself in gear and correct it NOW! Because if you can't take better care of those poor animals, then you shouldn't be allowed to handle them in your store. You are really creating a bad image for your store and giving those that care for the animals a bad name. I just hope it's not too late for you.

A concerned citizen,

BSU Bald Eagle Center Offers Outdoor Classes

If the stuffy confinement of a school classroom has dulled your thirst for knowledge, Bald Eagle outdoor learning center has come up with an alternative style of education for you.

Bald Eagle center is offering a wide variety of classes to members of the college and community this fall. Divided into four categories of outdoor living, outdoor learning, folkways, and high adventure, all classes can be taken for undergraduate or graduate credit. Most courses run for a weekend and fees include tuition, two nights lodging at the center and six meals.

In the area of outdoor living, a course for parents with their children, as well as individuals, "Skills for Outdoor Living," will be offered October 17-19. There will be a variety of challenging outdoor living activities with an emphasis on the area of interpersonal communication.

Outdoor learning offers more conventional subjects in a very unconventional setting and presentation method. "Outdoor Learning for Pre-School and Primary Children," will be held October 17-19. Parents and teachers with their children will explore non-traditional environments which will help them develop a greater sensitivity to nature.

Also on October 17-19 "Outdoor Learning for Students with Special Learning Disabilities-Behavior Problems" will be held.

Along with helping children to establish a positive attitude towards learning, this course will also assist teachers in designing more effective methods which utilize the outdoors.

"Outdoor Learning with Nature's Art," a class studying the designs and elements of nature's art as well as working with jewelry making, basket weaving and printing will be offered October 24-26. A class on nature photography will also be held on those dates.

Outdoor learning classes in language-arts, November 7-9, social studies, November 15-17, and mathematics, November 21-23, will be offered in a unique setting.

Folkways offers a "series of weekend folkart courses for everyday people." October 17-19 "Wawashkeski: The Deer," a course on skinning and preparing a deer for eating as well as the history and folklore of the deer, and "Cooking with Whole Grains," where class members will grind grain into flour or meal for baking bread and cakes, will be offered.

"Leathercraft" and "Spinning" will be held on October 24-26. On November 7-9 "Shaping Wooden Utensils" and "Candle and Soap Making" will be in session. "Wooden Toys" will be taught at the center November 15-17 as well as "Weaving." On November 21-23 "The Art of Carving Decoys" will be taught.

High adventure courses, people confronting nature, will include a course in kayaking, October 2-5. As well as teaching fundamental skills, the class will feature a brief encounter with white water kayaking.

Other five day courses will include "Rock Climbing," "Wilderness Survival," and "Orienteering-For Survival and Sport." These classes will be held November 21-25.

Registration forms should be sent to the Bald Eagle outdoor learning center at least ten days prior to the beginning of the course. For more information contact: Robert St. Peters, director at 218-665-2707.

Area FmHA Loans In Fiscal Year Top 4.9 Million

County Farmers Home Administration Supervisor Loren Luschen has reported that the Thief River Falls FmHA office, serving Pennington and Red Lake Counties, has made direct loans totaling $4,977,132.00 for the 1975 fiscal year that ended on June 30, 1975. This is an increase of slightly over 2.8 million over the previous fiscal year.

Luschen said that emergency loans accounted for 122 of the number of loans approved. Emergency loans, made to farmers this past fiscal year due to a late spring, totaled $1,392,550.00.

The second biggest area in FmHA farmer programs was under operating loans which are made to enable farmers to purchase livestock, machinery, crop imputs, and to refinance debts. A total of 61 of these loans were approved totaling $837,100.00. Also approved were 12 farm ownership loans, totaling $485,000.00, for the purchase of additional land or construction of farm service buildings.

Rural housing loans totaling $272,482.00 were made to 15 families to assist them in the purchase or construction of a new house. Luschen reported that housing activity for the first two months of the current fiscal year has already exceeded that for the 1975 fiscal year.

He added that 36 new farm families were assisted by the FmHA this past fiscal year by virtue of a farm ownership loan or an operating loan. Luschen also reported the following breakdown as to the age category of people receiving ther first loan from the FmHA: Farm ownership—ages 18-29, 25 per cent; 30-39, 75 per cent; 40 and over, 0 per cent; operating loans—ages 18-29, 31 per cent; 30-39, 44 per cent; 40 and over, 25 per cent; rural housing loans—ages 18-29, 73 per cent; 30-39, 20 per cent; 40 and over, 7 per cent.

The FmHA also has authority to subordinate its mortgage on certain loans to enable the borrower to secure conventional credit. The FmHA may also make a simultaneous loan in certain cases where another lender cannot meet all of the borrower's needs. Called participation loans, private lenders participated with FmHA on 13 such loans this past fiscal year in the amount of $377,700.00

Luschen reported that a substantial portion of the 4.9 million loan was in the form of a two million dollar loan to Thief River Falls for a new medical office building. He further stated that even without this large loan, the office would have shown a growth in loans approved in excess of $800,000. This loan was made available under the authorities of the community facilities loan program created as a result of the rural development act of 1972.

Luschen stated that the above programs do not reflect all of the funds made available through their office. Loans were made possible under the business and industrial program totaling $1,285,000. Loans under the emergency livestock program were also guaranteed totaling $28,000. These loans originate with local lenders who develop the loan under the guidelines set up by FmHA.

Luschen said that considering the guaranteed portion of the program and the participation loans by other lenders, $6,667,832 of rural credit was made available in fiscal 1975 through the local office in Thief River Falls.

Engelman Selected NCC Coach

Northland community college took a big step forward Tuesday as the school prepared itself to field its first intercollegiate football team in the fall of 1976.

Chet Engelman was officially named head football coach at Northland in a Tuesday morning news conference. We feel the choice of Engelman as coach was an excellent decision.

It was a bit obvious Engelman had the inside track on the job all along: he has college playing experience; has high school coaching experience; he knows the northwestern Minnesota area well (recruiting); and he is already on the school faculty.

In our opinion, Chet Engelman is one fine coach. He has proved his coaching ability in basketball, especially in recent years when his outstanding state tournament teams have drawn national attention to the school.

Engelman will continue to coach basketball and baseball at Northland as well as his new football responsibilities. It's a big load, but it can be done. It is, in fact, being done now at some MJCAA schools.

New Northland president Dr. Theodore Easton seems just as excited as Engelman at the prospects of football at the school. "The image of the college goes along with sports," said Dr. Easton. "We're on the upsurge here, and we hope our football program will continue to push us in the right direction."

Cost of initiating a new football program is admittedly high, but student fees and state funds will cover the new bills. "We're going to have to invest some money," said Dr. Easton, "but I think the returns will be greater than the investments."

With the program now off the ground, community support will be a big factor in the success of the sport at the school. With the right kind of community backing, football could be a huge success at Northland.

Fans should thoroughly enjoy watching football on a community college level. The quality of play in the Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) football conference is exceptionally strong. Minnesota teams are nearly always found among the nation's top ten ranked junior college football teams.

A post-season playoff game matching the Northern and Southern Division champions is played each year at the University of Minnesota Memorial Stadium in Minneapolis. Minnesota state champions have played and performed well in national bowl games for several years.

The current MJCAA football membership includes Crookston, Mesabi, Vermilion, Hibbing, Fergus Falls, Brainerd, Itasca and Golden Valley in the Northern Division and North Hennepin, Anoka-Ramsey, Austin, Rochester, Willmar, Waseca, Worthington, Inver Hills, Lakewood and Normandale in the Southern Division. Northland will in all likelihood be placed in the Northern Division.

Strandemo At Bemidji State

Jim Strandemo, twice NJCAA Region XIII golf medalist with the Northland community college golf team, is now a member of the Bemidji State University golf squad.

Strandemo was a star performer on two exceptionally strong Northland golf teams that won region titles and played in NJCAA national tournaments in 1974 and 1975.

Strandemo, a Mahnomen high school graduate, joined former high school teammate Paul Hanson on the Bemidji team this fall. Hanson was rated Bemidji's most consistent performer during the spring season by coach Dave Lehmen. Hanson won four meet medalist honors in spring golf for the Beavers.

Open Date On 1975 Schedule

Prowler Football Team Trying To Heal, Improve

Lincoln high school football coach Jim Sims, whose team is faced with an open date on its 1975 schedule this week, has yet to decide if the break in action is good or bad for his Prowlers.

Thief River Falls crushed Breckenridge 35-0 last week to close out its nonconference season schedule. However, an open date this week will delay the start of the Prowler Northwest Conference schedule until Bemidji invades Thief River Falls for a big NWAC game Fri., Oct. 3, a game designated as the 1975 Lincoln homecoming.

The week of semi-inactivity has both its good and bad points, explained Sims. "We've got some kids who have to heal up yet, and from that standpoint the open date is good," said Sims. "But we still don't know how it will affect us overall."

The Prowler injury list is relatively small, but the injuries have been sustained to key ball players. Still hobbling are runningbacks Doug Dallmann and Mike Jury. Dallmann injured a shoulder in a 26-15 loss at St. Cloud Apollo September 12. Jury has been sidelined with knee problems since Thief River Falls' 25-14 season-opening loss at Grand Forks Red River way back on August 29. Dallmann "is responding to treatment," said Sims, but the jury is still out on Jury.

The Prowlers themselves have been taking this week at a more or less leisurely pace. The teams had the day off Monday and will be excused from practice again Friday and Monday.

"We're spending this week trying to get everybody healthy and working to improve ourselves in every department," said Sims.

Reflecting upon a 2-2 record midway through the 1975 season, Sims pointed out both good and not-so-good Prowler performances to date. "I don't like to see 14 fumbles where we lose eight of them," he began. "We would like to pick up our punting game a bit and we'll have to get a little more productive offensively in the third quarter. Our running game has been pretty decent, though."

Thief River Falls' 1975 season will be finished with four straight demanding Northwest Conference games. Following the Bemidji confrontation, the Prowlers will travel to Fergus Falls, visit East Grand Forks and host Crookston.

Chet Engelman Selected As Northland Football Coach

Chet Engelman was named head football coach at Northland community college in a Tuesday morning news conference at the school.

Engelman was named coach of the new program by Northland president Dr. Theodore (Alex) Easton. Also present at the news conference were Northland dean of students Ken Wiebolt, dean of instruction Bill Kottke and athletic director Al Adams.

It was announced earlier that Northland will field its first intercollegiate football team in the fall of 1976. Upon routine approval, Northland will become a member of the Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) football conference. It is expected Northland will be placed in the MJCAA Northern Division along with Crookston, Itasca, Vermillion, Mesabi, Hibbing, Brainerd, Fergus Falls and Golden Valley.

Engelman is now head coach of three varsity sports at Northland. He has directed the Northland basketball team for the past five years and has coached baseball here for three years.

A graduate of Howard Lake high school, Engelman played football at the University of Northern Colorado and served as an assistant football coach at Palm Dale, California, high school.

"I think adding football to our program is an important thing," commented Engelman. "I've always liked coaching football. It's going to be a challenge, but I think it's going to be lots of fun."

Recruiting chores are Engelman's immediate concern. "We'll start recruiting emmediately," said Engelman. "We know there's some good football players in the area and we're going to try to get as many of them as we possibly can." Engelman expects a squad numbering about 45 ball players to be on hand next fall.

A Slot I offense and an Oklahoma 52 defense will probably be used by the Northmen, said Engelman who will be aided by two funded assistant coaches along with a possible addition of one or two nonfunded assistant coaches—graduate assistants.

Northland will play a 1976 schedule consisting of eight MJCAA Northern Conference games. "Saturday afternoon games are preferred by most (MJCAA) schools because of the distance and travel time," offered Adams.

"We're really looking forward to this (football)," commented Dr. Easton. "We're looking for a first class program—something to give the school a collegiate atmosphere in the fall. We hope every ball player in northwestern Minnesota looks at us. If we can keep the kids home there's a real opportunity to play here."

Wiebolt explained that serious discussion concerning a football program at Northland began in January, although there had been talk of the sport here for quite some time. "Members of the faculty, students and the advisory committee all had an input into the implementation of football," said Wiebolt. "And there were no negative reactions."

No current Northland activity—music, theatre, athletics or newspaper—will be drooped to make room for football, it was emphatically pointed out. "We feel with football, we'll be able to better serve our service area of 45 (high) schools," stressed Wiebolt.

With the addition of Northland, every MJCAA member school will field a football team in 1976 except Rainy River community college at International Falls.

It was pointed out that from a percentage stand-point, Minnesota leads the nation in football participation among junior or community colleges. "Other states are looking at Minnesota as a model for their football programs," noted Adams.

The quality of MJCAA football was also praised by the group. "At worst, Crookston is probably the fifth or sixth best football team in the state of Minnesota," quipped Engelman, "and that includes the University of Minnesota and all the other four-year schools as well as the community colleges."

Dr. Easton explained Northland's football coaching position was not openly advertised. "We felt we had a man (Engelman) capable of handling it."

Thief River Falls surprised favored Bemidji Tuesday to win first place honors in a nine-team invitational cross country meet held at Bagley.

Cardinals 4-0 In North Tri County

Plummer Heads Into 1975 Homecoming Undefeated

Undefeated Plummer will try to maintain its lofty position atop the North Division standings in the North Tri County football conference Friday when the Cardinals host Erskine in the 1975 Pershing high school homecoming. The game will have a 7:30 p.m. starting time.

Other area North Tri County Conference games this week will find Goodridge traveling to Mentor for a 1:15 p.m. game while Grygla visits Oklee for a 7:30 p.m. contest.

Marshall County Central will play a 7:30 p.m. Top of the State Conference game at Kennedy Friday.

Last week's North Tri County Conference results found Plummer beating Grygla 27-0, Oklee downed Middle River 28-8, Gonvick stopped Mentor 28-10, Erskine defeated Goodridge 20-6 and McIntosh-Winger edged Clearbrook 20-14.

In Top of the State Conference games last week, Roseau blanked Newfolden 36-0, Karlstad shutout Greenbush 14-0, Kennedy got by East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 12-8, Crookston Cathedral outlasted Stephen 22-20, Warroad beat Argyle 26-8 and Hallock tipped Lake of the Woods-Baudette 8-0.

Plummer hopes to earn its fifth straight season-opening win this week when the Cardinals tackle the Comets. Plummer has stamped itself as a serious North Tri County pennant contender, but the Cardinals are still wary of title thoughts since the "meat" portion of the 1975 season is still ahead.

Plummer will be favored this week against Erskine and again next week when the Cardinals play winless Mentor. But the Cardinals close out the year with three grueling games against league powers McIntosh, Middle River and Oklee. Those games will undoubtedly decide Plummer's pennant hopes.

Brantl cites several different reasons for his ball club's early season success. "We've been getting excellent leadership from our co-captains Dave Walter and Steve Rosten," he began. "Those two players really take the (captain) position seriously. They've really been a big help keeping everybody fired up."

On the physical side of things, Brantl cited his team's speed as a major contributing factor to a 4-0 record. "We've got good speed. The kids aren't big, but they're all quick."

Brantl warns his players not to look past Erskine or Mentor. "We can't look ahead," he stresses. "We have to look at each game as a championship game. Our next game is always our most important game."

The Plummer coach remembers 1974 when his team found itself in a similar situation with a fast start. But a four game season-ending losing streak all but spoiled the season.

"We hope we can keep it going," quipped Brantl. "We're healthy and for the first time in a long time we have some depth."

Regular season North and South Division champions will clash in the post-season North Tri County Conference playoff game Fri., Oct. 31, at Oklee. Plummer, of course, would like nothing better than to be a part of that playoff game.

Erickson ran 15 yards for a second quarter touchdown to put Thief River Falls ahead 14-8.

A 45-yard run by Tim Loeffler, followed by a conversion pass to Dave Poole made it a 22-8 game in the third quarter.

Soil tests this season can produce higher yields next year.

Because...soil testing will tell you where to put plant food to grow the most crop.

Soil tests will give you an accurate reading of primary and secondary plant food levels. They may show that some fields need only a light application for maximum crop development. What you save can be applied to fields where it's badly needed.

Call your CENEX Crop Monitor. He'll help with a soil sampling program that pays off in more crop.

Oct. 3 Deadline For City PP&K Registrations

Registrations for Thief River Falls punt, pass and kick competition, open to youngsters 8 to 13 years old, will be accepted at Tunberg Motor Company, through Friday, October 3. The contest is tentatively scheduled to be held October 8 at the Lincoln high school athletic field.

Contestants, accompanied by a parent or guardian, can register at the Tunberg showroom during business hours. There is no entry fee. Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third place in each of the six age groups. Competition will be strictly limited to age groups, and there will be no body contact.

Scoring is based on distance and accuracy in punting, passing and place kicking. Judges will score one point for each foot the ball travels on the fly, and deduct one point for each foot the ball lands to right or left of the center tape.

Winners in the city contest will advance into zone competition. The champions in zone, district, area and division contests will compete in the national finals to be held at Super Bowl X in Miami, January 18.

Franklin Middle School Football

Vikings blanked the Bears 20-0 Tuesday to take over sole possession of first place in the Franklin middle school intramural football program standings.

The Redskins edged the Dolphins 18-16 in Tuesday night's other league game.

The Vikings now own a 3-1 record, followed by the Packers and Redskins at 2-1, Dolphins 1-2 and Bears 0-3.

Games scheduled to be played tomorrow (Thursday) will find the Packers playing the Vikings while the Redskins tackle the Bears.

Registration For Skating Classes Slated Saturday

Official registration, payment of fees and assignment to class schedules in the recreational skating program will take place Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Thief River Falls sports arena. Nearly 600 people have completed pre-registration forms indicating an interest in the new program.

Fees for the program are $2 per person with a maximum of $5 per family. The fees cover lessons at a clinic to be held 14 consecutive days from October 6 through 19, Thursday instructional sessions throughout the season and practice when available. The family membership will include admission to some family skating sessions being scheduled.

Each participant in the program will be issued a numbered identification card which will carry a replacement value of $2, according to program officials. Any person who loses the identification card will be charged $2 for its replacement, even if the person is a member of a large family which paid a $5 maximum family membership fee.

Initial clinic assignments will be primarily on an age and grade in school basis. Later division of classes on the basis of abilities will be made. Persons who desire to progress through the planned instructional program will be eligible to earn badges. These will be made available at cost of 35 cents each.

All persons interested in participating in the recreational skating program are asked to register at the arena during the Saturday registration hours.

NCC Intramural Sports Program Season Underway

Men's intramural flag football involving Northland community college and Thief River Falls area vocational technical students is underway, and according to Al Adams, Northland intramural director, interest and participation is at an all-time high.

Eight teams comprising about 80 students are presently competing in a round-robin tournament with each team playing seven games. The four teams having the best winning percentage at the end of the tournament will play-off to determine the champion who will represent Northland in an extramural tournament to be held at Fergus Falls community college on October 21.

Besides football, other fall quarter intramural activities scheduled are archery, cross-country running and table tennis.

"What is occurring on the Northland campus in terms of growing interest and participation is happening throughout the country on college campuses", said Al Adams, in analyzing Northland's growing intramural program.

Soil tests can make fertilizer go farther

Soil tests this season can produce higher yields next year.

Because soil testing will tell you where to put plant food to grow the most crop.

Soil tests will give you an accurate reading of primary and secondary plant food levels. They may show that some fields need only a light application for maximum crop development. What you save can be applied to fields where it's badly needed.

Call your CENEX Crop Monitor. He'll help with a soil sampling program that pays off in more crop.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Oct. 3 Deadline For City PP&K Registrations

Registrations for Thief River Falls punt, pass and kick competition, open to youngsters 8 to 13 years old, will be accepted at Tunberg Motor Company, through Friday, October 3. The contest is tentatively scheduled to be held October 8 at the Lincoln high school athletic field.

Contestants, accompanied by a parent or guardian, can register at the Tunberg showroom during business hours. There is no entry fee. Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third place in each of the six age groups. Competition will be strictly limited to age groups, and there will be no body contact.

Scoring is based on distance and accuracy in punting, passing and place kicking. Judges will score one point for each foot the ball travels on the fly, and deduct one point for each foot the ball lands to right or left of the center tape.

Winners in the city contest will advance into zone competition. The champions in zone, district, area and division contests will compete in the national finals to be held at Super Bowl X in Miami, January 18.

Franklin Middle School Football

Vikings blanked the Bears 20-0 Tuesday to take over sole possession of first place in the Franklin middle school intramural football program standings.

The Redskins edged the Dolphins 18-16 in Tuesday night's other league game.

The Vikings now own a 3-1 record, followed by the Packers and Redskins at 2-1, Dolphins 1-2 and Bears 0-3.

Games scheduled to be played tomorrow (Thursday) will find the Packers playing the Vikings while the Redskins tackle the Bears.

Registration For Skating Classes Slated Saturday

Official registration, payment of fees and assignment to class schedules in the recreational skating program will take place Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Thief River Falls sports arena. Nearly 600 people have completed pre-registration forms indicating an interest in the new program.

Fees for the program are $2 per person with a maximum of $5 per family. The fees cover lessons at a clinic to be held 14 consecutive days from October 6 through 19, Thursday instructional sessions throughout the season and practice when available. The family membership will include admission to some family skating sessions being scheduled.

Each participant in the program will be issued a numbered identification card which will carry a replacement value of $2, according to program officials. Any person who loses the identification card will be charged $2 for its replacement, even if the person is a member of a large family which paid a $5 maximum family membership fee.

Initial clinic assignments will be primarily on an age and grade in school basis. Later division of classes on the basis of abilities will be made. Persons who desire to progress through the planned instructional program will be eligible to earn badges. These will be made available at cost of 35 cents each.

All persons interested in participating in the recreational skating program are asked to register at the arena during the Saturday registration hours.

NCC Intramural Sports Program Season Underway

Men's intramural flag football involving Northland community college and Thief River Falls area vocational technical students is underway, and according to Al Adams, Northland intramural director, interest and participation is at an all-time high.

Eight teams comprising about 80 students are presently competing in a round-robin tournament with each team playing seven games. The four teams having the best winning percentage at the end of the tournament will play-off to determine the champion who will represent Northland in an extramural tournament to be held at Fergus Falls community college on October 21.

Besides football, other fall quarter intramural activities scheduled are archery, cross-country running and table tennis.

"What is occurring on the Northland campus in terms of growing interest and participation is happening throughout the country on college campuses", said Al Adams, in analyzing Northland's growing intramural program.

Minor Injuries To 2 Bicyclists In Police Report

Minor injuries to two bicyclists were reported among the accidents that occurred in Thief River Falls recently, according to the city police department.

On September 10 at 7 p.m., Michelle Hanson of Thief River Falls was riding a bicycle owned by Candace Tunheim of the city. As she was traveling west on Michael street and crossing Kendall avenue she met a car, driven by Sheldon Mortrud of the city, which was traveling south on Kendall. The Hanson girl suffered facial bruises.

Between 5 and 5:30 p.m. Friday, Peggy Carrothers, 15, of the city lost control of her bike and fell to the ground in the parking lot north of the hospital. While falling she collided with a vehicle backing from a parking stall, and suffered an injured knee.

A two car collision was reported Wednesday, September 17 at 5:37 p.m. Curtis Brandt, TRF, was traveling north on Main avenue and Allen Broughton, TRF, was attempting to turn left into east First street after traveling south on Main when the cars met. Damages were estimated at $450 to the Broughton car and $400 to the Brandt vehicle.

At 12:08 p.m. Thursday, a car driven by James Solsten of the city and a garbage truck driven by Steven Nordhagen, TRF, were both traveling west on Third street when Nordhagen attempted to turn right into an alley and struck the Solsten car. Damages were estimated at $250 to the Solsten car and $100 to the truck.

Lee Sorenson of the city was traveling south on highway 32 at 5:55 p.m. Friday when, after momentarily leaving the pavement, he tried to pull the car back onto the highway, lost control, crossed the road and drove into a ditch. An estimated $500 damage to his car was reported.

In other incidents, a local store apprehended three male juveniles Tuesday, September 16, for allegedly taking food items valued at $2.10. All three suspects were 12 years old.

In one of four incidents reported September 17, Robert Witt of the city reported a television taken from his home at 2:15 a.m. Later the TV was recovered by a patrolling officer in a vehicle driven by Gene Hoffman, 20, TRF. Richard L. Johnson, 18, of the city was also in the car. The two men were arrested for allegedly stealing the set.

DelRay Westman of the city reported that someone had vandalized his car while it was parked at the casino club. Damage to the distributor and coil wire was set at $6. Lyle Walseth, TRF, told police that within the last 45 days a Fox brand mini-bike valued at $100 was taken from their backyard. Verna Schmitz of the city said her purse was taken from her car while the vehicle was parked behind her house. Four juveniles, two boys and two girls, are being questioned.

In one of three incidents Thursday, Stanley E. Hanson, 22, of the city was charged with the alleged theft of a billfold from Oliver Molstad of the city July 23. Washington school reported that the seats of five bicycles were slashed with a knife or other sharp instrument. Damage is estimated between $24 and $40. Robert Quigley of the city told police a driver had crossed his lawn, hit a tree and almost hit his house.

On Friday, Mike Ekdahl, TRF, said one of his car windows was broken while the vehicle was parked at the Casino club, causing an estimated $50 damage. Also Ray Olson of the city reported that when he went to his garage the previous evening at 10:45 p.m. he found an intruder inside. The man fled when Olson approached.

Sunday it was reported that a truck owned by the Fargo paper company was unloading Friday afternoon when it backed into the steps of the city auditorium and caused $55 damage.

In one of two incidents Monday, two windows were discovered broken at Mark Twain school. A rock was found in the school, but no entry was gained. Damage was estimated at $250. A local store apprehended a male juvenile, 15, for allegedly shoplifting an item valued at $1.07.

Because of a special financial gift, Silverton Lutheran was able to drill a water well, build and install heated rest rooms and make other improvements in building and fixtures. Following the service, an appreciation dinner will be served. Silverton church members extend a welcome for the public to attend both the service and the dinner.

Career Training Is Vocational School Objective

Nearly two million young people leave school and college each year with little or no preparation for careers, according to a new booklet, "Facing Facts About Vocational Education for Your Career," just released by a major insurance company.

With national and scholastic emphasis on helping the college-bound, the 60 per cent who will not go to college are seen as forgotten students, given little help on acquiring skills that will fit them for satisfying careers.

"We worry about these students," said a company spokesman, "not only because they are the majority but, more important, because they represent the kinds of young men and women the country needs to play a large role in our social and economic life."

The 32-page booklet takes an overview of career education, which is far broader than the old vocational education of a generation ago. It concentrates on the specific steps a young person can take to decide on a career, locate institutions that train for it, and find ways to help pay the costs.

The publication also contains information on new careers and on economic forecasts so that the student will not train for a field with limited opportunities. One chapter is devoted to the pros and cons of going into business for oneself, with step-by-step advice on how to go about it.

Single copies of the booklet are free, with quantity orders available free to educators, by writing to Prudential, Box No. 36, Newark, New Jersey 07101.

TRF Librarians Attend Workshop During Weekend

Beverly Halvorson from the Thief River Falls elementary schools, Jane Oberg from Franklin middle school and Virgil Burger from Lincoln high school attended the Minnesota association of school librarians workshop at Brainerd September 19-21.

Theme of the workshop was to influence change in the media programs. Friday afternoon the librarians saw a series of media related films and sound filmstrips. In the evening David Mona, public relations director of International Multifoods corporation, Minneapolis, illustrated techniques for making the media program more visible.

On Saturday mini-sessions were held giving processes and procedures for maintaining and improving media programs at the building and district levels. In the evening Maxine Stevenson, director of learning resources, Alton, Ill., shared experiences of the legislative committee of the media professional organizations of Illinois in effecting state legislation strengthening school media programs.

The Sunday session analyzed and summarized the conference.

USDA Warns Midwesterners Of Witchweed

Witchweed, a parasite of corn, sorghum and other grasses, is beginning to bloom in North and South Dakota, the U.S. Department of agriculture (USDA) reports. Though witchweed has never been found in the Midwest, it could possibly spread here. Farmers, gardeners and others need to be on the lookout for it, USDA officials warned.

"Witchweed has two main identifying characteristics," says James O. Lee, deputy administrator of USDA's animal and plant health inspection service (APHIS). "Witchweed blooms bright red (sometimes yellow) from mid-July to the first frost. If you spot the flower, feel its stem. If it's square and slightly hairy, the plant is probably witchweed."

Lee emphasized that under no circumstances should you pull up the suspected witchweed plant for identification. This would only spread viable seeds—and there may be 500,000 seeds on a single plant—to nearby farms and gardens. Instead call your local county agent or state or federal agricultural official for on-the-farm identification.

A native of southern Asia, witchweed was first discovered in 1956 in the Carolinas—the only known infestation in the U.S. The parasitic plant attacks corn, sorghum, sugarcane and other grass crops. Below the ground, witchweed attaches itself to the roots or hosts—sucking out food and water. The result is a stunted, wilted and dying host.

Since the cooperative federal and state eradication program began, witchweed has been eradicated in nine counties. Now 27 counties are infested, 21 in North Carolina and six in South Carolina.

"It's important for us to find out now if we have any other infestations in this country. One of our main goals is keeping witchweed from spreading out of the Carolinas," Lee emphasized. "And right now is the best time to look for it because those red flowers are so easy to spot."

SEEING BEYOND

This is Basil. Much of the time he can't see beyond his nose.

But with a nose like Basil's who needs to see!

Many folks have temporarily-impaired spiritual vision. But sometimes they can compensate in other ways. . .

. . . like the man who brought his youngsters to church recently: "Myself, I'm not religious," he said, "but I sense their need for character development."

Surprisingly, that father has returned to church. Now he is just as faithful as his children.

We used to say of Basil, the moment he shakes himself he's got "twenty-twenty" vision. The same is true of many people once they sense their God-given responsibilities.

Protecting your dollar!

By
Warren Spannaus
Attorney General
State of Minnesota

Conciliation courts are designed to provide any person or company a fast, easy and inexpensive way to sue any other person or company for a relatively small amount of money. Most Minnesota conciliation courts allow lawsuits for amounts up to $1,000, although in Hennepin and Ramsey counties and in Duluth you can sue or be sued for up to $500.

The basis of a lawsuit might be over-charging, misrepresentation of services rendered, fraud, personal injury, property damage or nonpayment of rent or other obligations. The cost of filing a lawsuit in conciliation court is small, usually between $3 and $5. The time between the filing of the lawsuit and the trial might be as short as one week or as long as eight weeks.

(1) Obtain Defendant's Correct Name and Address. Whether you are suing an individual or a corporation, the case may be dismissed if the defendant's (person or company sued) name is not complete and accurate. To obtain the proper name of any corporation doing business in Minnesota, contact the Secretary of State, 180 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota, (612) 296-2803. To obtain the proper name of firms doing business in your county, contact the clerk of the district court in the county.

(2) Choose the Correct Court. Find out where the defendant resides. A case against him can probably only be brought in that county. If that county does not have a conciliation court, suit may be brought in the county court. A listing of conciliation courts in operation is available by writing Warren Spannaus, Minnesota Attorney General, 102 State Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155 for a copy of "Guide to Minnesota Conciliation Courts."

(3) Procedures. In conciliation court, the procedure has been simplified so that you do not need an attorney. The clerk of court will help the plaintiff (person or company suing) file his claim and will serve a summons upon the defendant describing the claim and stating the date and time set for trial. A filing fee is charged. At the trial either the judge or a referee will listen to both sides of the case, so wait until the judge asks you to begin and explain your position clearly, calmly and concisely.

The judge will want to consider all the evidence in the case, so be certain to bring all witnesses, bills, receipts, letters, estimates, contracts and other documents that support your position. If you learn before the trial that a witness will not come to the trial voluntarily, go to the clerk of court immediately and ask him to send a subpoena to the witness requiring him to appear.

A person receiving a summons from conciliation court must appear in court or lose the case by default. If you cannot appear at the time or date of trial, contact the clerk of court immediately to have it changed. If you do miss the court hearing for some reason, contact the court within 10 days to see whether the clerk can allow a retrial.

(4) The Judgement. If you sue and win, the defendant must pay your filing fee. If the defendant does not pay you promptly, contact the court clerk and file a judgment claim. The cost of filing will be charged to the defendant.

For a small fee the clerk will issue a writ of execution. This writ must be delivered to the sheriff and allows him either to garnish the defendant's wages or obtain money from his bank account. It may be necessary for you to locate the defendant's assets in order to, have your judgment satisfied.

In an automobile accident case, the Minnesota commissioner of highways has the power to suspend the driving privileges of anyone who does not complete payment within 30 days. There is, of course, a chance that you may never receive your money if the defendant has left the state or becomes insolvent.

(5) Appeal. Either plaintiff or defendant, if dissatisfied with the court's decision, has a right to appeal the case within 10 days to municipal or county court for a new trial. An appeal will entail another filing fee and may entail lawyers' fees.

Personalized Cadillac luxury is further enhanced in 1976 with subtle styling refinements to the already successful front-wheel-drive Fleetwood Eldorado convertible (top) and coupe models. The 1976 Fleetwood Eldorado convertible is the only remaining convertible produced in the United States, and the 1976 model is planned as the last Cadillac convertible. New grille designs feature a cross-hatch theme and a new Cadillac script signature on the hoodface. Larger, bolder tail lamps are now structured of one continuous red lens on either side of the license frame. Standard wheel discs are highlighted by a black center hub area with wreath and crest ornamentation. The 1976 Cadillac Fleetwood Eldorado convertible offers a selection of seven color coordinated convertible tops.

The 1976 Cadillac Calais sedan model (below) provides traditional Cadillac full size comfort and luxury combined with easily perceived value and distinctive design. As with all 1976 models, subtle styling refinements serve to further personalize the existing appeal of this car. Optional wire wheel discs are joined by optional turbine wheel discs, including one with a black center hub area and crest ornamentation as shown on the Calais sedan and similar to the sporty standard Eldorado wheel disc. Vinyl roofs, offered in 11 color selections, are now an elegant elk grain padded material.

Kiwanis and Women

One of the latest escapades of the National Organization of Women (NOW) is an assault on the organization known as Kiwanis International because it prefers to adhere to the tradition of having only male membership.

A case in point is the Crosby, N.D., Kiwanis club which admitted four women into its membership, then returned their membership dues following receipt of a directive from the international organization. That directive stated that the Crosby club would lose its charter if the four women were not dropped from the membership rolls.

Wayne Lubenow, former Fargo Forum columnist who now writes a weekly column sold to a number of area newspapers, takes the Kiwanians to task for "bigotry".

Noting that the club president notified the four women that "because of a directive imposed on us by Kiwanis International, we have no other choice than to return your membership dues and exclude you from the Crosby Kiwanis club", Lubenow writes as follows:

"Not quite true. They did have another choice. They could have held the bridge, stuck their finger in the dike, lost their charter. They didn't have to knuckle under to the International mucky-mucks who appear ready to preserve Kiwanis masculinity at all cost. If I read the by-laws of Kiwanis International right, their official purpose is much loftier than the expulsion of women.

"That gives rise to the suspicion that perhaps the International poo-bahs of Kiwanis are not so much dedicated to their stated purpose as they are to rank discrimination. Frankly, I have found no studies or surveys that show that women are not as high-minded as men, that they would not be good Kiwanians."

Whatever points Lubenow scores with the feminists of NOW by the above comments, he must lose most of them when he says, "Indeed, they would probably bring new vigor to all-male organizations and for sure they could cook the flapjacks better at the annual pancake feed."

Well, Lubenow is entitled to his opinion, of course, and he would be the first to tell us that he is. In fact, he does. "I must admit I am not a member of Kiwanis," he writes, "but I figure that shouldn't deter me from having an opinion on the matter."

We are not thoroughly familiar with the Kiwanis organization either, never having experienced work of the organization locally. But we know of some of its community work through exchange papers we receive and it seems to be an admirable organization, totally undeserving of the verbal abuse being heaped upon it by NOW and sympathizers like Lubenow.

While Lubenow wonders at the dedication of Kiwanians to the stated purpose of their organization, we wonder at the motivation of the women who sought to disrupt its tradition. Were they truly interested in service or where they simply trying to prove a point?

The men of Kiwanis have built their organization on the basis of their official purpose. It has stood the test of time. If it serves well, why tamper with it? There are ample opportunities for service for men and women, jointly or separately, in any community. Is it necessary to shake the foundations of an established group to offer such service?

Crosby Kiwanis club would have proved nothing by "holding the bridge". The international organization would revoke the charter, which it has every right to do to any affiliated club which does not abide by its rules. The women in question could be members of an organization if it continued to exist, but they certainly would not be members of Kiwanis. Everyone would lose.

Let the ladies of Crosby and their supporters in NOW form a feminist organization parallel to the lines and goals of Kiwanis. Let them establish a tradition and record of growth and service and prove their intentions over the long haul. Then let them propose a merger for mutual benefit so they can speak from a constructive posture. Let them show they are truly interested in building rather than in simply tearing down.

Raise More

Following editorial is from the Litchfield Independent Review:

The cry to American farmers, to raise more is frequently heard but every kind of road block is placed in their way to make raising more difficult. There are times when some of our government agencies do more harm than good. At times they get carried away and the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) is up near the front in the list.

There was an order to install catalitic exhaust systems in all cars from the 1973 vintage on up. Today there is a question whether this order is a benefit or a deterrent to the health of the people in this country. It is believed that there might be a release of sulphur gas from the new device that could be harmful.

Once the farmers used DDT effectively as a guard against insects destroying crops but this was banned. Following DDT came the banning of aldrin and dieldrin. Now the EPA has issued notice of intent to ban yet another insect killer and that is chlordane and heptachlor.

Last year it is estimated that farmers throughout the country lost or had damaged a total of one and a half million acres of corn to cutworms, wireworms and armyworms because of a shortage of these two chemicals. Cutting them out completely could result in many more millions of acres being damaged during the coming year.

In 25 years of research there has been no evidence that chlordane and heptachlor pose any significant threat to the well-being of people or animals. If all farming aids are banned it will be difficult to continue.

Disarming Smile

Following editorial is from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

Recent photographs of U.S. astronauts and Russian cosmonauts grinning at each other and shaking hands firmly in a cooperative venture in outer space have offered hope that there is real progress toward sincere and lasting friendship between the two great powers.

Politicians from both countries have participated in a number of outwardly friendly discussions about world problems. The Soviet Union has come to the United States in search of wheat to compensate for its own agricultural failures. Some headway is reported in efforts to develop arms controls. But grave concern remains about the real intent of the Soviet leaders.

Many American citizens have silently gone along with the policies of detente. As Dr. Henry Kissinger, secretary of state, suggests, what would you rather have—a war? There is ample evidence, however, that nothing has changed Russia's long-term pursuit of world domination.

Latest indication that Russia retains warlike goals comes in the 1975-76 edition of Jane's Fighting Ships, traditionally recognized as authoritative on naval matters. It declares flatly that the Soviet fleet of nuclear and conventional submarines has outgrown the legitimate requirements of national defense.

Editor John Moore writes this in the book's foreword:

"Until the adherents of unilateral disarmament can persuade the Soviets that they should reduce their massive armaments to the level of necessity, NATO must abide by the lesson of history and unnecessarily large forces are intended for agressive action."

Countries with the largest merchant fleets are Japan, Britain, Norway, Greece, the United States and the Soviet Union, in that order. Yet the Soviets have the largest number of destroyers and frigates available as escort ships. The Soviet Union has 215 destroyers and frigates, compared to 170 for the U.S. and 67 for Great Britain. And Russia's fleet of nuculear and conventional submarines is growing steadily.

Alexander Solzhenitzyn, the exiled Russian author, has warned that the United States cannot go on closing its eyes to the evils of "insatiable totalitarianism" and expect to live long in security.

But what are the alternatives to detente? An endless series of skirmishes? Cold war hostilities? War? Surely it is better to continue to work for peace and some kind of arms control agreement with Russia than to turn a cold shoulder and return to isolationism.

We must keep firmly in mind, however, the never-changing fact that the Soviet Union has not altered its plans of world domination in any way. It may have adopted a different timetable, but the purpose is there. This is no time for the United States to become soft and complacent, although it is important to explore every possibility for world peace.

Moore's statement is something to remember: "Unnecessarily large forces are intended for aggressive action."

Wendell R. Anderson

Last week I had the opportunity to take part in two important events in southwestern Minnesota that have real meaning for all of the people who live in outstate Minnesota.

On Monday afternoon, September 15th, I helped the Wes Radke family of Tracy celebrate the completion of a major home rehabilitation project that was financed with the assistance of the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency.

Under legislation passed in 1974, the Housing Finance Agency can now provide help for financing home improvements for qualifying families at a rate of 7¾ per cent instead of the 11 or 12 per cent that they would have to pay for regular loans. It was the first project completed under the new program, and Minnesota is the only state in the union that helps families in this way.

There's no cost to Minnesota taxpayers because the program finances itself. What we are able to do is use our state's AAA credit rating — the highest rating you can have — to sell revenue bonds and make the money available at a lower rate of interest.

We use some 73 lending institutions throughout the state of Minnesota to manage this program, and through it the state can make a real difference in the quality of housing available to families like the Radkes.

That same evening I met with local officials of nineteen southwestern Minnesota counties at Marshall, where they were meeting with the heads of our state agencies. I was pleased with the fine reception our state people were given and with the opportunity for face-to-face interaction with the local officials who make government work in outstate Minnesota.

Several of our state agency heads commented publicly at the dinner on the importance of this meeting to them — the vital necessity of trust and communication between local government and state government if we are to do our jobs well.

I'm delighted that we were able to bring our agency heads to southwestern Minnesota for their annual management meeting and take advantage of this opportunity to meet directly with the leaders of the area.

We will be doing it again, because we can learn much more about how to improve state government meeting for a few hours in an outstate setting with outstate people than we can sitting in our St. Paul offices and reading reports.

It's really a pleasure to sense the progress that regional development commissions and other regional groups like the Countryside Council of southwestern Minnesota are making, and the increasing impact that our local officials are having on state government agencies and programs. By working together, local government officials are finding ways to make a difference.

HECC Director Is Opposed To Creating School Superboard

Present structure of post-secondary education has served Minnesota well despite some apparent deficiences, and the Legislature should carefully consider the complete range of alternatives before making any modifications to it, according to Richard C. Hawk, executive director of the higher education coordinating commission.

Hawk told members of the House higher education committee that many constructive alternatives exist for modifying the current structure, in addition to the one proposed by senate majority leader Nicholas Coleman to create a "superboard" to govern all the state's collegiate post-secondary institutions. Both the House committee and the senate education committee are studying the structure and governance of Minnesota post-secondary education. Higher education committee chairman Peter X. Fugina is the author of Coleman proposal in the House.

Hawk urged legislators in considering the superboard proposal to clarify their objectives and expectations for structure, to consider the advantages and deficiencies of the present structure and to examine the complete range of alternatives available.

He said that in view of the rapid social and economic changes which are affecting society and uncertainty over the future role of post-secondary education, a review of the structure in Minnesota is appropriate.

Hawk said the most pressing of these circumstances are declining enrollments in the traditional clientele stemming from significant demographic changes, limits on the availability of public resources, rising demands for other human resource services, rising costs of all public services and substantial readjustments in the labor market.

He said that in studying possible changes in structure and policy, four fundamental objectives should be sought for Minnesota post-secondary education. The objectives require that the state: Determine the appropriate investment the state can afford and the range of costs that can be tolerated among different institutions and programs. Embrace the most realistic alternatives for governing and managing Minnesota post-secondary education today and in the future. Provide equality of access to post-secondary education and an equitable distribution of services regardless of financial and geographic circumstances. Ensure high quality educational service and guarantee the ideals of free inquiry and expression.

Hawk said that he doubts any ideal structure exists to achieve these objectives. Any structure represents a compromise that attempts to maximize certain benefits and minimize certain deficiencies, he said.

The executive director explained that modifications to the structure of post-secondary education have occurred as recently as 1963 when the junior college system (now the community college system) was established, and 1965 when the higher education coordinating commission was established, 1971 when Metropolitan State University was established and 1973 when the Legislature authorized three regional experimental post-secondary education centers (Wadena, Rochester, Iron Range).

"Each of these modifications, as well as many refinements in structure which preceded them, were designed to meet specific needs or correct a specific deficiency," Hawk said. "Further changes and refinements in the structure certainly are no less appropriate than midifications of the past.

"I do not believe that the higher education coordinating commission in its present form is an essential ingredient in the future structure of Minnesota post-secondary education. I do belive that some statewide post-secondary education agency is essential."

Hawk reviewed the development of post-secondary education in Minnesota, noting that the post-secondary education community has accommodated such difficult pressures as rapid growth, student unrest, demands for new programs and services, retrenchment, collective bargaining and shortages of resources to fulfill a great variety of expectations.

"Each of the four boards which control public institutions has performed with distinction," Hawk said. "Each of the institutions in the state has met important personal and social needs for Minnesota residents."

Establishment of the higher education coordinating commission was a significant development in that it was the first legislative action which recognized the need for some agency to be concerned with the total spectrum of post-secondary education, Hawk said. Legislative actions since 1965 show the commission has had substantial impact on state policy for post-secondary education, he said.

"Perhaps the most significant impact has been the subtle shift from state policy which seemed to reflect the view that the state's responsibility for post-secondary education could be fulfilled solely through the establishment and support of institutions to a more comprehensive effort to meet total needs of Minnesota residents for post-secondary education," he said.

HHH Says Grain Dispute May Prompt Action

"However one may regard the recent dispute between the President and George Meany over the loading of grain for the Soviet Union, at least the confrontation has forced the White House to come to grips with the difficult issues presented by the large Russian purchases," states Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

"The President announced on September 9 that he was sending an American delegation, headed by Under Secretary of state Charles Robinson, to negotiate a long-term agreement on grain purchases with the Soviet Union which could commit them to certain minimum purchases every year.

"This should have been done long ago. Soviet grain purchases have been very erratic in recent years—ranging from 1.8 million metric tons last year to 13.7 million metric tons in 1972 and 1973. This year's exports total 10.3 million metric tons. These sudden surges in Soviet demand and purchase bring price instability and sharp market fluctuations.

"In fact, the Soviet Union, combined with the other centrally planned economies of Europe and Asia, account for the major variations in world grain trade.

But the Soviet Union is the world's largest consumer of grains. This country alone consumes about 20 per cent of the wheat and feed grains produced in the world," Humphrey said.

"Soviet grain consumption has grown 155 per cent over the last 10 years. Essentially, all of the increases in Soviet grain consumption can be attributed to increased livestock feeding in order to increase the animal protein intake of its people.

"Presently, the per capita meat consumption in the Soviet Union is about half that in the United States. And it is clear that any reduction in meat production carries serious political implications for the present Soviet leadership.

"Since the total cultivated acreage in the Soviet Union is at near peak levels, increased grain production in that country will have to come primarily from improved yields. Yet efforts to improve yields will continue to be hampered by the harsh climate of most of the growing areas in the Soviet Union.

"We must treat the soviet Union as an important and valuable customer for our farm commodities, along with our other export customers. But we must not permit it or the export market generally to place requirements or demands on our nation's food supplies that create shortages and economic hardships for our own people.

"Our farmers need exports to obtain a fair price for their crops—almost one third of American production is exported. And our farmers are entitled to a fair price, just as workers are entitled to a fair wage.

"Thus, the issue is not exports or no exports. It is the maintenance of adequate supplies of food and fiber for our own people—and, above this, the export of what would be surplus," the senator added.

"We can only do this if we have a responsible food and agricultural policy, a policy based on providing security to both producers and consumers. This requires careful monitoring of the grain demand situation.

"It requires food reserves, insulated from the market so as not to depress farm income, but available to meet our domestic needs, to give price reliability and to assure our reliability as an exporter.

"It requires farm supply prices which reflect the greatly changed costs of production. Our farmers contribute $12 billion to our balance of payments and they deserve better treatment than they have received."

Humphrey is hopeful that the President's current initiative with the Soviet Union will be successful and that this will be the first of a number of steps that must be taken to establish a responsible food and agricultural policy.

"We simply must avoid the costly consequences of Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz's 'boom and bust' philosophy that already has cost farmers and consumers billions of dollars in lost income and higher food prices," he said.

Personality Quiz

ARE YOU TOO PUSHY?

It may be quite true that the better part of success is aggression, but there are limits to everything. Getting what you want is one thing but being too pushy about it is another. Does getting your own way get in the way of other people's fondness for you? Why not take this quiz and find out?

1. If you enter a busy store with very little time on your hands, do you (A) Wait your turn in line and risk being late to your next appointment, getting more and more annoyed by the minute (B) Push ahead of others, making your time limits known—loudly (C) Decide to come back some other time when the store is less crowded or you have more time?

2. If you're waiting in line for gasoline at a favorite service station where you've done a lot of business do you (A) Wait your turn like everybody else (B) Honk your horn to get the attendant's attention, assuming since he knows you and your business he'll wait on you immediately (C) Go to a less crowded station if you're really in a great hurry?

3. If a loved one dies and it's up to you to make funeral arrangements, would you specify (A) That no flowers should be sent (B) That contributions should be made (C) That people should do whatever they think is appropriate?

4. If you send out for dark coffee and it arrives light, do you (A) Accept it the way it is (B) Shout at the delivery boy (C) Calmly ask the boy to go back and bring the kind of coffee you ordered?

Answers (upside down)

1. (C) There's no point in getting annoyed, and pushing ahead may deprive some other busy shopper of his or her place. 2. (C) If you're really in a rush, just go to another station. Honking your horn is bad manners. 3 (C) It's much nicer to let mourners express condolences in any way they see fit. 4. (C) There's a difference between getting what you ordered and being pushy and obnoxious. If the right kind of coffee, means that much to you politely ask the delivery boy to change the order.

Canning Lid Firm Gives Comment On Supplies Shortage

Ball corporation, one of the nation's leading producers of home food preservation supplies, said it is continuing to manufacture replacement lids for home canning on an around-the-clock basis, seven days a week.

Despite this production schedule, in effect since January 2, the company is not able to meet the continuing unprecedented nationwide demand for its products, Ball President John W. Fisher said.

"We produce an astounding three million replacement caps and lids daily," Fisher said, "or over 20 million lids each week." All productive capacity is being utilized fully during every moment of time available, he said.

The surge in home canning, which began in 1973, rose sharply in 1974 and reached even higher levels in the first half of 1975. Most of this demand has been fueled by inflation and the overwhelming response of millions of American families to suggestions that they plant new gardens to help relieve inflationary pressures on their income. "This is a reflection of the immense demand generated by the American economy as people respond to a recognized need," Fisher said.

The U.S. department of agriculture estimates there were 20 million home gardens in 1973. This rose to 26 million in 1974 and then jumped to 32.5 million in 1975.

Ball corporation, in the home canning business since 1884, longer than any other company in the world, said its production statistics indicated that during times of economic stress, such as wars, depressions, inflation and recessions, Americans have traditionally turned to home canning as a means of easing part of the cost-of-living problem.

Federal government officials estimate that 1.6 billion replacement caps and lids will be produced by the industry in 1975. Ball corporation believes this to be a realistic and achievable goal. The company's market surveys indicate some 23 to 24 million households, or 35 per cent of the nation's 65 million households, do some home canning. If this figure is correct, this will mean approximately 70 lids for each home canning family in the country.

Ball corporation does not sell its home canning products directly to the end-user. The company markets its products in its traditional manner to wholesale grocers, chain store warehouses and hardware distributors which, in turn, ship directly to retail outlets. The actual sale of the product and its distribution to individual retail stores and to the ultimate user is, therefore, not under Ball's control.

"Purchase of lids at the retail level and resale at higher prices—what is normally called black marketing—is beyond our control but is totally deplorable at any time but especially during times of severe national shortages," Fisher added. "Consumers are the best check against this practice. Refusal to buy at anything other than a reasonable market price will drive the blackmarketeers back under their rocks," he said.

Ball placed orders for additional lid-making machinery in 1974 when it realized the substantial demand was likely to continue. Approximately 18 months are required to engineer, build and install the equipment needed to complete the complex, highly-automated lid manufacturing line, which should be operating by year-end.

The present home canning equipment supply situation, Fisher said, can be traced to events beginning in 1973. As inflation pressures built, Ball's market information indicated heavy sales of garden seed and projected many new gardens and more new home canners. The company built its inventories in anticipation of a good home canning year. Demand rose sharply in July 1973 at the same time a shortage developed in supplies of tinplate for lids and soda ash for glass fabrication. While sales were up in 1973, there were, nevertheless, shortages of glass and lids.

With these shortages fresh in mind, the consumers in 1974 were acutely aware of their food preservation needs. Ball's sales vastly exceeded any other winter quarter in the company's history as the consumers demanded supplies early. There was a general shortage of both glass and lids during the remainder of the year.

At the beginning of 1975, consumers again bought earlier and additionally in response to the urging of the President and other governmental officials to plant gardens. Ball's sales of home canning products alone in the first quarters (January, February and March) of the last three years have been $166,000 in 1973; $5.75 million in 1974; and more than $13 million in 1975.

The shortages of materials, experienced in 1973 and 1974, have not been a problem in 1975. However, the company has not been able to build any appreciable amount of inventory because of the continuing strong demand and is shipping to customers' warehouses daily.

Ball products are being distributed to its customers on an allocation basis. Allocation formulas are based on an item by item average of the previous two years' sales (1973-74) to each Ball customer. The increased 1975 production is assigned on an item basis to these customers.

Ball's sales of replacement home canning closures, by individual units, from the end of 1972 through the end of 1974, rose 48 per cent. Another increase of approximately 29 per cent is estimated for 1975 over 1974, bringing the company's increase in production from the end of 1972 to an estimated 90 per cent by the end of this year. Production in 1976 in estimated to be 50 per cent above 1975.

Ball is presently shipping five replacement caps or lids for each lid which is shipped with a complete jar and cap unit. Ball home canning glass jar production will not be greater than it was in 1974 because of the apparent plentiful supply of jars already in consumers' homes or available in the marketplace.

The large supplies of complete jar and cap units on the market today, Fisher said, is due to the free enterprise system catching up with demand. At the beginning of 1973 there were only two manufacturers of the complete canning unit. This year there are six other manufacturers which have the complete jar and cap units for sale.

The company has received thousands of letters and telephone calls weekly, many of which ask for lids to be sold directly to consumers by mail; however, it is not possible to do so. "The additional personnel, order processing, postage and potential damage to the lids would make the price prohibitive to home canners. Our present method of distribution is still the fastest, most efficient and economical for the consumer," Fisher said.

"Ball corporation is a publicly-owned company," Fisher emphasized. "The allegations that it is in anyway controlled by or has conspired with commercial food processing companies are without foundation and untrue."

"Ball corporation is making a maximum effort to satisfy the need of consumers throughout America for home food preservation equipment necessary to preserve the bountiful surplus of their gardens. Ball Corporation has been in this important business more than 90 years providing safe, reliable containers and closures and the best in food preservation information. Any inconveniences or hardships which have occurred are regrettable; however, the real culprit is not the home canning industry but the unprecedented demand which has developed as millions of American families respond to inflation pressures," Fisher said.

The American Conscience

by Dr. RUDY SKOGERBOE

President Ford continues to believe in free enterprise in the matter of price controls. This is in spite of great pressure from the liberals in both parties. Often when a President gets into a testing time such as we have in the oil industry, he gets blamed by liberals and conservatives alike. The liberals say there must be immediate controls. In other words they jump to the only solution they seem to understand.

The man who believes in a free economy understands the dangers of not imposing controls, but he knows that in the long run, it is only a free market economy that works anyway. The conservative sometimes demands too much by saying all controls should be thrown out at once. Some executives in the oil industry itself think they should be phased out.

We face a real shortage of oil and are importing expensive oil that now sells for more than twice as much as the present control price. The lifting of controls in this Country will eventually be good because it will stimulate more production. With an increased supply, there is a good chance the price will fall. This proved itself in the matter of price controls on beef if you remember how that worked. The problem now as it has always been is that our government must quit its policies of economic disaster. If it continues to produce inflation by deficit spending, nothing the free market does will make any difference.

The way of meeting this crisis is what is at stake. There is a war between two completely different attitudes. The liberal doesn't seem to understand that a market economy with all its failing is still more powerful than the most oppressive government. Controls with a price that is too low produces shortages. If a company cannot make a profit, that company has to quit. This decreases production, puts men out of work, and there is a demand for government to bail them out. Russia has proven over the decades that a controlled economy means shortages. They cannot even feed themselves and now are asking us to do it. Our self destructive policy of trade with this enemy is another subject, but from it we should learn several lessons.

When those who believe in free enterprise criticize the President, they should realize that his compromises are often a matter of necessity. The liberal domination in Congress makes it very hard for him to do anything right. He wants and he knows he has to decontrol prices in the energy industry. He also knows that he needs some cooperation from Congress. This is the reason for his 45-day compromise in the price control on oil.

When the controls are lifted, it will be hoped that definite means are taken to keep competition alive in the industry. This can be done with the anti-trust laws we now have. People will buy from the place with the lowest price and this is the secret of the power of a free system.

In my opinion, there is no legislation that will control human greed. We must learn that for all of us to survive, we must be willing to give. Millions of Americans are willing to do this, and all we need is the freedom to make our system work. The politician who wants to help too much is our greatest threat and he must be eliminated from office. The problems are tough enough without his negative influence. Americans have demanded freedom for 200 years and now is their chance to see that it survives.

The first time sound was recorded, the man with the mind and the skills to do it was Leon Scott. He used a rotating cylinder in 1857.

The first audible sound reproduction didn't occur until 20 years later. Thomas Alva Edison had the mind and the skills to do it, and though his invention was regarded as a toy, recordings were made of several famous people, including Queen Victoria and P.T. Barnum.

The first time the piezoelectric effect, the ability of certain substances to emit electricity when squeezed, was discovered by Pierre and Jacques Curie in 1880, it was regarded as little more than a laboratory curiosity, but the minds and skills of the people at Motorola have now used it to make small, light-weight hi-fi speakers producing better sound at lower costs.

United Way To Hold Orientation Nights

Volunteers in the Thief River Falls United Way campaign will meet either tonight or Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Northland community college for an orientation session. The orientation is being held on two nights to give volunteers an option as to which night they will attend, according to Art Heinze, executive secretary of the United Way.

"It is very important that volunteers attend this training session, even if they helped in prior years," Heinze said. "It is imperative that volunteers totally understand the function of the Thief River Falls United Way, its programs and its financial needs. An orientation film will be shown depicting local agencies so that workers will be better qualified to solicit funds and answer questions which may be asked by potential givers."

The United Way has a goal of $55,000 for the current campaign which will officially begin on Wednesday.

Heinze described the United Way as "people helping people" and noted that the theme this year is "Thanks to you it works . . . for all of us." A popular appeal of the United Way is that one fund drive combines the fund raising efforts for approximately 30 causes, thereby resulting in efficient collection which allows as much money as possible to be used for the services which help people.

Nearly 50 per cent of the funds contributed are spent in the Thief River Falls area or for programs which directly affect local people. The remainder goes to other causes which assist people in need. The United Way board, comprised of local people, studies requests, reviews budgets and determines in the community's best interest what is the fair share for each participating agency. About five per cent is spent for fund-raising and administration.

The executive secretary said that everyone can benefit from the United Way. Research may find a cure for a dreaded disease, organized youth activity may influence children to become better citizens, and self-help programs may help people to become productive members of society again.

Last year the United Way received $48,000 in pledges, of which $46,603 was raised during the fiscal year. This year a 15 per cent increase is needed to meet requests of participating agencies. Every wage earner is being encouraged to participate and payroll deduction is again suggested as an easy way to contribute throughout the year.

Donors can either pay a lump sum when solicited by a United Way volunteer, join in the payroll deduction plan where offered by an employer, or be placed on United Way billing, whereby a statement will be sent on a quarterly or monthly basis at the donor's discretion.

Campaign dates have been set for October 1-11 this year. Captains are asked to return all packets to Jim Matson, United Way treasurer, at First Northwestern state bank.

United Way

DONOR CARD is explained by Bill Dee to Brenda Laidley, one of the employees in Dee's store, as the United Way prepares for its official kick-off this week. Orientation meetings for volunteers will be held on Monday and Tuesday evenings from 8 to 9 p.m. at room A-16 at Northland community college. Dee is a member of the United Way board of directors and Brenda is Miss Thief River Falls of 1975. With a goal of $55,000 adopted for the current year, emphasis is being placed on having all wage earners contribute to the United Way campaign.

Charged With Taking Elk

Foss Enters Plea Of Not Guilty Friday

Gordon Foss of Grygla entered pleas of not guilty to five counts of taking a protected big game species, namely elk, and Judge Warren A. Saetre heard a motion by the prosecution for a change of venue at the omnibus hearing held Friday morning in Thief River Falls. The hearing was a Marshall county district court proceeding, but was held in Thief River Falls as a convenience upon approval by both prosecution and defense.

Foss had waived his right to a closed hearing and the courtroom was nearly filled, indicating the high interest in the case. The defendant is charged with shooting five elk in his oats field north of Grygla on September 6.

Judge Saetre said he will issue a ruling on the petition for a change of venue this week. If a change is granted, he assured the attorneys present, it will be to one of the 17 northwestern Minnesota counties which comprise the Ninth judicial district. If not, the case will be heard at Warren, probably at the fall term to be held beginning October 6.

The judge also said he would rule later on the defendant's request for the appointment of a public defender, although he indicated after questioning of Foss that it did not appear he would be justified in granting the request.

Following opening statements by Judge Saetre—in which he outlined the procedure of the hearing to determine admissability of evidence and instructed the press not to publish any testimony presented—the prosecution was directed to proceed in presentation of evidence.

Harold Myhre, Marshall county attorney, was prepared to call three witnesses who had held conversations with the defendant after the incident occurred. Attorney Robert Carter, representing Foss, stated that the defense would not attack the probable cause which the state would attempt to establish. He said that the defendant admits to the fact of the alleged five counts and the issue by the defense is that the shooting was a defensible deed. Carter said he would not wish to cross-examine state witnesses.

Carter then informed the bench that the defendant wished to petition for a public defender or, if that request was not granted, to defend himself in the case. He advised against the latter, stating that he did not believe Foss was qualified to properly represent himself in court.

Foss asked to address the bench and in so doing said he did not believe the case should have been brought into court and asked the judge to throw it out.

Judge Saetre replied that he did not have the authority to

Northland Adds 4 New Programs

Northland community college's community service-continuing education office recently announced four new programs that will be added to the fall schedule beginning in October.

One of the programs is a three-session seminar titled "American Issues" to be held October 1, 29 and December 3 from 7-10 p.m. in the college auditorium. A number of historical topics will be discussed in the seminar, which has been described as an "awareness study" of the country.

The program was developed for the national Bicentennial under the sponsorship of the national endowment for the humanities and the American revolution Bicentennial commission. A registration fee of $10 will be charged with minimum enrollment of 30 required to conduct the seminar.

Rosemaling will be offered as a community service course at NCC beginning Wednesday, October 8 at 7 p.m. in the art room. Cost of the course will be $10 plus materials and supplies. Enrollment will be limited to the first 20 registrants.

Rosemaling consists of decorative painting on wood—an artistic style pupular in 18th and 19th century Norway. The class will include painting, background and general instruction on history and tradition. United Way To Hold Orientation Nights

Volunteers in the Thief River Falls United Way campaign will meet either tonight or Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Northland community college for an orientation session. The orientation is being held on two nights to give volunteers an option as to which night they will attend, according to Art Heinze, executive secretary of the United Way.

"It is very important that volunteers attend this training session, even if they helped in prior years," Heinze said. "It is imperative that volunteers totally understand the function of the Thief River Falls United Way, its programs and its financial needs. An orientation film will be shown depicting local agencies so that workers will be better qualified to solicit funds and answer questions which may be asked by potential givers."

The United Way has a goal of $55,000 for the current campaign which will officially begin on Wednesday.

Heinze described the United Way as "people helping people" and noted that the theme this year is "Thanks to you it works . . . for all of us." A popular appeal of the United Way is that one fund drive combines the fund raising efforts for approximately 30 causes, thereby resulting in efficient collection which allows as much money as possible to be used for the services which help people.

Nearly 50 per cent of the funds contributed are spent in the Thief River Falls area or for programs which directly affect local people. The remainder goes to other causes which assist people in need. The United Way board, comprised of local people, studies requests, reviews budgets and determines in the community's best interest what is the fair share for each participating agency. About five per cent is spent for fund-raising and administration.

The executive secretary said that everyone can benefit from the United Way. Research may find a cure for a dreaded disease, organized youth activity may influence children to become better citizens, and self-help programs may help people to become productive members of society again.

Last year the United Way received $48,000 in pledges, of which $46,603 was raised during the fiscal year. This year a 15 per cent increase is needed to meet requests of participating agencies. Every wage earner is being encouraged to participate and payroll deduction is again suggested as an easy way to contribute throughout the year.

Donors can either pay a lump sum when solicited by a United Way volunteer, join in the payroll deduction plan where offered by an employer, or be placed on United Way billing, whereby a statement will be sent on a quarterly or monthly basis at the donor's discretion.

Campaign dates have been set for October 1-11 this year. Captains are asked to return all packets to Jim Matson, United Way treasurer, at First Northwestern state bank.

DONOR CARD is explained by Bill Dee to Brenda Laidley, one of the employees in Dee's store, as the United Way prepares for its official kick-off this week. Orientation meetings for volunteers will be held on Monday and Tuesday evenings from 8 to 9 p.m. at room A-16 at Northland community college. Dee is a member of the United Way board of directors and Brenda is Miss Thief River Falls of 1975. With a goal of $55,000 adopted for the current year, emphasis is being placed on having all wage earners contribute to the United Way campaign.

Charged With Taking Elk

Foss Enters Plea Of Not Guilty Friday

Gordon Foss of Grygla entered pleas of not guilty to five counts of taking a protected big game species, namely elk, and Judge Warren A. Saetre heard a motion by the prosecution for a change of venue at the omnibus hearing held Friday morning in Thief River Falls. The hearing was a Marshall county district court proceeding, but was held in Thief River Falls as a convenience upon approval by both prosecution and defense.

Foss had waived his right to a closed hearing and the courtroom was nearly filled, indicating the high interest in the case. The defendant is charged with shooting five elk in his oats field north of Grygla on September 6.

Judge Saetre said he will issue a ruling on the petition for a change of venue this week. If a change is granted, he assured the attorneys present, it will be to one of the 17 northwestern Minnesota counties which comprise the Ninth judicial district. If not, the case will be heard at Warren, probably at the fall term to be held beginning October 6.

The judge also said he would rule later on the defendant's request for the appointment of a public defender, although he indicated after questioning of Foss that it did not appear he would be justified in granting the request.

Following opening statements by Judge Saetre—in which he outlined the procedure of the hearing to determine admissability of evidence and instructed the press not to publish any testimony presented—the prosecution was directed to proceed in presentation of evidence.

Harold Myhre, Marshall county attorney, was prepared to call three witnesses who had held conversations with the defendant after the incident occurred. Attorney Robert Carter, representing Foss, stated that the defense would not attack the probable cause which the state would attempt to establish. He said that the defendant admits to the fact of the alleged five counts and the issue by the defense is that the shooting was a defensible deed. Carter said he would not wish to cross-examine state witnesses.

Carter then informed the bench that the defendant wished to petition for a public defender or, if that request was not granted, to defend himself in the case. He advised against the latter, stating that he did not believe Foss was qualified to properly represent himself in court.

Foss asked to address the bench and in so doing said he did not believe the case should have been brought into court and asked the judge to throw it out.

Judge Saetre replied that he did not have the authority to

Northland Adds 4 New Programs

Northland community college's community service-continuing education office recently announced four new programs that will be added to the fall schedule beginning in October.

One of the programs is a three-session seminar titled "American Issues" to be held October 1, 29 and December 3 from 7-10 p.m. in the college auditorium. A number of historical topics will be discussed in the seminar, which has been described as an "awareness study" of the country.

The program was developed for the national Bicentennial under the sponsorship of the national endowment for the humanities and the American revolution Bicentennial commission. A registration fee of $10 will be charged with minimum enrollment of 30 required to conduct the seminar.

Rosemaling will be offered as a community service course at NCC beginning Wednesday, October 8 at 7 p.m. in the art room. Cost of the course will be $10 plus materials and supplies. Enrollment will be limited to the first 20 registrants.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Local WCTU Receives First Place Honors

Alice Mae Stuart Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance Union scrap book containing reports of monthly meetings and special events won first place in the state, according to a report made at the September meeting of the local unit.

Following the announcement tribute was given to the Thief River Falls Times for publishing the reports and announcements.

The local meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Mons Engelstad. Mrs. Earle Ripley was in charge of the devotional meditation, using the theme, "Spiritual Values", based on Prov. 14:1-12. She stressed verses 1,5 and 12. She stated that the book of Proverbs relates the experiences of Solomon, who after engaging in the various activities recognized that God's commandments are matchless. Advantages listed were: Upright living pleases and honors God, Wise man's speech is respected; Faithful witness will not lie; Knowledge is easy for those who understand; Wiseman looks ahead as joy is lasting and pleasure is only temporary; A common bond exists among Godly people; and The work of the Godly will continue to grow. She concluded by saying that the Bible, written by men and inspired by God is a guide or road map for Christian living. Without it people lose their sense of God's presence and consequently become insecure.

A complete report of the State WCTU convention, held August 25-27, in Moorhead was read by Mrs. Hildur Lian, Mrs. Ripley, Mrs. Olga Larson, Mrs. Edwin Hanson, Mrs. Alfred Haugen and Miss Agnes Longren. The convention stressed changing the legal drinking age from 18 to 19 as vandalism and lawlessness have increased since 18 year-olds were given the right to consume alcoholic beverages.

State President Mrs. Theodore M. Lee presided at the convention, and Rev. Merle Christianson was the banquet speaker. He stated that alcoholism is the most devastating thing that has hit our country, causing 49 per cent of all accidents, with one of every five drivers a repeat violator. Alcoholism begins with social drinking with one of every six becoming addicted. He concluded by stating that each alcoholic affects 10 others. In this group are co-workers, family and friends. With 9,000,000 alcoholics in this nation, the number of people affected by alcohol is staggering. Laxness of law enforcement and the complacent attitude among church people towards drinking were cited as deterents in the fight against the steadily growing problem of alcoholism.

District presidents were in charge of the memorial services, with each reading the names of members who had died during the year. Included among the seven from District Seven North was Mrs. Lydia Finstad, who was a member of the Thief River Falls unit.

It was noted that the WCTU was the first world-wide women's organization. Members were encouraged to continue the work proclaiming total abstinence.

Several resolutions submitted by the state committee were read. Included was the promotion of sermon writing contests for seminary students; supplying total abstinence materials to school authorities and teachers; a membership campaign to recruit young women; opposition of trancendental meditation in public institutions of learning; proposing that Minnesota set a realistic level of .05 per cent as the minimum alcohol content of the blood above which driving under the influence is presumed; and that Congress pass a bill which will prohibit the broadcasting or televising of any advertising of alcoholic beverages.

The local meeting also included the collecting of annual dues of a penny a day and a prayer. Several also paid the Rock of Ages dues of $5 a year.

Mrs. Otto Netteland read the September Radio releases, Mrs. Mons Engelstad read the poem "A Soldier Salutes the WCTU," and Mrs. Carl Green submitted several newspaper clippings. Greeting cards were also signed and sent to Mrs. Ella Knutson and Mrs. Hilda Wilson, patients at CNC unit, and birthday cards for Mrs. Helga Dyrud, Agnes Longren and Mrs. Sylvia Martinson.

The next meeting of the WCTU will be held October 17 at the home of Mrs. Benhard Wold.

Hansen-Smith Marriage Vows Spoken At Redeemer

Sharon R. Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gusa of Middle River, and Wayne C. Smith, son of Mrs. Lillian Smith and the late Frank C. Smith, exchanged marriage vows recently at an afternoon ceremony at Redeemer Lutheran church in this city.

Rev. Keith Prekker officiated at the double ring ceremony. Providing organ music for the ceremony was Mrs. William Halbasch. For the processional she played the traditional "Bridal Chorus". The soloist was Greg Sorenson. He sang "Sunrise Sunset," before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love," as the couple knelt at the altar, and "Follow Me," for the recessional.

For her wedding, the bride wore a floor-length gown of yellow polyester knit which she had designed and made. The empire gown featured a high neckline and long puffed sleeves edged with yellow lace and a tie belt. Enhancing the front of the bodice was a floral design embroidered by the bride's mother. The bride carried a cascade of yellow, blue and white wild roses with white ribbon streamers.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Marty Gusa of Duluth. Bridesmaid was Barb Walseth, a friend of the bride. They wore identical floor-length gowns of pink, yellow, blue and white floral polyester knit, fashioned after the bridal gown, with necklines and short puffed sleeves edged with white lace. They carried bouquets of pink, yellow, and white wild roses with white ribbon streamers.

Flower girl was Stacie Hansen, daughter of the bride. Her floor-length gown of yellow polyester knit with short puffed sleeves was designed and made by the bride to match her bridal gown. The bodice of her gown was also embroidered by the bride's mother. She carried a flower ball of yellow, pink, and white wild roses with white ribbon streamers.

Best man was Tom Williams, a friend of the groom. Groomsman was Jim Huseth, a friend of the groom. They wore light blue tuxedos and navy blue trousers with white ruffled shirts and navy blue vests. Their boutonnieres were pink wild roses. The groom was attired in a light blue tuxedo and light blue trousers with a white ruffled shirt and navy blue vest. He wore a yellow wild rose boutonniere.

Serving as ushers were Bill Gusa, brother of the bride, and Rolland Smith of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, brother of the groom. They each wore a white wild rose boutonniere, as did the father of the bride.

The mother of the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of blue and white floral polyester knit with a corsage of yellow wild roses. The mother of the groom wore a red, white and blue street-length dress complemented by a corsage of white wild roses.

All the flowers in the wedding were made and arranged by Mrs. Norma Lindsey of Bemidji.

A reception in the church fellowship hall followed the ceremony. Mrs. Catherine Burkholder, sister of the bride, registered the guests. At the punch bowl was Mrs. Carolyn Miller of Barron, Wis., sister of the bride.

Highlighting the reception table was a three-tiered wedding cake baked and decorated by Mr. and Mrs. Terry Miller of Barron, Wis., brother-in-law and sister of the bride. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Joan McPherson of Minneapolis, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Jan Lundin, cousin of the groom. Pouring coffee was Mrs. Linnae Enge, friend of the couple. Women of the Mary unit assisted in the kitchen.

Following the reception, the bride's parents hosted a buffet supper at their farm for the relatives and close friends.

The couple is now at home in this city where the groom is employed by the city Park and Recreation department and the bride is employed by Arctic Enterprises, Inc. Photo by LeMar Photography of Crookston

Cindy Ziemann-David Howe Exchange Original Vows

Reciting wedding vows written by the groom, Miss Cindy Lee Ziemann became the bride of David John Howe on August 16 at 2:30 p.m., at St. Philips church in Bemidji. Rev. Warren Regnier officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ziemann of Thief River Falls. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. William Howe of Bemidji.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a gown of white-frost nylon with white floral lace in daisy pattern on the bodice, and around the crystal-pleated neckline. Matching lace extended from the shoulder unto the sleeves and encircled the cuffs. A deep flounce edged the full skirt complemented by a long train with lace trim. Her bouffant veil, edged with a coordinating lace trim was held by a profile headpiece of lace and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and blue and yellow daisies.

Janet Patterson was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Carolyn Mackai, of Babbitt, sister of bride, Margi Welle and Terry Howe, sister of the groom. Their identical gowns of blue and yellow knit, in dotted Swiss pattern, were fashioned with square necklines, bishop sleeves and a large flounce surrounding the skirt. To correspond with the white daisy trim that accented the necklines, cuffs and bottom of the skirt, they wore wrist corsages of blue and yellow daisies with yellow dotted Swiss ruffles.

Flower girls were Melissa Mackai, niece of the bride, and Cori Van Brunt, niece of the groom. They wore matching gowns of yellow and blue dotted Swiss and carried white baskets filled with yellow and blue daisies.

Patrick Novitzki of Farmington was best man. Groomsmen were Bob Howe of Madison, Wis., and Dick Howe, brothers of the groom, Tom Aber of Bingamton, N.Y., and Jon Morlan of Grand Rapids, friends of the groom. Serving as ushers were John Byrne of Fairbault, Edwin Demery, Patrick Russel and the bride's brother, Tom Ziemann of Thief River Falls.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ziemann wore a sleeveless, floor-length gown of yellow dotted Swiss fashioned with a fitted bodice featuring a double row of ruffles at the neckline and down the front. Her corsage was of yellow daisies. The mother of the groom wore a teal blue knit floor-length gown with a V-neckline and long sheer sleeves. Her corsage was of blue daisies.

Following the dinner, reception and dance held at the Bemidji Town and Country club, the couple left for a wedding trip to Mackinac City, Mich. They are now at home at Turtle Creek apartments in South Bend, Ind., where the groom is a senior at the University of Notre Dame. Both are graduates of Bemidji high school. The bride also attended Bemidji State University. Photo Image Photography, Bemidji.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

by Ellen M. Spray

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

People who believe that the actions of one person don't count should consider Lucius Domitius Ahenorbargus or Madeline Murray O'Hare. Although many centuries separate the two, they have one thing in common; their unscrupulousness in obtaining what they want.

Lucius was born in 37 and died in 68 at the age of 31. During that time, he served for 14 years as head of a large empire. In his short lifetime, he was known to be notoriously cruel and depraved. He had a great lust for power, surpassed only by his desire for selfish entertainment and parties. He was a villain, yet his name has gone down in history. He is better known as Nero Claudius Caesar Drusus Germanicus, the emperor of Rome.

Madeline Murray O'Hare is today's villain. She, a notorious atheist, is out nation's greatest enemy. Through her unscrupulous work, she is responsible for removing prayers and the reading of the Bible in public schools. She is continuing her fight against Christianity. She now has obtained 27,000 signed letters protesting the astronauts actions of reading the Bible as a Christmas message to the world as they orbited the moon in their spacecraft. She is seeking to have the astronauts publicly censored for their act and further seeks to prohibit any further demonstrations of religion by public leaders. Since she is atheist, she does not want to be subjected to the teachings of Christianity, nor does she want her nation, which is also your nation and my nation, to proclaim Christ or to be known as a Christian country.

That our nation is in a turmoil can not be denied. In the last few years, we have had a presidential assassination and several attempted assassinations. Since the recent attempts on the life of President Ford, the rumblings in favor of strict gun control are getting louder. Gun control will not stop violence. Nor can violence be curtailed by letting Madeline O'Hare and her followers uproot our religious convictions. Her beliefs are a sharp contrast to the methods used in forming our government.

In 1787, our leaders were at an impasse. The constituting Congress had been in session for four to five weeks but had made no progress towards the construction of a constitution. It appeared that instead of a united nation, our country would be composed of bickering states. In an attempt to create unity, Benjamin Franklin, then 81 years of age, addressed the group, saying "In the beginning of the contest with Britain, when we were sensible of danger, we had daily prayers in this room for divine protection. Our prayers, sir, were heard, and they were graciously answered. I have lived, sir, a long time, and the longer I live the more convincing proofs I see of this truth—that God governs the affairs of men."

Following his brief speech, the congress adjourned to go home and pray. When they reconvened, they wrote the Constitution of the United States.

We have two choices. We can do as Nero did, fiddle and dance as Rome burned, by letting Madeline O'Hare deprive us of our religious freedom, or we can follow in the footsteps of the founders of this country by offering prayers for guidance and protection.

If you wish to curtail the work of Madeline O'Hare, you may write to the National Aeronautic and Space Administration, Manned Space Craft Center, Astronauts' office, Houston, Tex. 77059, expressing support for the astronauts.

Today's recipe comes from Mrs. Leland Thomas of Grygla.

Applicants For Welfare Must Also Seek Jobs

U.S. department of labor and the department of health, education, and welfare have announced jointly that welfare applicants must register for jobs at state employment service offices rather than at local welfare offices.

This shift in location of registration for the work incentive (WIN) program will assist AFDC applicants in more quickly seeking jobs. (AFDC refers to aid to families with dependent children.)

In the 1975 fiscal year, WIN placed 170,000 adult recipients of AFDC. The two departments seek to expand these placements.

The new regulations combine previously separate HEW and DOL WIN regulations, and make this additional change: A new intensive manpower services component can be added at state option to provide job referrals, labor market information, job development and job-seeking-skill development.

Eliminated from earlier proposed regulations was the requirement that all noncertified WIN registrants make a job search. It is anticipated that Congress will be asked to pass legislation requiring all registered AFDC applicants and recipients to seek employment as a condition of eligibility for AFDC.

WIN is administered by a national coordinating committee consisting of the assistant secretary of labor William H. Kolberg, and the acting administrator of HEW's social and rehabilitation service, John A. Svahn.

State and local WIN offices are made up of staff from the state employment service and the public welfare agency. The federal government reimburses states for 90 per cent of WIN expenditures. The program operates in every state, with a total of more than 300 local WIN project offices.

Established by Congress under 1967 amendments to the social security act, the WIN program helps adult AFDC recipients obtain employment and move toward self-sufficiency and independence. Supportive services, including child care, are available to help make it possible for recipients to take jobs.

Since July 1972, all non-exempt adult AFDC recipients have been required, as a condition of eligibility for for AFDC, to register for work or training with the WIN program. Exempt are children under 16 or attending school full time; persons who are ill, incapacitated, or elderly; persons too remote from a project to take part; persons needed at home to care for invalids; mothers or other relatives caring for a child under six; and mothers or female caretakers of a child if the father or other male relative in the home has registered. Exempt recipients may volunteer for the program.

Unemployment In Minn. Down .7% From July Rate

Minnesota's unemployment rate was 5.1 per cent in August, down .7 of a percentage point from the July rate of 5.8 per cent, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing, Minnesota department of employment services, said recently.

The August rate was 1.8 per cent above August a year ago and compares with a national rate of 8.2 per cent for August. None of these rates are seasonally adusted. (The national seasonally adjusted rate for August was 8.4 per cent and is the publicly announced rate.)

The number of persons unemployed in Minnesota in August was 91,700, down 15,700 from July but up 32,600 from August a year ago. The number of persons employed in August was 1,721,700, down 15,900 from July and 20,300 below August a year ago.

Minnesota's labor force in August was 1,813,500 persons, down 31,500 from July but 12,400 more than August of last year.

Cost Of Vehicle Safety Features May Be Ordered

Under a proposed new regulation by the national highway traffic safety administration (NHTSA), manufacturers of motor vehicle equipment will be required to submit detailed cost data when they oppose actions of the agency on the grounds of increased cost.

According to a report received by the Minnesota department of public safety, the purpose of the proposed regulation is to enable NHTSA to make an informed judgment as to the validity of claims by manufacturers that actions of the agency, such as issuance of safety standards for vehicles, are not practicable because of increased cost.

The manufacturer's claim must set forth data in significant categories so that the costs studies may be compared with other claims, and with comparable studies prepared by NHTSA.

The cost figures will be adjusted to exclude costs attributable to general increases in the prices of materials, labor, supplied products, utilities, etc. Briefly, the cost increase must be isolated from those caused by inflation, or decisions of the manufacturer regarding managemnt, marketing or design.

The proposal would also require that the manufacturer estimate the incremental cost not only to himself, but to the consumer.

Comments on the proposed regulation may be submitted to NHTSA, Washington, D.C. prior to October 28, 1975.

Child Hospital Lists Babysitter Do's And Don'ts

Parents choose peanut butter, flame-retardant clothing and safety-tested toys for their children. They should be choosey about babysitters too!

Do be selective. Screen your babysitter candidates carefully. Select a reliable, responsible person to care for your children, say the education and training staff members at St. Paul Children's hospital. Request references. Choose the right sitter for the right situation. A 14-year-old teenager may be the best sitter for your four-year-old preschooler, but not for your four-week-old baby. He needs adult care.

Check out the substitute-parent's attitude. Does she really enjoy being with children? What activities does she plan for them?

Select a sitter who can handle emergencies. . . . a fire in the home. . . . a badly cut foot. . . . a gas leak. Ask her what she would do!

Don't bring a sitter into your home without a rehearsal. Invite the person you have selected to meet your children and visit your home beforehand. Introduce her to your family and the layout of your home. Discuss rules, family background and previous sitter experiences. Indicate your child's specific needs—special diets, medications, allergies or toilet-training problems. Correctly labeled medications and instructions should be placed in a specially designated area to avoid confusion.

Do establish babysitter guidelines.

Are the sitter's friends allowed to come along or drop in for a visti?

Can the sitter make or receive telephone calls? How many? How long?

Can the sitter nap before you get home late at night? Other times?

What and where can the sitter eat?

What minimum housekeeping tasks is the sitter responbible for?

Instruct the babysitter in the use of door locks (never open the door to strangers), the television and other appliances, and in the location of telephones in your home.

Don't leave the house without a list of important telephone numbers for your sitter. The education and training staff at St. Paul Children's hospital offers a telephone number checklist to parents. This checklist includes: Names of family members, address-telephone number; number where parents may be reached and other necessary information if you are going to a large public place; name-address-telephone number of relative; name-address-telephone number of neighbor; fire and police departments; doctor and pharmacy; hospital and poison control center; and special instruction.

A loving, effective babysitter is as important to your child's well-being as loving, effective parents.

If you think inflation is killing you, imagine what it is doing to them.
Things are tough all over. Your dollars don't buy as much as they used to and that hurts, but have you stopped to think what inflation is doing to people too old to work, and people who have to live on limited incomes.

And what about the agencies that try to help these people.

Inflation is hurting United Way because we are in the business of providing services to help people. Perhaps inflation hurts us more because the problems are multipled 1,000 times over in the lives of people who depend on us for help.

A lot of people just can't make it today without a United Way.

For you inflation may mean hanging on to the old station wagon for another year or cutting back on something. Many of the people we serve have nothing left to cut back on. The people we serve are counting on us—we are counting on you. Give now when it really counts for those who need it the most. Give the United Way.

VA Will Spend $300 Million In 1975 Benefits

A Veterans Administration official said the federal agency will spend some $300 million this year to serve Minnesota's 545,000 veterans and their families. James J. Cox, director of VA's Veterans assistance service in Washington, D.C., described the state of veterans' affairs as "never healthier."

Cox spoke at the Minnesota county veterans service officers' annual conference at Ruttger's Bay lake lodge in Deerwood, Mn. The three-day training clinic ended September 17. He said the VA will provide GI Bill education and training assistance to approximately 46,000 Vietnam-era veterans in the state, with nearly one-half in colleges and universities. Since the beginning of the current GI bill in June 1966, 108,000 veterans and servicemen in Minnesota have taken advantage of the GI bill, including almost 47,000 at the college level.

Nationally, this fall's enrollment will bring the total number of veterans and servicemen trained under the current GI bill to "well over six million—more than two-and-one-half times the 2.4 million total of the Korean program, and closing in on the World War II program of 7.8 million," he said. A comparison of the three GI bills shows that 59.6 per cent of eligible Vietnam-era veterans have participated in the current GI Bill education and training program, compared with 50.5 and 43.4 per cent, respectively, for the World War II and Korean programs.

Cox said a work force of more than 4,300 employees will be maintained to staff VA hospitals in Minneapolis and St. Cloud, and operate the VA center and data processing center in the federal building at Ft. Snelling. He said the VA will provide in-patient hospital care for more than 20,000 state veterans and handle approximately 190,000 outpatient visits, both of which he called "record highs."

The VA will mail checks of more than $130 million, "the highest amount in history," in disability, death compensation and pension checks to Minnesota's 95,000 veterans and survivors.

In the housing field, the VA will guarantee or insure more than 4,100 home loans valued over $80 million for Minnesota veterans this year. He said that since the GI bill home loan program began 31 years ago, more than 180,000 of these loans amounting to nearly $2.5 billion have gone to the state's veterans. Nationally, VA has guaranteed 8.8 million home loans valued in excess of $113 billion.

Earlier this year, 101,000 Minnesota veterans received more than $7.3 million in government life insurance dividend checks or credits from VA.

Cox said the state of veterans' affairs in the nation "has never been healthier. By this I mean that the VA today is providing the greatest number of veterans and dependents in history with the most comprehensive and generous benefits and services any nation has ever given its veterans.

"A total of 29.5 million living veterans, 66 million family members and four million veterans' survivors, or nearly half of the nation's total population, are presently or potentially entitled to VA benefits and services," he said. VA's record-high budget of nearly $18 billion for fiscal year 1976, and its work force of more than 213,000 employees nationally, are both the third largest in the federal government, he said.

Record 2,570 Fall Enrollment At Concordia

Fall enrollment at Concordia college is a record, 2,570, according to Donald Dale, registrar of the college. This represents an increase of 168 students, or seven per cent from last fall.

While the majority of students continue to come from Minnesota, there is an 18 per cent increase in the number of new non-Minnesota students.

Freshmen total 871, a 21 per cent increase from 720 freshmen in 1974. New transfer students number 148 students, up 21 students from last fall.

Women total 1,364 students and men 1,206 this fall. There are 42 states and 15 foreign countries represented in the student body.

Jim Hausmann, dean of admissions and financial aid, attributes the 22 per cent increase in new students to many factors, including the economy and the present job market, but cites the increased availability of financial aid to middle income families as a prime reason for the increase.

Foss Pleads Not Guilty To Taking Of Elk

throw the case out of court at this time, although he would have such authority after the jury had been impaneled and there seemed to be sufficient grounds for dismissal.

In regard to the request for a public defender, the judge said, he would have to know the value of property owned by the defendant in order to determine indigency. He also noted that a person not learned in the law would be at a distinct disadvantage in attempting to represent himself in court. The judge can not give any assistance, he said, and must be fair and impartial. While the court does not have the authority to require representation of a defendant by an attorney, he said, he would recommend that Foss does not represent himself.

With the hearing on admissability of evidence waived, a recess was taken at which time the defendant was to consult with his attorney regarding the request for a public defender.

When the court re-convened, Foss was placed under oath and answered questions from Judge Saetre. He said he owned 200 acres in Northwood township of Beltrami county and 240 acres in Marshall county, valuing the Beltrami county land in excess of $75 per acre and the latter at $125 to $150 an acre minimum. He said he had 80 head of cattle including 29 milk cows, old machinery used to farm his land, a 1968 model car, and some grain from the present crop year in storage.

His indebtedness was listed as approximately $18,200 which includes his mortgage, back taxes and outstanding debt on a granary and bulk milk tank.

Attorney Myhre said that the prosecution's petition for a change of venue was concerned with fairness and justice in the case. He said that Marshall county has a population of only 13,000 people and that many facts of the case have been published in the newspapers of the county and area. He speculated that there may be difficulty in getting an impartial jury in the county.

Attorney Carter countered that Foss has a right to be tried by a jury of his peers, and that residents of Marshall county are best acquainted with local conditions. He added that newspaper accounts of the incident have been prejudicial against the defendant, and that he would be "vigorously opposed" to a change of venue.

In completing the arraignment begun at Hallock early last week, the judge asked the defendant if he understood the charges and if he had consulted with his attorney regarding his plea. Foss said that he understood and that he had consulted with Carter.

Judge Saetre then read each of the charges independently and Foss entered pleas of not guilty to each count. No demand was made by either prosecution or defense for an immediate trial and Foss was released on his own recognizance, upon his promise to report for trial when called.

Defense and prosecution indicated that they could be ready for trial at the fall term of criminal court in Marshall county which starts October 6 at Warren. Carter said he would be ready if the case was tried toward the end of the term. If a change of venue is granted, it is likely that the case would not be heard during the fall term.

VA Increases Mortgage Loan Interest Rates

Veterans administration has increased its home loan mortgage interest rate ceiling from 8½ per cent to 9 per cent, effective September 2.

The increase was made in accordance with a joint VA and department of housing and urban development policy of keeping the maximum rate in line with actual mortgage market conditions and to keep discount points to a minimum.

The increase was necessary to permit the VA to maintain its mortgage interest rate ceiling at a level consistent with the demands of the loan market, a spokesman said. If the interest rate is allowed to fall behind the market, the availability of money for VA loans becomes seriously impaired, he added.

The increase to 9 per cent will narrow the gap in relation to the loan market. In addition to improving the yield of such loans, the increase in the interest rate will also reduce the discounts for VA loans.

Since VA regulations prohibit payment of discounts by veterans, the discounts must be paid by the seller of the house. When discounts are high, many sellers refuse to sell to veterans and thereby prevent many veteran buyers from acquiring homes to meet their needs, the VA said. The present increase is expected to improve the availability of funds for VA loans as well as improve the housing outlook, according to the federal agency.

The VA loan guaranty program assisted almost 300,000 veterans to become homeowners in the last year. In the 31-year history of the GI loan program, there have been 8.8 million loans guaranteed, amounting to $113 billion. About 54 per cent already have been paid in full.

Crop Residue Can Be Used To Produce Energy, Fertilizer

by Jeannie Hanson
U of M News Service

How can Minnesota use cornstalks, sawdust, garbage, winter rye and poplar trees to meet one-third of its total energy needs by 1985?

By converting them into ammonia and methanol. The ammonia would be used for fertilizer and converted to cattle feed supplements and the methanol as clean-burning heating fuel, power plant fuel, secondary fuel for diesels and for gas turbines.

According to University of Minnesota researchers, the technology for this energy supply is now ready but social planning and the search for funds has just begun.

"We would like Minnesota to move toward energy self-sufficiency in stages," Dr. Perry Blackshear, mechanical engineering professor, said. The first stage would be to use cornstalks, sawdust and other crop and forestry residues to synthesize liquid ammonia for fertilizer and for cattle.

Blackshear estimates that Minnesota now generates 25 million tons of crop residues from fields. According to Dr. Lowell Hanson, professor of soil science, at least 15 to 20 per cent could be removed without hurting the soil—and converted into energy.

Blackshear feels Minnesota could begin ammonia synthesis in fewer than three years. Excess cellulose (anything containing carbon and hydrogen) also could be used for energy in other agricultural states and even nations rich in farmland but poor in energy.

"We should take advantage of all the energy we have, combining waste disposal with energy recovery," Dr. David Kittleson, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, said. He stressed the key to the next stage in Minnesota's energy self-sufficiency: synthetic fuels such as methanol.

Methanol production uses much of the same technology and the same farm residues for raw materials as ammonia production. Garbage is another good source of methanol, once glass and metals are separated for recycling, Kittelson said, adding that with these materials, full-scale synthesis of liquid methanol could be underway in 10 years.

Other farm products that could be used for ammonia and methanol production are being investigated by Dr. Dale Moss, professor of agronomy and plant genetics at the University of Minnesota. "We could get an 'energy crop' both before and after the normal food crop," he said. For example, winter rye, planted in the fall and harvested in the spring before corn can be planted, could be used solely as an energy source. This "multiple cropping" could produce quite a bit of fuel, he said.

Moss also stressed "dual purpose crops." A strain of corn could be developed, for example, with the same maximum grain yield but with more stalk for the energy recovery.

Also, land not suitable for farming could be used to produce "energy crops" such as sweet sorghums, sudan grass, and even poplar and quaking aspen trees, planted and harvested solely for ammonia and methanol energy.

None of these energy plans would reduce food yields in Minnesota, Moss stressed. In fact, according to Blackshear, efficient conversion of wastes into ammonia fertilizer could actually increase food production worldwide. "Energy farming" has begun already, on a small scale, in Maine, Oregon and Washington.

How would ammonia and methanol be synthesized for Minnesota's energy needs? Cornstalks and other cellulose would be burned in an oxygen-depleted atmosphere. Steam would be added, if necessary, and the mixture would be passed over a catalyst. This gasification process has already been done successfully with coal and Blackshear feels ammonia and methanol synthesis from cellulose would be even easier than from coal.

But, as with any energy source, the raw material must be collected first and the results transported and stored later. According to Balckshear's estimates, cornstalks and other crop residues could be ground up and delivered to a rural plant for $16 a ton, cheaper than coal. A metropolitan-area plant would probably use garbage, closer at hand and in large supply.

Transport and storage are a bit more difficult and represent the expensive part of the energy equation. Both ammonia and methanol can, however, be pipelined.

Esperts are not yet sure what size conversion plant would be most economical. Small units for use on cars have already been developed by Volvo and Saab. In Finland, sawdust and peat are processed on the backs of cars. In this country, other fuel prices are still less expensive than this system.

So far, estimates are that a plant serving a 300 to 600 square mile area would be the most feasible. Such a county-wide plant could produce the equivalent of 185 megawatts of energy from 2,000 tons of waste cellulose per day.

The state energy agency and several large local industries are interested; but financial problems loom. Minnesota could use seven such plants. Two would supply all ammonia needs, the other five would produce methanol. The cost: $30 million apiece.

The cost per barrel of this synthetic fuel is close to the price of imported oil. "Since oil fluctuates in price, the risk of investing in this new fuel is considerable," Kittelson explained. Continental Oil, Exxon and large oil companies are still leery, even on a national scale.

Kittelson's prediction: The new synthetic fuel plants will not be developed unless the federal government subsidizes at least the first few.

Social decisions, such as the best locations for such plants, and how plant wastes will be treated, have not yet been made either. "We want to work out a harmonious technology," Blackshear said.

8,000 Calls Answered By 'U' DIAL Info

Four thousand callers got a busy signal, but 8,000 others got the information they were seeking last year when they called the DIAL information number at the University of Minnesota's Twin Cities campus.

The DIAL service, offered through the campus assistance center, went into operation in January. Its purpose is to provide a central number for persons to call about University programs, services and procedures.

Information from any of 52 tapes has been available during the day and after regular business hours and on weekends. Thirty per cent of the calls last year came after University offices normally close, according to Bob Barnett, coordinator of the program.

Barnett said that the addition of two phone lines to the existing two lines is expected to eliminate the busy signal problem for many of the callers. The tape library has also been expanded from 52 to 165 tapes.

Facilities for the program will be moved this fall to the campus assistance center office. Operation of the program out of University hospitals, in cooperation with the Minnesota medical information service, has been discontinued.

Barnett said during the first six months of operation the program received 722 calls for two tapes dealing with veneral diseases. Other tapes requested frequently were about the first signs of pregnancy, birth control pills and writing a resume.

Service is provided Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on weekends from noon to 5 p.m. Tapes must be requested by number. A brochure listing current tapes may be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Campus assistance center, 107 temporary, north of mines, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455.

44 Examined At Clinics For Well Children

A total of 44 children have now examined at the early and periodic screening clinics, according to Viola L. Rud, Marshall county public health nurse.

Although the screening is for well children, a number have been referred to physicians for evaluation of such conditions as strabissmus, orthopedic problems, a heart murmur and ear infections. Some have also received nutrition counseling because of a low hematocrit.

Children to be seen at the clinic are visited at home where an assessment of emotional, social and motor development is done in familiar surroundings, said Mrs. Rud.

At the clinic, height, weight and head measurements are taken, vision and hearing are checked, a hemacrit, urine test and mantoux test is done, and a physical assessment is done by a registered nurse.

A report of the entire screening is sent to the family physician.

Clinics are held monthly in three locations. Children are seen by appointment only. For more information write or call the Marshall county public health nursing service, Warren, 742-9631.

Cooperatives do more for America than you might think

They've helped to make the American farmer the world's most productive.

As a result, Americans are the best-fed and best-clothed people in history and they spend a smaller percentage of their income for food than people of any other nation.

In addition, the United States is the world's greatest supplier of food and fiber to other nations. In 1974, the U.S. exported $22 billion worth of farm products, helping pay for our huge imports of expensive crude oil.

Co-ops are an integral part of agriculture

Many different types of co-ops have helped the American farmer achieve his present level of efficiency and production. Electric power co-ops bring electricity to his farm and home, saving time and labor and providing comfort and convenience.

Supply co-ops furnish services, products and technicians to improve production and reduce costs. Dairy, grain, livestock, sugar beet and other marketing co-ops help him sell his produce in an orderly fashion and improve margins between expenses and income. Telephone, insurance, and farm credit institutions are typical of important service co-ops which contribute to his efficiency and help him expand his operations.

October is CO-OP Month

Governor Anderson has proclaimed October as CO-OP Month, urging all Minnesotans to recognize the economic and democratic values of cooperatives and the care they have shown in improving the quality of life for all the people of our state. CO-OP Month . . . October . . . is a good time to find out more about what co-ops do for America and for you.

Open Meetings

Following editorial is from the Brainerd Dispatch:

A legislative hearing on the open meeting bill was held in Little Falls Friday afternoon and, in our opinion, three men speaking out for changes in the bill made a very strong argument for just the opposite.

Two of the men were mayors and one was the chairman of a city council. All three said that they just couldn't work effectively unless they could, at times, go into secret sessions. They seemed to contend the public just couldn't understand what was going on at the time, or else that it wouldn't be good for them to know.

Both of the mayors that spoke said that they had violated the open meeting law and had done so deliberately. One of the two drew cheers and applause from other officials in the crowd when he stridently stated that "You're damn right I violated the law" and added that he would do it again.

At the same time, all three said that public officials should be allowed to meet in private sessions because they are all men of "integrity" and would do nothing that wasn't in the best interests of the public while they were meeting in secret.

Somehow, it just didn't seem to fit. On the one hand, these men publicly admitted that they had violated a law that they had sworn under oath they would uphold, and on the other hand, claimed that their integrity should be unquestionable.

When they swore that oath of office, they did not swear that they would uphold the laws if they liked them or if it were convenient for them to do so. They swore that they would uphold all the laws of the state and their local unit of government.

As one man, a private citizen said, "If we can't trust these men to uphold laws they swore to uphold, how can we trust them behind closed doors?"

It continues to be our opinion that these elected officials are elected to conduct the public's business and that the public has a right to know what they are doing. It is not enough to know what decisions are arrived at, it is necessary that the public knows how those decisions are reached.

Only when we have this kind of openness from the very lowest to the very highest of levels will we be able to rekindle some of the confidence in government that was stamped out by Watergate.

Being Good, Good For You

Grand Rapids Herald-Review carried the following editorial recently in regarding the stress caused by present day breaks with morality and tradition:

"Morality is good for you," declares a headline above an aditorial in the Sept. 15 issue of the Christian Science Monitor.

That can scarcely be considered startling news, particularly in a newspaper which has always maintained and called for high ethical standards. What makes it unusual is that the editorial is reporting that the president of the American Psychological association (APA) is "bucking the hedonistic tide and affirming the scientific validity of traditional morality."

Prof. Donald T. Campbell at a recent APA convention challenged contemporary psychologies which not only explain human behavior as selfishly motivated but teach that this is the way it should be.

Instead, Prof. Campbell advocates an "underlying wisdom" that has been well tested in the "recipes for living that tradition has supplied us."

This, of course, is what the church has been saying for hundreds of years.

Being good—or at least striving for that goal—is good for people. There are countless thousands who have recognized that fact and, while admittedly falling short, have gained richer lives through trying. Oldtimers who frequently talk of the good old days refer to the neighborliness, the sharing, the desire to help, the basic honesty of the people of that time. They were not without fault, but moral values were held in far higher repute than they are by much of our population today.

No greater pattern for a fulfilling life has been advanced than the ten commandments brought to the world by Moses and exemplified and emphasized by Jesus. It is not difficult to imagine how much better the world would be today if the commandments had been faithfully followed.

Would there have been a Watergate if the commandment against bearing false witness had been rigidly observed in America? Would there be so many broken homes and divorces if the commandment against adultery had been taken seriously? Honor thy father and thy mother might have eased the last days of countless old people. Crime, even war, could be sharply curtailed if all the world would accept the truth that being good for you.

It is human to fall short of goals. It is unfortunate, however, when so many of the time-proven vitures and traditions of the past are scorned and ignored. Those who insist that "number one" must come first have a great deal to learn about life. Virtually all of the problems confronting us today as a nation and a world demand that we be interested in shat is good for others, not just for us.

That is our only hope.

Not For Women

Following editorial is from the Fergus Falls Journal:

Does the U.S. Senate really have more concern about cattle than about women? That was the comparison senators almost seemed to be inviting when they voted last week to ban the use of the cancer-causing chemical diethystilbestrol (DES) in cattle feed but continue allowing its use as a contraceptive.

The vote was a controversial one because, as senators from cattle producing states pointed out, the possibility of a human cancer caused by eating beef somewhat remote. But the danger is strong enough that doctors have been warning pregnant women not to eat baby beef liver, in which the chemical might be more concentrated. DES has been known to cause 220 fatal cancers in daughters of women who took the drug to prevent miscarriages in the 1950s.

Meanwhile, the drug continues to be used as a morning-after birth control pill, in a dosage which would be approximately equal to 73,000 servings of beef liver every day for 50 years.

Doctors are supposed to administer DES as a contraceptive only in medical emergencies such as rape, to inform the patient of the danger and obtain written consent from a parent if the woman is under age. But as long as the drug is readily available, there is really no way that the food and drug administration can enforce curbs.

The only answer seems to be a ban on any use of the drug, which doesn't seem too likely because, ironically, DES has shown some value in treating certain cancers. And while the ban on administering DES to animals is a step in the right direction (Minnesota votes: Mondale for, Humphrey absent), we hope that the matter won't end there.

If the dangers posed by minor residues are sufficient to demand a ban, how can administering direct dosages hundreds of thousands of times stronger be justified? The pharmaceutical industry has never shown any great concern for the debilitating effects of its products upon women. As long as DES is effective and available, it will continue to be used. Perhaps a ban would even help force development of safer drugs to accomplish the same purpose.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

I am sending you a copy of my appeal to the Minnesota department of employment services for the disaster unemployment. I have not talked to a beef operator or a dairy operator who does not feel as I do about the disaster unemployment situation and the unfairness of the situation. Perhaps if more people would write letters to their representatives in Congress as well as the newspapers we could make the plight of the livestock raiser known and perhaps understood by the consumer.

I feel very angry when I see people go to the meat counter in a grocery store and then walk away because they cannot afford to pay the price for the meat. The cost hike between the livestock producer and the grocery store is completely unreasonable but I am afraid that the high cost is still blamed onto the producer. A copy of the letter is as follows:

Dear Sir:

I wish to appeal this determination on eligibility for disaster unemployment assistance to the point that I think you should flush the whole thing. As I see it the government has no use for the livestock man although the government will subsidize every other type of farming. Actually we would prefer to have the government stay out of our business but subsidies are necessary when the government persists in placing freezes on livestock and lifting embargoes on the importation of beef. The idea that our prices are controlled by supply and demand is no longer true and has actually become ridiculous. Our prices are controlled by Washington, D.C.

I lost 150 acres of hay as well as my crop and was unable to put up hay if there had been any to put up. The water came in and stayed for a period of 20 days and then there was the long drying process. As far as working with my cattle I did not do anything with them during this time. During the summer the cattle are on pasture and do not require any care.

There seems to be a great deal of concern for the grain farmers but in this case they are hurt for only one year but the livestock man is hurt for a period of at least two years and our investment is just as great as that of the grain farmer.

I would like to know if the government is planning to outlaw beef or are they just going to let the stockman slowly starve to death with their constant manipulations of the beef prices and unfair treatment. For sometime now we have heard about the vast amounts of grain that are used to fatten livestock and how this grain should be used to feed starving people but I have never heard anyone mention that there are vast quantities of the very best grain used to make alcoholic beverages. As far as I know there is more food value in beef than booze, especially for children.

Is the U.S. Government trying to destroy the family livestock farm? The family farm is far more productive and efficient than the huge corporation farm that is cheating several families out of making a living. I truly hope that the U.S. Government will wake up and realize this before it is too late.

The rest of the disaster assistance has also been a fiasco. We were told that we would also be able to get low interest loans and after filling out four (4) sheets of paper with information about every aspect of our financial status we are still waiting to receive notice that we will or will not receive the loans. This money was needed to help clear ditches, repair culverts, and remedy numerous other problems created by the flood. Winter is coming fast and then it will be too late to take care of a lot of these problems and then with the spring run-off the whole scene will be repeated once again.

Sincerely,
Roland McKinley

Better wheat yields next year begin with Far-Go® this fall.

Wild oats can rob your crop of vital nutrients and moisture. With Far-Go® preemergent herbicide by Monsanto, you can control wild oats before they get started. And with fall applied Far-Go — granules or liquid — you can get another big advantage: you can have more time next spring for essential planting jobs. Earlier seeding means a longer growing season. TRF Favored As Region 8 Hockey Site

If the Region Eight coaches have their way, the Region Eight hockey tournament will be held in Thief River Falls for the sixth straight year when the 1976 event gets underway.

A secret ballot vote Wednesday during a Region Eight coaches' meeting at Bagley revealed that the coaches favored Thief River Falls over East Grand Forks as the 1976 Region Eight tournament site by a 10-5 margin. One coach did not vote.

Both Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks put in bids for the 1976 Region Eight tournament. The annual classic has been staged in Thief River Falls every year since 1971.

Thief River Falls has not yet been approved as host for the 1976 tournament, since the coaches' vote is only a recommendation that is sent on to the Region Eight committee which will meet Wednesday at Wadena.

Another recommendation made by the coaches last week included the selection of Roseau (north) and Moorhead (south) as sites for the Sub Region Eight tournament sites. Roseau has been the north Sub Region playing site in recent years, but Moorhead would be a change from Detroit Lakes for the south.

The coaches also urged all varsity games to start at 7:30 p.m. and junior varsity games to start at 5:30 p.m. whenever possible, and recommended that home teams wear white instead of colored sweaters.

Lincoln high school head coach Bill McGann and Prowler assistants John Schmitz and Glen Chiodo represented Thief River Falls at the coaches' meeting.

Smith Getting Lots of Playing Time

Former Lincoln high school football standout Kent Smith has seen extensive duty with the Nebraska University football squad this fall.

Smith was credited with two unassisted tackles and one assisted stop as he played nearly the entire second half of Nebraska's 45-0 pounding of Indiana two weeks ago. Then Saturday, Smith played most of the game with the Cornhuskers' number one defensive unit in a 54-7 rout of Texas Christian.

Smith has maintained his spot as number two monsterback in the Nebraska defensive secondary behind All-American candidate Wonder Monds. The one-time Prowler star also starts on the Nebraska specialty teams.

Kent's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Smith of Thief River Falls, traveled to Lincoln, Neb. over the weekend and watched their son play as a collegiate for the first time.

Ken Spaeth, a Mahnomen high school graduate who was recruited by the Cornhuskers at the same time Kent was being wooed, caught his first pass Saturday when the big tight end hauled in a 12-yard reception with an impressive fourth quarter catch against TCU.

It's really an accomplishment when a player can come out of the "backwoods" in northwestern Minnesota and play for a football power like Nebraska. The Cornhuskers were rated fourth in the latest college polls and will likely move up another notch this week.

Unfortunately, ABC has not scheduled any Nebraska games for national television this fall. However, ABC could pick up a late season Nebraska games as one of its "wild card" games. Hopefully we won't have to wait until New Year's day to watch Nebraska play on TV in a bowl game.

Host TRF Invitational Tuesday

Young LHS Cross Country Squad Has Bright Future

Lincoln high school cross country team will act as host tomorrow (Tuesday) to its annual Thief River Falls invitational cross country meet on the Thief River Falls Country Club golf course.

Tomorrow's meet, the only home meet appearance for the Prowlers this fall, will include eight teams and will start at 5 p.m. Competition will be held on both varsity and B squad levels.

Thief River Falls, in the midst of a highly successful 1975 season, is fresh from impressive back-to-back invitational meet wins at Bagley and Grafton last week.

Every member of the Prowler varsity squad bettered his best time of the year at Grafton Thursday when the Prowlers upset defending North Dakota state cross country champion Grand Forks Red River 40-42. It was the first loss of the year for the Roughriders.

The Prowler varsity has been headed this fall by senior co-captains Dan Kezar and Dan Heleren, two evenly matched runners who run nearly identical times each race. At Grafton, Kezar ran a 12:20 over the 2.5 mile course while Heleren was clocked in 12:21. Heleren actually purposely pushed Kezar into the finishing chute ahead of himself to give Kezar the meet's third place medal.

Despite his team's success this fall, Smith admits that his 1973 Region Eight champion squad was probably a stronger team. What does excite Smith about his current edition is its youth and its future.

"It's not really fair to compare the two teams because of the age difference," said Smith. "In 1973 we had an all-senior team. Now a big part of our team is made up of sophomores."

Smith gets excited when he talks about the future of the sport at the school. "The future prospects are really great if the kids stay with it. Our best team by far will be coming up in the next couple of years if the kids continue to improve like they have been. There's some great cross country talent here."

In addition to the youth on his varsity, Smith has fielded the area's finest junior high school squad, brightening the future Prowler prospects even more.

The Prowler cross country team will be one of the first Lincoln teams who will be competing in a stronger Class AA field when tournament time rolls around. The Region Eight AA cross country meet will be held in late October at Alexandria. St. Cloud Apollo, a state ranked power, appears to be the region favorite.

Smith is hoping fans will be on hand for tomorrows meet here. "The kids would really get excited and would really enjoy it if we could get some fans out there cheering them," he pointed out. "I think the fans would like cross country if they just watched it once. Our course is particularly well suited for the fans—you can watch the runners nearly the entire race instead of only over a part of the time like other courses."

Only three regular season invitational meets remain on the Prowler schedule. Thief River Falls will compete at Staples Tues., Oct. 7, at Waubun Thurs., Oct. 9 and at Roseau Mon., Oct. 20. The Northwest Conference meet will be run Tues., Oct. 14, at Fergus Falls.

Lumberjacks Lead NWAC Standings

Undefeated Bemidji took another step toward securing a second straight Northwest Conference football pennant Friday by blanking Fergus Falls 23-0.

Elsewhere, NWAC teams picked up nonconference wins as East Grand Forks tipped Breckenridge 14-8 Friday afternoon and Crookston edged Landon, N.D. 22-14 Saturday night. Thief River Falls was idle.

The key game on tap this week will find Bemidji visiting Thief River Falls for a 7:30 p.m. Friday night encounter.

Northwest Conference

	NWAC w	NWAC l	All w	All l

Crookston	1	0	4	1
Thief River Falls	0	0	2	2
Fergus Falls	1	2	2	3

Bemidji 23, Fergus 0

Bemidji took over sole possession of first place in the Northwest Conference standings with a one-sided 23-0 triumph over Fergus Falls.

The Lumberjacks racked up 350 yards total offense, paced by a 114-yard rushing effort by Lee Hanson. Wayne Marty scored twice for Bemidji and Hanson added a single touchdown.

The win was the fifth straight victory for Bemidji.

EGF 14, Breckenridge 8

Rick Beck scored two third quarter touchdowns to spark East Grand Forks past Breckenridge 14-8.

Beck scored twice from a yard out to give the Green Wave a 14-0 edge going into the final quarter. Beck gained 96 of the 114 yards rushing by the Green Wave. East Grand Forks limited Breckenridge to just 69 yards rushing and only four yards passing.

Crookston 22, Langdon 14

Bob Ranum scored on a 47-yard fumble recovery in the first quarter and added a 73-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter to spark Crookston past previously unbeaten Langdon, N.D. 22-14.

Quarterback Joel Rood added an 11-yard touchdown run in the second quarter as Crookston totaled 301 yards on offense to only 84 yards for Langdon.

KAREN IMGRUND, a member of the Lincoln high school girls' golf team, chipped onto the green from the edge of a sand trap during Thursday's Thief River Falls invitational golf meet on the Country Club golf course. Grand Forks Central won the five-team event.

Report Decline In Registration Of Snowmobiles

Number of snowmobiles registered in Minnesota has dropped to 287,559, or some 30,000 less than were registered in March, the department of natural resources reported.

Prowlers 12th In First 1975 MSHSL Football Poll

Minneapolis Roosevelt, Rochester Lourdes, Faribault Bethlehem Academy, Blooming Prairie, Granada-Huntley and Lake Benton were the front-runners of the five classes in the first weekly ratings of Minnesota high school football teams.

The first weekly rating announcement was made Thursday, prior to the full slate of Friday-Saturday games for Minnesota high school football teams.

The top four teams in each class will qualify for the Minnesota State High School League-sponsored state playoffs after the completion of the regular season.

Unbeaten Minneapolis Roosevelt led Class AA with a computer power rating of 122, followed closely by three other unbeaten squads—Duluth Denfeld, Richfield and Fridley—who shared second place with 117-plus points.

Rochester Lourdes topped Class A with 125 points, followed by St. Thomas Academy who accumulated 120 points, Grand Rapids with 117.500 and Pipestone with 116.667.

In Class B, Faribault Bethlehem Academy stood alone with 120 points. Annandale and Plainview were deadlocked in second with 117-plus ratings. Gaylord, Onamia, Ortonville and Royalton were all tied for fourth at 115.

Blooming Prairie and Granada-Huntley, with identical 122.5 ratings, headed the Class C division. McIntosh and Hector shared third place with 120 points.

Two-time defending state champion Lake Benton topped the nine-man division with 125 points. Audubon, Welcome and Cherry rounded out the nine-man top four.

Other area teams among the top 20 rated teams in each division included Crookston, tied for seventh in Class A; Bemidji and Thief River Falls, both tied for 12th in Class A; Karlstad, tied for fifth in Class C; and Plummer, tied for ninth in Class C.

MSHSL notes—69 of the 509 teams playing football in the state were still undefeated going into the weekend schedule. Lake Benton had its 35-game winning streak, the longest in the state, snapped by Tyler in an 11-man game. Dilworth was unscored upon in four games. Mahnomen outscored four opponents 122-2.

14-0 Homecoming Win

Cardinals Win Fifth Straight

Undefeated Plummer celebrated its 1975 football homecoming Friday by racking up its fifth straight win, a 14-0 North Tri County Conference shutout of Erskine.

Coach Gary Brantl's Cardinals, leaders in the North Division of the North Tri County Conference, will try to stretch their season-opening winning streak to six games this week when Plummer plays a 1:30 p.m. game at Mentor Friday.

Plummer actually made hard work out of what could have very easily been a one-sided victory over Erskine. Offensive mistakes canceled two Cardinal touchdowns and halted another apparent sure scoring drive at the Erskine 11. And to top off the Plummer frustrations, a quick whistle killed another Cardinal touchdown.

Despite its problems, Plummer did score twice on touchdown runs of five and 11 yards by hard-running junior fullback Tom Martell. And the Cardinal defense played exceptionally well in earning its third shutout in five games.

Plummer scored its first touchdown midway through the first quarter when Martell capped a sustained Cardinal march with a five-yard run through the middle. A pass interference call moments earlier against Erskine put the ball near the Comet goal line. Sophomore Kyle Adolphson made a sensational diving catch of a Jerry Fisher pass for the successful two-point conversion.

The Cardinals always seemed in command, but the game remained an 8-0 struggle until the start of the fourth quarter when the Plummer offensive quickness produced a stunning 51-yard scoring drive in just four plays.

Plummer received an Erskine punt near the midfield stripe two minutes into the fourth quarter. Then on successive runs of 20 yards by Martell, 20 yards by sophomore John Greenwald and 11 yards by Martell, went ahead 14-0. The two-point conversion try was stopped by Erskine.

Four other Plummer touchdowns or near touchdowns fell by the wayside:

+An eight-yard scoring run by Martell in the second quarter was canceled by a holding infraction.

+A fumble recovery that was scooped up by Carl Torkelson and carried into the end zone in the second quarter was not allowed because of a quick whistle by the officials.

+A 70-yard drive in the third period ended with a fumble at the Erskine 11.

+An 18-yard touchdown pass from Fisher to Dave Walter in the fourth quarter was called back for illegal procedure.

+We had trouble with the penalties," admitted Brantl. "I thought we played well, except for the penalties. We did a real good job defensively."

Plummer finished with 227 yards rushing behind a 115-yard effort from Martell. Greenwald added 88 yards on the ground. Fisher completed five of 14 pass attempts for 31 yards. Adolphson and Walter each caught two passes.

Brantl praised the running by Martell and the effort put forth by Adolphson on his pass receptions. Defensively, Brantl cited Tom Willett, Torkelson, Martell and Erwin Marty.

The loss lowered Thief River Falls' dual meet season record to 5-4 for the year. Prowler coach Pat Johnson planned to send a Lincoln squad unit to Roseau today (Monday) for a 4 p.m. meet. The Prowler varsity will host Waubun Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

Oklee Clubs Grygla 42-8 In North Tri County Play

Oklee quarterback Mark Nelson scored two touchdowns and passed for two others Friday to lead Oklee past Grygla 42-8 in a North Tri County Conference football game at Oklee.

One-yard touchdown runs by Mike LaCoursiere and Brent Strand, along with a two-point conversion pass from Nelson to Phil Fore, supplied Oklee with a 14-0 first quarter edge.

Nelson scored on a three-yard run to start the second quarter as Oklee went ahead 20-0.

Grygla got on the scoreboard on a 23-yard pass play from quarterback Gary Satre to Jeff Stanley. Satre and Stanley also hooked up for the conversion points for a 20-8 ball game.

However, Nelson responded with an 82-yard touchdown return on the ensuing kickoff. Later, a two-point safety after a blocked punt gave Oklee a 28-8 halftime cushion.

Nelson tossed two touchdown passes in the second half to complete the game's scoring. Jim Mitchell caught a 22-yard scoring pass from Nelson in the third quarter and Fore hauled in 15-yard touchdown strike in the fourth quarter. Dave Gunderson added a two-point conversion after Mitchell's touchdown.

Injury problems and a tough Oklee defense limited Grygla to just 114 yards total offense. The Eagles rushed for only 58 yards and gained 56 yards passing as Satre completed four of 17 attempts. Oklee, meanwhile, rushed for 293 yards and added 50 yards through the air as Nelson completed four of 14 tries. Oklee was penalized for 55 yards and Grygla was penalized 23 yards.

"They're (Oklee) a very good team," pointed out Grygla coach Jerry Lindstrom. "We just lost too many people because of injuries," he said, pointing to injuries suffered by Satre, Gordy Moe and Lee Saurdiff who is lost to the team for the year following knee surgery. "We just lost too many kids. When Satre got hurt, it killed us—he's our leader."

Lindstrom praised the defensive play of Arlo Hagen and Tom Olson. Hagen was credited with 15 unassisted tackles from his middle linebacker position.

Grygla, now 1-4 for the year, will host Erskine Friday at 1:30 p.m. in the Eagles' 1975 homecoming game.

CARDINALS FULLBACK Tom Martell cut upfield for a sizeable gain Friday during Plummer's 14-0 North Tri County Conference football win over Erskine. Martell rushed for 115 yards and scored both Plummer touchdowns as the Cardinals celebrated their 1975 homecoming with a win over the Comets. Plummer owns a spotless 5-0 record.

LHS Runners Earn Back To Back Wins

Lincoln high school cross country team earned its second invitational meet victory in three days Thursday as the Prowlers won a six-team invitational meet at Grafton, N.D.

Coach Russ Smith's Prowlers edged defending North Dakota state cross country champion Grand Forks Red River 40-42 for the meet title, administering the first loss of the 1975 season to the Redskins.

Grand Forks Central was a distant third with 80 points, followed by Crookston with 106, Roseau 120 and Grafton (no score).

Bob Newark of Red River was the meet's individual champion with an 11:32 clocking over the 2.5 mile course. Red River was hampered in other place finishes, however, with two Roughriders missing the meet because of illness.

Mark Hanson of Grafton placed second while Thief River Falls teammates Dan Kezar and Dan Heleren finished third and fourth, respectively in the 42-runner event. Kezar was clocked in 12:20 and Heleren ran a 12:21.

John Johnson of Red River placed fifth, Brian Gownean of Grand Forks Central was sixth, Tony Brosseau of Thief River Falls was seventh in 12:31, Brian Pearson of Red River was eighth, Andy Schnabel of Crookston was ninth and Ken Larson of Roseau was tenth.

John Albrecht of Thief River Falls was 12th in 12:42 and Paul Phelps of Thief River Falls was 14th in 12:45.

"It was great victory," exclaimed Smith who has his Prowlers heading into the final four weeks of the season at an ever-improving pace. Every Prowler runner turned in his best time of the season at Grafton.

Grand Forks Central won the B squad portion of the Grafton meet. Thief River Falls, with only four runners, did not meet the five runner minimum needed to count in the team scores.

Kirk Cantrell of Grafton was the top B team runner with a 13:17 effort. He was followed by John Wittenstrom, Crookston; Kevin Fee, Central; Ken Ray, Red River; Kevin Culkins, Thief River Falls, 13:30; Keith Novak, Grafton; Tony Henry, Central; Jeff Robinson, Central; Brian Whalen, Central; Neil Gladden, Red River; Terry Cleveland, Grafton; and Dave Glauque, Thief River Falls, 13:50.

Thief River Falls won the junior high school title at Grafton by an easy 17-53 margin over runner up Roseau.

Thief River Falls runners swept the top three places and six of the top seven spots. Kevin Murphy won the event, followed by Tom Brosseau and Bob Fitzgerald.

Todd Trickle was a fifth place finisher, Jeff Oseid was sixth, Greg Brosseau was seventh and Myles Lund was 14th.

Smith had special praise for his junior high runners. "It was the first time in two weeks the entire team has been together and they all had great performances; they all had good times."

Thief River Falls junior high school team is scheduled to run at Roseau today (Monday) at 5 p.m. The annual Thief River Falls varsity and B team invitational meet is planned tomorrow (Tuesday) at 5 p.m. on the Thief River Falls Country Club golf course.

Freshmen Edge Roseau B Squad 22-14 Thursday

Lincoln high school freshman football team edged the Roseau B squad 22-14 Thursday on the Prowler athletic field.

Jeff Kosel scored twice for Thief River Falls on runs of 98 yards in the first quarter and 15 yards in the third quarter. A 12-yard run by Bruce Storhaug with 2:22 remaining in the game snapped a 14-14 tie. Kosel followed the winning touchdown with his second two-point conversion of the night.

Thief River Falls, now 3-1 for the year, will play at Bemidji at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow (Tuesday) and will travel to Roseau for a 6 p.m. game Thursday.

Franklin Girls Beat Crookston 7-5 In Tennis

Franklin middle school girls' tennis team opened its 1975 season by beating Crookston by a 7-5 match margin Monday at Crookston.

A total of 52 girls participated in the doubles-only event.

Thief River Falls won all five eighth grade encounters as Judi Elleson and Cindy Bruggeman defeated Dillenberg and Brockemeier 7-2; Patty Langlie and LeAnn Peterson beat Amiot and Whalen 7-0; Nancy Kezar and Kathy Melvie edged Smith and Goosen 7-5; Kim Liden and Sharon Krystosek dumped Lieder and Erickson 7-1; and Laura Haroldson and Heidi Bergerson stopped Hawkins and Sheridan 7-1.

In seventh grade play, Thief River Falls' Karin Kloety and Marlys Huot defeated Coauette and LaChance 9-7, but Crookston won the remaining three encounters as Williamson and Thomfords tipped Pam Wassink and Cindy Liden 7-5; Derosier and Finkenbinder beat Wendy Erickson and Cindy Peterson 4-7; and Aumundson and Schulz downed Tara Nicholson and Colette Anderson 7-3.

Marsha Erickson and Nancy Swanson blanked Patenaude and Boucher 7-0 in sixth grade action, but Crookston took the last two decisions as Thorson and Derosier beat Roberta Svir and Mary Erickson 7-0; and Ortegon and Goodrie edged Dawn Muzzy and Paula Lindblom 7-5.

Franklin will host Bemidji Thursday in its next outing. Crookston will visit Thief River Falls Tues., Oct. 7. Franklin will finish its season Tues., Oct. 14, at Bemidji.

PLUMMER SOPHOMORE Kyle Adolphson stretched to catch a fine diving catch of a Jerry Fisher pass to complete a successful two-point conversion try Friday during the Cardinals' 14-0 homecoming game win over Erskine. Mike Jasper of Erskine defended on the play in the end zone. Plummer's win hiked the Cardinals' record to 5-0 for the year.

Mistakes Cost Nordics In 25-14 Setback At Kennedy

Kennedy capitalized on three fumble recoveries and three pass interceptions Friday to beat Marshall County Central 25-14 in a Top of the State high school football conference game played at Kennedy.

Brent Bowman scored three touchdowns for the Rockets who led only 6-0 at halftime and held a slim 12-6 edge after three quarters.

Kennedy's first pass interception of the game set up the Rockets' first touchdown, a 40-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Rich Deere to Bowman in the first quarter.

The Deere to Bowman bomb was the only scoring in the first half as defense dominated play.

Kennedy went ahead 12-0 in the third quarter when Bowman scored on a five-yard run.

Newfolden quickly sliced the difference to 12-6 when quarterback Jeff Sorenson passed 60 yards to Bruce Rokke who carried the ball to the end zone before fumbling. Nordic teammate Casey Riske fell on the ball for the touchdown.

Kennedy came back to build its lead to 18-6 when Deere hit Bowman with another scoring pass, this time covering 24 yards to start a wild fourth quarter.

Newfolden matched Kennedy's touchdown in the see-saw battle as Sorenson passed seven yards to Bruce Rokke. Duane Floberg added the two-point conversion to chop the Rocket lead to just 18-12.

Kennedy wrapped up the win, however, when Kevin Eukel intercepted a pass and returned it 34 yards for a touchdown. Randy Dahlgren place kicked the extra point to finish the game's scoring.

"Mental mistakes killed us," commented Newfolden coach Sam Gebhart. "I thought we physically out-played them, but we just made too many mistakes."

Newfolden rushed for 173 yards, but Kennedy racked up 232 yards on the ground. Floberg paced the Nordic ground game with 101 yards rushing. Sorenson and Rokke teamed up for over 100 yards passing for the Nordics.

"Our passing game worked real well for us," pointed out Gebhart. "You have to give a lot of credit to Sorenson and Rokke. In fact, our offense moved the ball well when we had it. It's just that we didn't have the ball enough. We had to play too much defense."

Gebhart praised the defensive play of tackle Rick Waterworth, linebacker Scott Magner and nose guard Keith Lindemoen who was credited with a pair of quarterback sacks.

Newfolden will try to improve upon a 1-4 season record Saturday when the Nordics host Argyle.

ELAINE CHARLESON of Thief River Falls supplied some body twist as she tried to coax the ball toward the pin during Thursday's girls' high school invitational golf meet held on the Thief River Falls Country Club golf course. Grand Forks Central won the five-team meet.

Swimmers Challenge Brainerd Tuesday

Coach John Hustad's Lincoln high school girls' swimming team will meet one of its stiffest tests of the 1975 season tomorrow (Tuesday) when the Prowlers host region power Brainerd in a 4 p.m. dual meet in the Franklin middle school pool.

Thief River Falls owns a perfect 3-0 record in dual meet competition this fall following an easy 72-21 triumph over Bemidji last week. In addition to their dual meet success, the Prowlers also won a triangular meet victory over Grand Forks Central and Grand Forks Red River.

The so-far-perfect Prowler record may be in jeopardy against the Warriors, however.

"Brainerd has a very strong team," pointed out Hustad who has been pleased with the progress of his own team to date. "I think it's going to be a real tough, real close meet. I don't know if we can beat them, but if anybody in the area has a chance of beating them, it's us."

Thief River Falls will continue a busy week's schedule Thursday with a 4 p.m. triangular meet at Moorhead involving the Prowlers, Spuds and Bismarck. The Prowlers will then return home to host Bemidji in a 2 p.m. dual meet Saturday.

Mentor Defeats Goodridge

Mentor won its first football game in three years Friday as the Trojans celebrated their 1975 homecoming with a 22-6 North Tri County Conference win over visiting Goodridge.

Mentor erupted for 22 points in the first quarter and coasted through the final three periods to hand Goodridge its fifth straight setback of the year. The Huskies now must face powerful McIntosh this week, a 7:30 p.m. Friday game at Goodridge.

Three Goodridge mistakes led to all three Mentor first quarter touchdowns.

Goodridge quarterback Jim Johnson sprinted into the open for a 60-yard gain on the Huskies' first offensive possession of the game, but fumbled the ball when he was tackled and Mentor recovered near the Trojan 20-yard line. Three plays later Mentor quarterback Tim Saga hit Ron Gager with a 66-yard touchdown pass. Saga passed to Randy Bohn for the two-point conversion.

Another Goodridge error, this time a pass interception at the Huskies' 23, set up Mentor's second touchdown. Saga passed eight yards to Bohn for the score, five plays after the fumble. Gager added the conversion points.

Mentor recovered what was ruled a fumbled punt by Goodridge on a controversial call at the Huskies' 13 to set up the third Trojan score of the game. Gager went in from five yards out to give Mentor a startling 22-0 lead.

Goodridge scored on a 65-yard pass interception return by Randy Haugen in the second quarter.

"We just couldn't get our offense going," sighed Goodridge coach Ken Ewertz. "Mentor was really jacked up for the game, and I guess we weren't ready to play ball in the first half."

New Minnesota License Plate Design Approved

Representatives of major law enforcement organizations in the state have given final approval to design and color changes in passenger car license plates to be issued in 1977 for the 1978 registration year.

The Motor Vehicle division of the Minnesota department of public safety, responsible for keeping tabs on the state's three million plus vehicles, thus announced that the new issue of plates for 1978 will carry blue borders and lettering on the present silver-white reflective background. Noticeably absent will be the "10,000 Lakes" designation as well as the stamped year of issue.

The new plates will carry a three-letter and three-digit combination (AAA 001, for example) and will be issued on a five year basis. Stick-on tabs identifying the month and year of registration will be positioned in the two bottom corners. The month of registration sticker will remain constant; the registration year sticker will, of course, change numerically each year.

The new specifications of the plates were approved by representatives of the Minnesota peace and police officers association, State sheriffs association, Chiefs of police association, and State Patrol under a mandate of the last legislature which required their consideration and advice in plate design.

A number of law enforcement agencies in the state voiced concern when the present plates with orange lettering were released due to the fact that some were very light or faded in color and thus presented identification problems.

Vehicle owners who possess the present plate in a faded condition may receive a new plate with the current color of orange lettering free of charge by applying to any of the deputy registrars located across the state or to the division of motor vehicles in the highway building, St. Paul. The new color three-letter, three-digit plates will not be issued until 1977.

Grain Sales Ban "Bad To Worse", Says Ag Leader

"Our worst fears are rapidly being confirmed . . . the grain sales ban situation is going from bad to worse."

That was the terse reaction recently from Minnesota Farm Bureau federation president Carroll G. Wilson to the announcement that further U.S. grain sales to Poland, and perhaps other eastern European countries, have been suspended until a long-term agreement with the Soviet Union is negotiated.

"No question now but what the Ford administration has sacrificed farmers and agriculture in its 'game-playing' with labor unions demanding bigger maritime subsidies," Wilson declared. Extending the embargo, he said, "is no more and no less than a breach of faith with farmers who had been pledged by the administration elimination of all export restrictions and unfettered access to world markets in return for full production."

Wilson, a Rice county cash grain farmer himself, termed the latest sales suspension "a clear-cut, calloused demonstration of the arbitrary and 'economics-be-damned' power exercised by the U.S. state department in presuming to establish national policy affecting agriculture, exports and trade."

He added: "State department representatives have no qualification to either advise or act in this area; we believe the secretary of agriculture and the U.S.D.A. are best equipped to do that."

U.S. grain involved in the controversy, said the Farm Bureau leader, was "produced by and belongs to farmers, not to George Meany (AFL-CIO president), the longshoremen or to the federal government—and I'm positive every producer in the country agrees and wants the grain shipped."

Domestic and world markets, agricultural production, farm prices and consumer food prices will be adversely affected by the grain loading boycott and the moratorium, Wilson predicted. "If the shipment of grain sales can be blocked, whether by organized labor's arrogance that stems from its monopoly position or by the retraction of a presidential commitment," he said, "other exports can be blocked. We need to remember, too, that the power to curtail exports carries with it the power to do the same with imports."

There is "talk in some quarters," Wilson said, of mass refusal by farmers to purchase implements, autos and trucks "until an immediate, and permanent, halt is brought to political management of farmers' markets."

ANOTHER FLAG has been added to the stars and stripes flying from the flag pole at the Veterans of Foreign Wars club rooms in Thief River Falls. The new MIA-POW flag was added Friday in special ceremonies, marking adoption of WO1 Richard Knutson, missing in action in Vietnam, by the VFW auxiliary. Sam Genereux, commander of Post 2793 and who presided at the program, looks on as Paul Halvorson and Katie Anderson attach the flag to the chain preparatory to the flag raising. A good crowd was on hand for the brief program, including a number of Richard's relatives from Hallock and this area.

Hearing Slated On No-Fault For Cars In Storage

A public hearing concerning a rule change which would allow owners of stored motor vehicles in the state to register their cars without showing proof of insurance was announced today by the Minnesota department of public safety.

The proposed change will align public safety rules with a change made by the '75 legislature and allow the owner of a non-used vehicle to certify by affidavit that the vehicle will not be used or operated, and thus skirt the requirement of supplying the insurance company name and policy number at registration time.

Use of a non-insured vehicle remains a misdemeanor under state law, punishable by driver license and-or vehicle registration revocation on conviction.

Persons or groups wishing to express a written or oral opinion on such a rule change may do so at the hearing, scheduled for 9 a.m. October 8 in Room B9 of the state highway building in St. Paul. Copies of the proposed amendment may be obtained from the Department of Public Safety, 207 Highway Building, St. Paul, 55155.

Federal Trade Commission Asks For Statistics

Federal trade commission has advised more than 1,000 leading manufacturers they must furnish the government detailed statistics on business activities affecting competition. The new questionnaire is called a corporate patterns report.

But even before the information is on its way to Washington it appears that it will be of questionable value, according to the FTC's top statistical expert until a few months ago.

Dr. William Levin, an FTC employee of 22 years who retired recently as chief of the agency's division of financial statistics, branded the information to be gathered as "fundamentally and irrevocably flawed."

The basic problem, he explains, is that the FTC is collecting information about shipments, rather than sales, and he says the data would be misleading if used to prosecute antitrust cases.

"Value of shipments data, by definition, includes multiple counting of shipments," Dr. Levin says. Thus, he adds, the data would not accurately reflect a company's share of a market for a particular product—a factor in many antitrust cases. The FTC nonetheless is going ahead with its quest for the information.

MCIA Establishes Foss Defense Fund

Marshall County Improvement association (MCIA) established a defense fund for Gordon Foss of Grygla, charged with taking five elk, at a special meeting held Monday evening at the city hall in Newfolden. About 45 people attended the meeting, including Rep. Art Braun of Greenbush and Rep. John Corbid of Oklee.

While the meeting was organized to discuss damage done by the state's small elk herd and to show support for Foss, it quickly became a forum for complaints about damage caused by many forms of wildlife, for advocating township wide posting of private land against hunting and condemning hunters who show no respect for property owned by individuals.

Rep. Corbid agreed to request the Minnesota department of natural resources to drop the charges against Foss. He also said he would be willing to formulate proposed legislation to compensate farmers for losses caused by the state's wildlife.

Rep. Braun was optimistic about having something done to eliminate the elk damage problem, probably fencing the herd into a much more confined area. He disagreed with Rep. Corbid that it might be possible to eliminate the elk herd on the basis of their not being compatible with agricultural interests.

Mrs. Betty Rantanen of Middle River opened public discussion following a review of the Foss case by Robert Fincher, president of the MCIA, who presided at the meeting. She said there has to be a way for farmers and wildlife to co-exist but that there is no reason why the farmer should be expected to feed wildlife without compensation.

"There isn't a game bird or animal taken by hunters in the fall that the farmer hasn't fed," Mrs. Rantanen said. "I'm in favor of wildlife and in favor of living with it but I can't afford to feed it. Not hunting and not having game isn't the answer, but I can't live off game and hunting."

She ventured the guess that there were few farmers at the meeting who hadn't lost thousands of dollars as a result of wildlife.

"There ain't nobody," another farmer said, "who would plant a crop, fertilize it, take care of it, spray it for weeds and bugs, and then stand by and watch something destroy it. There isn't any other walk of life where people would accept that kind of abuse."

Fincher also noted that the right of a person to defend his or her property was at issue in the Foss case. (Foss admits shooting five elk in his oats field north of Grygla where he contends they were doing damage to his crop. He maintains that repeated requests to the department of natural resources to keep the animals off his land failed to get effective results.) "Many farmers can't afford to feed their own cattle with today's prices," he said, "much less to feed the state's elk."

Rep. Corbid asked if the group would be satisfied with a bill which would pay only for damage done by elk. The answer from farmers who had lost sheep to wolves and others who had lost grain to geese and ducks was that the problem was much larger than simply elk damage.

"I think the elk can be controlled," Rep. Braun said, "but if we're talking about wolves it's a whole different ball game. And there is no way—I can tell you straight out—there is no way we can pass a bill to pay for duck damage. Timber wolves are moving in now. You wait until two years from now and it's gonna be a helluva lot worse."

One of the farmers suggested that posting of all private land against hunting until some action for damage payment is taken would cause the metropolitan area sportsmen to put pressure on their legislators for action.

That suggestion touched off a discussion of some hunters showing lack of regard for posting and total disrespect for private property. Roland Klamar of Gatzke told of hunters firing at feeding geese with scoped 30-06 rifles, sending bullets ricocheting into his farm yard.

With the state acquiring more and more land, depredation is increasing and the situation is getting worse, he said. "As far as I'm concerned," he said, "people without permission don't have

MR Votes Boost In Property Tax For School Debt

By a 258 to 49 count Tuesday residents in Middle River school district 440 voted infavor of a $50,000 increase in property taxes to comply with a school district request for additional operating funds.

The vote will mean an increase of 42.66 mills on property from three miles north of Middle River to four miles south and 15 miles east to three miles west. Through three years of deficit spending, the district had compiled a debt of approximately $50,000.

Although property owners will begin paying the increase in 1976, members of the Middle River school board expressed hope that the mill rate would be reduced within a few years because of the economy measures being installed to hold this year's deficit at a minimum level.

One board member said economy measures already implemented included the elimination of some positions and a reduction in board's salary and travel mileage. A study examining extra-curricular transportation is also underway.

Attempted Rape Reported Friday To City Police

An attempted rape was reported in Thief River Falls at 10:55 p.m. Friday, according to the city police department.

Investigation revealed that an 18 year old girl, visiting with relatives, was alone in their residence and in the process of washing her hair when a knife-wielding man opened the door and entered the bathroom. He ripped her clothing, and through advances indicated an attempt to rape her. The assault was reportedly averted, however, when the man apparently became frightened by a passing car and left after rifling her purse. The case is still under investigation.

St. Bernard's To Note 50 Years Of Parish School

Fiftieth anniversary of St. Bernard's school in Thief River Falls will be observed Sunday with special ceremonies beginning at 2 p.m. Homolist will be Rev. Stanley Bourassa, superintendent of schools for the Northland Diocese with Rev. James Bernauer and Msgr. A. I. Merth of Thief River Falls assisting.

Msgr. Merth was the founding pastor of the school and served the St. Bernard's parish from 1924 through 1947. Succeeding pastors have been Rev. William Swanson, 1947-1952; Rev. Keough Patnode, 1952-1971; and Rev. James Bernauer, 1971 to the present.

Following the special mass at 2 p.m. Sunday, a reception will be held at which former pastors and teachers at the school will reminisce about their experiences while serving the St. Bernard's school.

The school opened in 1925 with about 75 students in eight grades and six Benedictine sisters as instructors. Sr. Secunda Wilsusen was principal and teachers were Srs. Margaret DeGagne, Clare Duffy, Cecilia Beaudry, Sophia Malerowski and Philomene Neunderfer.

A new school was built in 1948 as part of the church complex and seventh and eighth grades continued to be taught until 1969. There are presently 111 pupils enrolled in six grades with instructors including two sisters and five lay teachers, assisted by five other lay people in secretarial, custodial and hot lunch work.

Members of the school board are Brian Walker, chairman; Richard Trudeau, vice chairman; Mrs. William Ness, secretary; Mrs. Roger Amundson, treasurer; Terry Courneya and James LaCoursiere.

Parish school budget last year was $38,364 of which $26,190 was parish subsidy.

Agent Maintains Flood Damages Yet Unassessed

July floods in many parts of Marshall county have done damages yet unassessed, says Charles Peterson, county agent.

"Areas that had standing water for several days or more are very apt to be low in nitrogen due to de-nitrification," he said. "Organic matter content may also have been affected."

Meetings are being scheduled to discuss special problems that may be encountered in these areas hardest hit by the high water. Meeting schedule includes Grygla, October 9, community center, 1:30 p.m.; Newfolden, October 16, village hall, 8 p.m.; and Oslo, October 23, Legion club, 1:30 p.m.

"Anyone wanting to bring soil samples for university analysis is welcome to bring them in along with the information sheet and a check for the testing fee," Peterson said. "Soil sampling information and materials will be available at the extension office any time."

Study Of Student Housing Made

A public meeting to release information compiled in a feasibility study for student housing in Thief River Falls has been set for 10 a.m. Wednesday, October 8. The study was undertaken jointly by Northland community college and the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute. Both schools have had increased enrollment this year and experienced difficulty in finding adequate housing for students.

VOLUNTEERS attending an orientation meeting for the Thief River Falls United Way heard executive secretary Art Heinze outline needs and suggestions for the 1975 campaign which begins today. The business area canvass is directed by Jack LaSalle and is scheduled for completion October 11. Orientation meetings were held at Northland community college Monday and Tuesday evenings.

United Way To Open '75 Campaign Today

Thief River Falls United Way campaign begins today (Wednesday) with nearly 160 volunteers assisting in the business campaign. A goal of $55,000 has been set by the United Way board to meet the needs of agencies that serve and help people locally and on a state and national level.

Board members responsible for the campaign are Jack LaSalle, chairman of downtown business, assisted by Don M. Olson, Bill Dee and Maxine McEwen; Dr. Ed Nelson and Dr. Rick Heinrichs, in charge of the professional area; Deone Cerny, school systems chairman; Larry White, Arctic non-union area; and Hazel Huot, Arctic union employees. Tri-chairing the residential door-to-door campaign, beginning October 21, will be Mrs. Milton Hoff, Mrs. Joe Phelps and Mrs. McEwen.

At orientation meetings the past two nights, volunteers were encouraged to ask donors to increase the level of giving. Total participation by every wage earner, both male and female, was also stressed by Art Heinze, executive secretary. Board members indicated additional requests this year and that a nearly 20 per cent increase was needed to help the agencies with their services of helping people. Volunteers were asked to make an all-out effort to contact every employee at his or her place of employment. Employers were asked to conduct store meetings.

According to Jack LaSalle, business chairman, the campaign schedule is: October 1, kickoff; October 3, first volunteer report; October 8, second volunteer report; and October 11, business campaign completed. Residential door-to-door clean up campaign will begin October 21.

Northland Fall Enrollment Sets Another Record

Fall enrollment at Northland community college has reached 500 students, representing an increase of 22 per cent over enrollment recorded last fall, according to Dennis Bendickson, registrar at Northland.

Enrollment figures indicate 47 Minnesota high schools represented in the Northland student body with non-resident student enrollment representing 15 states and four foreign countries.

Overall totals show full-time enrollment at 261, part-time at 171 and non-credit at 68. Within this enrollment are 291 men and 209 women.

Most significant increase is found in the freshman class with 236 enrolled compared with 180 a year ago.

Northland's increase in enrollment can be attributed to a number of factors such as the economy, veterans benefits, mature citizens enrolling in course, greater availability of financial aids and a renewed interest in attending college, Bendickson said.

Schools represented and number of students enrolled from each include the following:

Change Of Venue For Foss Denied

In an order issued Tuesday by Hon. Warren A. Saetre, judge of the Ninth Judicial district, change-of-venue in the trial of Gordon Foss of Grygla was denied and a request by Foss for the appointment of a public defender was also denied. The judge noted in his memorandum to the order that unless the defendant demands an immediate trial, it may be delayed for a month or two.

Judge Saetre's order followed an omnibus hearing held in Thief River Falls Friday. The defendant, Gordon Foss of Grygla, is charged by the state of Minnesota with five counts of taking a protected big game animal, namely elk. Foss admits the shooting of the animals September 6 in an oats field owned by him in Marshall county.

In the order issued yesterday, Judge Saetre ordered that statements made by the defendant to law enforcement officers following the commission of the alleged crime be admissible into evidence upon trial; that the motion to transfer venue from Marshall county to another county is denied; and that the defendant's motion to have the court appoint counsel to represent him at the forthcoming trial is denied.

In commenting on the request by the prosecution for a change of venue, Judge Saetre said: "Most of the news accounts (filed with the court) read by the court appear to be fairly well balanced and factual reporting. The defendant vigorously opposes transfer of the case to another county and insists that he has the right to have his case tried in Marshall county. The state has not demonstrated at this time that a fair and impartial trial cannot be had in Marshall county."

The judge also noted that Minnesota statutes do provide that the state may apply for a change of venue as well as the defendant, but added that ". . . the statute does not appear to apply in cases of gross misdemeanors such as the defendant is accused of committing. Marshall county has a

Postal Service Offers Program

A nationwide consumer service program designed to improve and broaden the quality of mail service was announced today by Thief River Falls postmaster Art Buringrud.

Beginning October 1, the U.S. postal service will introduce a program at Thief River Falls and other offices across the nation to encourage mail users to register problems they may have with their mail service.

At the core of the program is a consumer service card, through which problems are identified which postal managers are expected to attempt to expeditiously resolve.

Buringrud pointed out that the Thief River Falls mail processing center serves 47 other area post offices. It operates on an annual budget of $874,239 with a payroll of over $668,000 and employs 50 people. The local office handles 40 million pieces of mail a year, takes in revenues of $490,000 a year and maintains 13 mail receptacles throughout the city. It has a vehicle fleet of 11 trucks, cars and mailsters and serves 4,351 families and 228 businesses with seven rural and five city delivery routes.

The consumer service program reflects postmaster general Benjamin F. Bailar's determination that mail services to the public will be "friendly, courteous and efficient, as well as speedy and reliable.

"Good service is a far broader

CNC Volunteers Given Information On Their Work

Helpful information in being a volunteer worker in the convalescent and Nursing care unit at Northwestern hospital was stressed at a recent meeting of the newly organized CNC Volunteer group.

Presenting the information were Mrs. Margaret Torfin, supervisor of the CNC unit, and Oscar Elshaug, mental health specialist.

Volunteers were told that cheerfulness, abounding with industry, were the main qualifications. Workers in the CNC volunteer group were also informed that they are not expected to supply the physical needs for the residents in the long-term care unit as those are the duties of the nurses and staff. Rather, they are asked to supply the emotional needs by emphasizing the positive approach. This is necessary in order that residents gain the self reliance, needed to attain their greatest goal, that of returning to their own homes. Pride in being a volunteer worker was also stressed.

The meeting was held in the Northwestern hospital chapel with Mrs. Evelyn Wold, coordinator in charge. Mrs. Angeline Breznay served as recording secretary.

The meeting concluded with coffee and cookies.

Darlene Ellen Anderson And Donald Solberg Wed

Mt. Carmel Lutheran church in McIntosh was the scene of the August 23rd wedding of Miss Darlene Ellen Anderson and Donald Garvin Solberg. Rev. Orville T. Olson officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Anderson of McIntosh and Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Solberg of rural Thief River Falls.

At the organ playing the traditional wedding marches was Miss Delores Narveson of McIntosh. She also accompanied the assembled guests as they sang two appropriate hymns.

For the ceremony, the altar was graced with fresh cut flowers from the gardens of the bride's paternal grandfather, Martin Anderson of McIntosh. He was a special guest at the wedding as were Mrs. Sophie Peterson of Fosston, the bride's maternal grandmother, and Marty Gus Anderson and Harvey Jay Anderson Jr., the bride's younger brothers.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a turquoise floor-length gown styled with a high neckline, empire gathered waistline and open knit long sleeves. Her headpiece was a floppy brimmed cream-colored picture hat with white ribbon streamers that flowed down her back. She carried a bouquet of fresh cut garden flowers with yellow and white streamers. Her flowers as well as those that graced the bridal table at the reception, also came from her grandfather's gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth (Betty) Lomen of Lengby, cousins of the bride, attended the couple as best man and matron of honor. Letty Anderson of McIntosh, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Maynard Solberg, brother of the groom, was groomsman.

The matron of honor wore a light blue, short-sleeved, floor-length gown complemented by a wide-brimmed picture hat similar to the bride's. The bridesmaid was attired in a yellow print gown, trimmed in white, featuring short puffy sleeves and a floor-length skirt with a deep ruffled flounce. Her picture hat was accented by a bright yellow ribbon with flowing streamers. Both wore a white carnation corsage with ribbon bows matching the colors of their gowns.

The groom, his best man and the bride's father wore light blue leisure suits with light blue shirts and blue tipped carnation boutonnieres. The groomsman wore a light green lesiure suit with a green print shirt and scarf tie. His boutonniere was a white carnation. Paul Peterson of East Grand Forks, an uncle of the bride, was usher.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Anderson selected a floor-length gown fashioned of a yellow and orange print. Her corsage was composed of yellow carnations with yellow ribbon and bows. The groom's mother was attired in a pink street-length dress with white trim and a corsage of pink carnations and pink ribbon.

The bride's parents hosted a reception immediately following the ceremony. For the occasion, the bride wore a corsage of pink roses with pink lace and ribbon bows, her gift from the groom.

At the guest book was the bride's youngest sister, Patty Anderson. She wore a white street-length dress with long lace sleeves, and a white picture hat with pink ribbon streamers. Serving the punch was Marilyn Sylstad of McIntosh, a friend of the bride's family.

The three-tiered wedding cake, cut and served by Mrs. Virgil Tice of Mentor, aunt of the bride, and Audrey Lee of McIntosh, a friend of the family, was decorated with yellow roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom in a white floral archway. The cake was baked and decorated by Grace Haugen of McIntosh, a friend of the bride's family.

Presiding at the silver service were Mrs. Myles Swanson of rural Thief River Falls, aunt of the groom, and Miss Nancy Johnson of Fosston, a cousin of the bride. Waitress at the bridal table was Mary Strom of McIntosh, a friend of the bride. Other waitresses were Janet Svalen and Patty Strom, both of McIntosh, and Becky Finseth of Trail, friends of the bride. Assisting in the kitchen were friends of the bride's family: Mrs. Frank Svalen, Mrs. Haldor Hegg, and Mrs. Willie Wolf, all of McIntosh.

Miss Frances Solberg of Thief River Falls, sister of the groom, opened and registered the gifts as Diane Kiefat of Winger, a friend of the bride, assisted in the displaying.

In the evening, relatives and friends gathered at the Oklee hall with the Clearwater Country group providing the music.

Following a belated wedding trip Labor Day weekend to Battle Lake, where they camped and attended the Bonanza days horse show, the couple is living in a mobile home at the groom's parents' farm. The bride is attending Lincoln high school as a junior, and the groom is employed in construction, working on the St. Hilaire elevator. Previously, he attended Lincoln high school.

Hamerlinck And Johnson Vows Spoken At Trinity

Miss Barbara Lynn Hamerlinck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hamerlinck of this city, and Dan Johnson, son of Mrs. Imogene Johnson of Crookston and the late Lawrence Johnson, exchanged marriage vows recently at an afternoon ceremony at Trinity Lutheran church.

Rev. Berton R. Hushagen officiated at the double ring ceremony, highlighted by the exchanging of matching wedding bands, designed by the bride and groom, and made by a friend.

Music was provided by organist Mrs. Carl Nordvall, who played Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," for the recessional. Flautist Marie Roadfeldt played Beethoven's "Ode To Joy," prior to the processional, and Mozart's "Sonata in F Major," after the reading of the Scripture. "We are One in the Spirit," was sung by the assembled guests.

Forming the chancel setting for the wedding party were baskets of white gladioli backed by white wrought-iron candelabra, featuring green candles in crystal hurricane lamps, accented by swags of sprengeri and white carnations. Ribbon bows with greens and babies' breath marked the pews.

The bride was excorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white floor-length gown of sheer organza with sheer full sleeves styled with wide, fitted Venice lace cuffs secured by covered buttons. Matching lace, etched with seed pearls, enhanced the bodice, formed the stand-up collar, and in two panels flowed down the front, encircling the skirt at the hemline. Her triple-tiered, elbow-length veil of bridal illusion was held by a cap of matching Venice lace embroidered with pearls. She carried a bouquet of miniature white carnations, strawflowers, babies' breath and trailing sprengeri.

Paulette Peterson of St. Paul was the bride's only attendant. She wore a floor-length gown of polyester crepe floral print styled in empire fashion with short puffy sleeves. All wore dark brown Windsor tuxedos with brown velvet vests, ecru ruffled shirts and brown bow ties. The groom's boutonniere was a white carnation centered with straw flowers taken from the bride's bouquet. The other men of the wedding party wore green carnations pinned on their lapels.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hamerlinck selected a navy blue polka dot floor-length gown with long sheer sleeves. Her accessories were in white. The mother of the groom wore a shirt waist floor-length gown of light blue dotted Swiss. Both wore identical corsages of miniature white carnations with babies' breath and green ribbon bows.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Branigan of Shevlin, grandparents of the bride, and Carol Johnson of Crookston, the bride's personal attendant.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors for approximately 200 relatives and friends. Serving as host and hostess were Donald and Mary Nolting, cousins of the bride.

Paul and Carol Ihle, friends of the bride presided at the guest book, as the bride's brothers, Mike and Mark Hamerlinck, served the punch.

Centering the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with fresh sprengeri, strawflowers and white carnations. The cake, baked by Mrs. Wayne Johnson of Thief River Falls, was cut and served by Virginia Hegre and Joy Aaberg, cousins of the bride and groom, respectively. Pouring were VyAnn Feragen and Betty Quayle, friends of the couple.

Waitresses were Mary Hegre, Kathy Hegre, Susan Teigland, Susan Hoffman and Linda Nolting, cousins of the bride. At the gift table were Jeff Hamerlinck and Beth Branigan, brother and cousin of the bride. Members of the Sarah circle of Trinity were in charge of serving the reception.

After the reception approximately 75 relatives and close friends gathered at the Hamerlinck home for a buffet picnic supper while the bride and groom opened their gifts.

The evening prior to the ceremony, the groom's mother hosted a groom's dinner at Lon's for 20 guests.

For her going away attire, on a wedding trip to Sugar Hills lodge and northern Minnesota, the bride wore a floor-length gown of light green gauze complemented by a corsage of pink roses. The couple is now at home at 1847 Randolph, St. Paul, where both are employed. If the Shoe Fits
More on good shoe fitting.

As stated last week, the start of a good fit is to have the ball of the foot exactly in the widest part of the shoe. This will assure an excellent inside arch fit with adequate toe room. With an appropriate measuring device, we can measure both heel-to-toe length and also heel-to-ball of the foot length. In most cases the heel-to-ball measurement translated into shoe length will show a larger size. A size 6 heel-to-toe measure may read a 6½ or 7 on the heel-to-ball measure. It is most appropriate to fit with the larger 6½ or 7.

This will also insure a person with weak arches plenty of toe room. A weak arch foot spreads out abnormally when pressure is applied. When we take this heel-to-ball measurement, we shoe fitters have to consider if a person has a long arch-short toe combination, or a short arch-long toe, or any other unique combination. In some cases a person will measure a size 7 heel-to-toe but only a size 6 heel-to-ball. In such case, the shoeman should select a last of shoe which has a long 'vamp' for accurate fitting. You can begin to understand the need for training and experience in shoe fitting if the customer is to be properly fitted and avoid foot troubles.

Girl Scouts At Local Camp MOE Hold Scouts Own

Thief River Falls neighborhood Girl scouts numbering 152 from 12 troops attended the Scouts Own Saturday at Camp MOE southeast of Thief River Falls. Theme of the event was "World Games" and the activity allowed junior scouts to complete requirements for an award badge.

In keeping with the theme, each troop learned a game from a foreign country and taught it to the other troops. England, Germany, France and Greece were among the countries from which games had been selected.

Girls attending the event were given pencils, balloons and small tablets which were supplied by local donors.

Painting at Camp MOE will continue each weekend until all of the buildings have been completed, according to an announcement from the neighborhood organization. Volunteers are needed to perform the work and all parents of Girl scouts have been encouraged to assist with the painting project. A good turn-out on Saturday would allow the painting to be finished quickly.

Next neighborhood meeting will be held Monday at the Franklin middle school library.

Hog Prices Now Where Should Be, Wefald States

"Prices paid to hog producers are where they should be right now," agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald declared recently, adding, "I only wish other farmers were getting the same fair price."

"If all of our nation's farmers and ranchers received that kind of a fair price, the economic regeneration of agriculture and rural America that would result could do as much as anything that I know of to start the nation on the road to full production, full employment and a balanced budget."

The agriculture commissioner said that prices received by Minnesota farmers for live slaughters hogs will help the industry recover from disastrous financial losses experienced in recent years due to inflated production costs and depressed farm commodity prices.

"Last year alone, Minnesota hog farmers lost upward of $65.8 million in gross income. They produced and marketed over nine per cent more pork on the hoof in 1974 than in 1973, but were paid nearly a nickel less per pound than the average for the prior year.

"It is easy to forget that farm commodity prices are about the only ones in our entire national economy that go down as well as up. All other goods, services and wages only go up-up-up, never backward. Farmers are about the only contributory segment of the economy that doesn't have an automatic elevator to ride to offset the increased costs due to inflation."

Wefald said that currently the production costs of Minnesota hog farmers are estimated at from 45 to 53 cents a pound, not including the value of the farm investment or the labor involved in pork production.

Farmers have marketing expenses to pay out of the gross price they receive for hogs, too. Currently, these costs average about four per cent or $3.55 per hog, and shrink the gross return per pound by nearly two cents off the market price.

Current hog prices are the most favorable Minnesota farmers have experienced since 1947 when hogs sold for 27 cents a pound and pork chops retailed for 65.5 cents.

Overall production costs have tripled for the average Minnesota pork producer since 1947, ventured two officials of the Minnesota pork producers association, William F.A. Goette of Alden, president, and Martin Annexstad of St. Peter.

Goette cited one recent example of a major new expense item confronting many hog farmers. Less than three years ago he invested $24,500 in a modern new envionmentally approved steel building for his pork production farm. Today, the same building costs over $40,000.

Minnesota department of agriculture records of farm costs for production items revealed the following comparisons between 1947 and 1975, respectively:

Hog feed, cwt., $6, $10.40; hay, ton, $16, $52; corn, bushel, $1.67, $2.92; oats, bushel, $1.06, $1.47; soy-meal, cwt., $5.40, $8.30.

Also, fenceposts, steel, each, $.63, $2.36; tractor, light type, $1,790, $6,180; 3-bottom plow, $220, $1,200; 2-row corn planter, $140, $1,050; combine, $1,060, $20,200 to $35,400.

In addition, mower, $195, $1,040; baler, $1,810, $3,920; gasoline, gallon, $.231, $.531; and real estate tax, acre, $1.09, $3.29 (down from $3.80 in 1970).

population of over 13,000 and geographically is one of the largest counties in the state of Minnesota. The court feels confident that by use of thorough voir dire twelve fair and impartial jurors will be selected."

Regarding the defendant's motion for appointment of a public defender, Judge Saetre wrote: "The defendant represented to the court that he is the owner of 440 acres of land, 80 head of cattle and farm machinery and that after deducting all indebtedness thereon the defendant has a net worth of considerably more than $60,000."

The judge further added that "Rule 11.10, Rules of Criminal Procedure, provides that the defendant is entiled on demand for a trial to be commenced within sixty days from the date of the demand. Defendant is free on personal recognizance and thus far has not made a demand for immediate trial. Unless such a demand is forthcoming, trial may be dealyed for a matter of a month or two."

any business on a farmer's land. We need legislation to protect our property or there is going to be bloodshed one of these days."

Mrs. Rantanen added that she didn't post her land any more, ". . . but it's MY land. I sometimes carry a pistol on my hip and heaven help the person I catch there without my permission." She suggested establishing a guide service where hunters would pay a guide fee and the guide would know what land was available for hunting and what was not. "If hunters can afford all that travel and fancy gear, they can afford $20 a day for a guide," she said.

Marvin Lundin, Times editor present to report on the meeting, was called upon for comment. He suggested that the best way the people present and others could show support for Foss—"who is carrying the ball for a lot of you here tonight"—would be to contribute to his legal defense. He also suggested that sportsmen's clubs press for legislation establishing a fund for payment of wildlife losses, just as they have pressed for acquisition of wetlands for wildlife.

Lundin said he would be surprised if the state could be persuaded to drop the charges against Foss, and he believed widespread posting of land against hunting would hurt the farmers' position more than help it.

Following discussion regarding the advisability of Foss pleading his own case if a public defender could not be appointed, it was decided to create a defense fund through the MCIA. Persons who wish to contribute may send donations to the Gordon Foss Defense Fund, c-o Lowell Lindemoen, Treasurer, Marshall County Improvement association, Newfolden, MN.

Postal Service Offers Consumer Service Program

concept than just fast mail handling, as important as that is," the postmaster general says. "It is also built on employee courtesy, our responsiveness to customer needs, the sympathy and understanding we bring to your own expectations of what good postal service is all about."

Postmaster Buringrud urged customers in Thief River Falls to bring their inquiries and complaints to the attention of postal managers. If people feel their problems have not been properly handled, the postmaster said, they should see him personally.

To make it easier for a customer to make a suggesion or complaint about postal service, the new consumer service card will be available from rural and city letter carriers and at post offices.

According to Buringrud, the card consists of two postal cards with carbon paper between them. "One copy goes to me or a station superintendent so work can begin on the problem," he said. "The other goes to postal service headquarters in Washington for cataloging and analysis. The cards will help management spot problem areas and trends and take corrective action if necessary."

The consumer service program was tested earlier this year in Illinois, Massachusetts, Arizona and Rhode Island. Postal customers in the test found the cards easy to complete and most complaints were resloved to the customer's satisfaction, Buringrud said.

The card should take no more than two minutes to fill out. The postmaster also said he and his staff are willing to discuss any problems, including lack of courtesy, irregularities in deliveries or collections, collection box convenience and postal office hours.

"We want you to come to us with your problems," the postmaster said. "The whole point of this service program is to bring your problems and gripes out into the open where we can attempt to resolve them."

Kiesow, a Navy veteran, has served two and one-half years with the department as a patrolman and one and a half years as juvenile officer. Basic Education Grants Available To Students

The Basic educational opportunity grant program of HEW's office of education is giving grants that range between $200 and $1,400 to students enrolled in postsecondary schools. It's not too late to apply for the 1975-76 academic year, as the deadline is March 15.

Eligibility for basic grants is based on financial need as determined by a formula reviewed by Congress every year and applied uniformly to all applicants. The only other requirements for eligibility are these: an applicant must be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident; an applicant must be planning to enroll at least half-time; an applicant must have begun postsecondary education after April 1, 1973.

To apply for a basic grant, students fill out an "Application for Determination of Basic Grant Eligibility." Applications are available from high school counselors, postsecondary financial aid officers, public libraries or by writing: basic grants, p.o. box 84, Washington, D.C. 20044.

Four to six weeks after submitting an application, students are informed of their eligibility. Since the amount of the grant depends on both financial need and the cost at the school, students must take this notification to the financial aid office at the school which they plan to attend to find out the amount of the award.

Students may use the grants at any of over 5,800 colleges and universities, community colleges, vocational and technical schools, career academies, and hospital schools of nursing.

The grants may be used for any educational expense, including tuition, fees, room and board, books, and supplies. But, in no instance, may they exceed one-half of the total cost of a year's education. They can, however, be used in conjunction with other private, state, and federal assistance.

Look into basic grants. It costs nothing to apply, and they never have to be paid back. A few simple steps toward a basic grant could put you on the road of a good education this fall.

Tri-County To Buy Ambulance To Serve Area

Tri-County Emergency Medical Services district, Inc., will be placing a new ambulance into service in the near future, as a result of monies secured through a grant recently approved.

The city of Karlstad, which is under contract to Tri-County to provide rescue and ambulance service to the areas of Roseau, Kittson and Marshall counties included in the district, was notified of the approval of its grant application for federal financial assistance to purchase an ambulance by the Minnesota department of health.

The grant will fund 50 per cent of the accepted bid, up to a maximum of $9,000. The Tri-County E.M.S. district presently operates one rescue-ambulance of its own, and also leases a second ambulance unit from Collins Funeral homes, Inc. on an "as needed" basis. Addition of the new unit to the district will increase Tri-County's ability to cover the large area.

Tri-County, through the city of Karlstad, has also filed an application for grant monies for two-way radio equipment. When approved, the grant will assist in the purchase of radio base stations for the Greenbush community hospital and Karlstad memorial hospital, in addition to mobile units for ambulance and rescue vehicles, repeater towers and pocket-type pages for on-call hospital staff and rescue-ambulance personnel.

Purchase of the equipment will be handled by a state-wide bid and the equipment will allow point-to-point communications between all hospitals and ambulances within Minnesota.

Need Volunteers As Block Parents

Volunteers are needed to serve as block parents in the program sponsored by the Thief River Falls Mrs. Jaycees, according to Mrs. Larry Belmont, chairman of the project.

Letters are being sent home today (Wednesday) with kindergarten and first grade students in the Thief River Falls schools to explain the program and request volunteers. Last year there were approximately 130 block parents registered and furnished with window signs which designate houses as block parent homes.

"Purpose of this program is to aid a child in distress and help curb offenses in this area," Mrs. Belmont said. "In our schools the children have been instructed by their teachers to go to the nearest home (not a car) which displays a poster in the window when there is a real need for assistance. They have also been reminded of the dangers in talking to or accepting rides with strangers."

Block parents provide help for children in case of an emergency, such as when children are lost, are followed by strangers, need protection from storms or to report indecent incidents, accidents or fights.

A questionnaire is included with the material being sent home with children today, and parents who would be willing to serve as block parents are asked by Mrs. Belmont to please complete it and send it to the Mrs. Jaycees. Others who would be willing to serve as block parents are invited to contact Mrs. Belmont at 681-3621, or write to Block Parent Committee, TRF Mrs. Jaycees, c-o Mrs. Larry Belmont, Thief River Falls.

Block parents are asked to notify police if a lost child is under school age, a child is seriously injured or attacked or bitten by an animal or if a child has been molested or frightened by a stranger or has witnessed an indecent exposure. The school is to be notified if a lost child is of school age, the school-age child's parents can not be reached, the child is molested or attacked by other school children or the child is slightly injured.

Block parents are also instructed not to give a child any food or beverage (including water), not to administer first aid except to stop excessive bleeding or restore breathing and to always report to the block parent chairman within four hours after a child has been helped.

Boschwitz Hits Ford On Farm Export Policy

Republican national committeeman Rudy Boschwitz, speaking to the annual Minnesota convention of the National Farmers organization (NFO), said recently President Ford reneged on a "hands off" promise on farm exports.

"Back in April, I joined scores of others who know the value of a stable farm economy and urged the President to let the target price support bill become law. He vetoed that legislation, but promised that the administration would not tamper with exports," explained Boschwitz.

"I quote from the President's May 1 veto message: 'This year despite very trying circumstances most farmers are again seeking full production. They have my support for a vigorous export policy for their products. This administration is determined to act in support of the American farmer and his best interests. It will not act to distort his market'."

"But," said Boschwitz, "the administration has done just that—distorted the farm market and put the farmer in an impossible position. Earlier this year, the government encouraged the farmer to plant from fence post to fence post, and now the government is removing his markets.

"Furthermore, the administration seems to be buckling under the labor demands to support inefficient and expensive transportation of farm commodities which also will have a negative effect on prices.

"I can relate to the frustration of farmers, and I am alarmed that the President has refused to lift the moratorium on grain sales while the elevators begin to bulge with 1974 crops and won't be able to hold this year's crops."

For example, Boschwitz said, as of September 1, Minnesota had nearly 22 million bushels of old crop soybeans in storage. That compared with 14.5 million a year earlier. "Old crops in storage have to move to make room for new crops," he said.

Boschwitz stressed that a healthy farm economy is vital to the United States in general and Minnesota in particular.

"Minnesota wound up the fiscal year ended this June 30 with $403 million surplus in the state treasury. Now that tax money wasn't piling up because the manufacturers or retailers of this state had a banner year. It got there because Minnesota agriculture did well, and when Minnesota farmers are making money it's good for the whole economy," Boschwitz said.

He said he admired the "spunk" of the NFO.

"As a businessman, I can appreciate your efforts to gain control of the prices of your products. I understand how crucial it is that there be a relation between the cost of goods sold and the cost of sales."

Minn. Receives U.S. Pedestrian Safety Award

Minnesota has been lauded as the top national winner in the American automobile association's (AAA) 36th annual pedestrian safety inventory. The AA grand award, which was presented to Gov. Wendell R. Anderson recently, is the highest recognition given to states and cities with outstanding pedestrian death and injury records and pedestrian accident prevention programs.

The AA safety program, the only one of its kind, focuses national and local attention on the efforts of thousands of citizens who provide for pedestrian safety needs. School safety patrols, local law enforcement officials, the Minnesota department of public safety and the general public have been credited for their special contributions.

Pedestrian awards are presented to cities and states on the basis of their pedestrian death and injury records and on accident programs which are evaluated in seven key areas: maintenance of efficient accident records, safety legislation, enforcement, traffic engineering, traffic safety organization, quality of school traffic safety programs and active public information and education programs.

Social-Emotional Disturbance No. 1 Social Problem

"Social and emotional disturbance in children and adults is the number one social problem in Minnesota today" according to Norris C. Adams, associate director of the Mental Health association of Minnesota. He spoke before the Northwestern mental health advisory committee at the Northwestern mental health center recently at Crookston.

He said, "It is estimated that one of every 10 people in the state will at some time in their life require professional mental health care. For children, the percentage is even higher."

Sixty per cent of industrial accidents have as an underlying factor mental or emotional disturbance and 80 per cent of absenteeism is due to emotional disturbance. It has been calculated that emotionally disturbed employees cost their Minnesota employers $150 million annually because of absenteeism, alcoholism, inefficiency and physical illness.

Adams said, "The mental health association of Minnesota is made up of citizen volunteers who are playing a leading role in the making of mental health decisions. During the last 25 years mental health volunteers acting in this advocacy role have been interested in both quality of care provided for those who need it and preventive programs to reduce the number of mentally ill."

The mental health association has worked to improve conditions in state mental hospitals and was instrumental in gaining enactment of the Community mental health center act in 1957 which helped establish the Northwestern Mental health center in Crookston. The association has been the major thrust in expanding the program of community mental health centers by working for appropriations, evaluating programs and helping to improve programs that are not what they should be.

Adams stated that the need for community alternatives to state hospitals commitments is very vital. State legislators must be made to understand this need thereby appropriating funds for local care instead of state hospital care.

During the last fiscal year, according to Adams, the Minnesota state legislature talked of implementing community programs and decreasing state hospital services. However, they appropriated no extra funds for the development of community alternatives and increased funds to state hospitals. The mental health association strongly supports the programs of community mental health centers of which the northwestern mental health center in Crookston is a part.

McKee, Bemidji, Named To Heart Fund Offices

John McKee, Bemidji, was named state heart fund vice chairman and Northern regional chairman for the 1976 Minnesota annual heart fund campaign by Alan Roeder, state heart fund chairman.

As Northern Regional heart fund chairman, McKee will lead volunteers in the 23-county region toward a goal of $112,302.

The largest investment of heart fund dollars is for Minnesota heart association research into the causes and cures for heart and blood vessel diseases, which afflict more than 543,417 Minnesotans.

For the 1975-76 fiscal year the Minnesota heart association and the American heart association have jointly allocated nearly $700,000 for research to be conducted by Minnesota researchers.

Through research, public and professional education and community service the Minnesota Heart association is striving to accomplish its task of reducing death and disability due to heart and blood vessel diseases.

Social Services Plan Available Today In Minn.

Governor Wendell Anderson announced recently that the final 1975-76 plan for social services for the state of Minnesota will be available to the public beginning today (Wednesday) through Vera J. Likens, commissioner of public welfare, and through county welfare departments throughout Minnesota.

Under the plan an estimated 882,000 Minnesotans will receive social services during the 12 month period beginning today (October 1). The services will be funded through approximately $118 million of local, state and federal funds.

For the first time, public hearings were held, all across Minnesota to inform the public about the proposed plan, and provide the opportunity for public input into its development. Hearings were held in late July and early August of 1975. 570 people attended the public hearings and 66 written comments were received by the Department of public welfare. As a result of the public hearings process, and written comments received, improvements were made and these are reflected in the final plan.

This annual plan is a requirement of Title XX of the Social security act. Title XX was created by the Social service amendments of 1974 which was signed by the President in January 1975.

The major impact of Title XX was to allow flexibility within the states to identify and define services and specify what groups of persons receiving services will be eligible for federal participation in the costs.

In addition, Title XX requires that each state develop an annual plan which specifies the services to be offered, estimates of the number of individuals to be served and the costs of service in each geographic area of the state.

The Minnesota department of public welfare is the state agency designated to supervise the planning and administration of the Minnesota annual social service plan. The plan reflects all public social services administered by county welfare boards and human service boards supervised by the Minnesota department of public welfare.

Minnesota will be using its full federal allocation under Title XX of $46,500,000, plus $19,000,000 state, $45,000,000 local and $6,600,000 from other sources to fund this program. It is estimated that 882,000 people in Minnesota will receive some form of social service under the plan. Through the plan, about 395,000 people will be referred to agencies where they can receive information or help. Approximately 487,000 people will receive other services over a longer period of time.

The purpose of the Minnesota social service program is to help individuals achieve the maximum level of independent living of which they are capable within the family structure and the community, within the limits of available resources.

The plan includes 22 social services such as adoption, day care for adults and children, foster care, health (including mental health), legal services, and social and recreational services.

For further information contact Gary Haslhuhn, director, Division of social services, Minnesota department of public welfare at centennial office building, St. Paul, Mn. 55155, (612) 296-2307.

Prowlers, Lumberjacks Tangle Friday

What shapes up to be the most important game of the 1975 season for the Lincoln high school football team will be played Friday when the Prowlers host Bemidji at 7:30 p.m. on the Prowler athletic field.

The game against the rival Lumberjacks will be the 1975 Northwest Conference opener for the Prowlers who completed their nonconference schedule two weeks ago at a 2-2 level. Bemidji is 5-0 for the year and 2-0 in NWAC play.

Final outcome of Friday's game will be the key to the Prowler conference pennant hopes. A loss, although it would not completely knock the Prowlers out of title contention, would be extremely hard to overcome since Bemidji would be well on its way to a second straight undisputed conference championship.

A win over the Prowlers would give the Lumberjacks a 3-0 conference record with only an October 17 game at Crookston standing in the way of another NWAC crown for Bemidji. Thief River Falls, on the other hand, must still face Fergus Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston in league competition.

"It's a whole new season for us," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Jim Sims when he discussed the Prowler NWAC opener. "As far as we're concerned we're 0-0 right now. If we want to be in that conference (title) picture, we'd best get off to a good start."

Sims went on to explain that most of the Prowler pre-season goals are still within reach. "Really, it's all still there for us," said Sims, "the conference championship, the conference playoff game and even that state playoff thing."

Despite its 2-2 record, Thief River Falls is not yet out of the Minnesota State High School League state playoff picture bacause Prowler losses to Grand Forks Red River and St. Cloud Apollo are losses to larger AA schools and are not counted against the Prowler Class A standing.

Prowlers Enjoy Homecoming Success

Friday night's Thief River Falls-Bemidji football clash here will be observed as the 1975 Lincoln high school homecoming game.

If past records mean anything, homecoming has proved to be an asset rather than a liability for the Prowlers. In 35 homecoming games since 1973, Thief River Falls has won 26 games while losing only nine, including a current string of nine straight homecoming game wins.

"We really don't know what affect homecoming has on the team," offered Prowler coach Jim Sims. "We hope its good, of course. We hope it lifts the spirit and the morale of the players."

Thief River Falls has not lost a homecoming game since 1965 when Grand Forks Central escaped with a 7-6 win. Included in the current string of homecoming success are two wins over Bemidji—20-0 in 1969 and 13-0 in 1971.

That Prowler win over the Lumberjacks in 1969 was a memorable one since it marked the first Thief River Falls gridiron win over Bemidji in 10 years.

Beginning with that noteworthy 1969 win, Thief River Falls promptly reeled off four straight wins over Bemidji. However, the Lumberjacks have won the last two meetings between the long-time athletic rivals: 32-14 here in 1973 and 32-0 in the rain at Bemidji a year ago.

Metusalem At BSU

Mark Metusalem, Lincoln high school and Northland community college graduate, is currently a member of the Bemidji State University golf team.

Metusalem, a member of the Beaver junior varsity a year ago after helping the Northland squad win NJCAA Region XIII honors in 1974, has been low scorer for Bemidji in several meets this fall. Bemidji recently returned from a golf meet in New Orleans, La.

Miscellaneous

+Former Bemidji high school athletic star Earl Sargent was released by the Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League after attending the team's early pre-season drills. The North Stars may reassign Sargent to a farm club, however.

Prowlers Host Lumberjacks In 1975 Lincoln Homecoming Game

Thief River Falls will reopen its 1975 football season schedule Friday after a week of open-date inactivity when the Prowlers play host to arch rival Bemidji in a key 7:30 p.m. Northwest Conference football game on the Prowler athletic field.

This week's Prowler-Lumberjack clash will be the 1975 Lincoln high school homecoming game.

Thief River Falls will carry a 2-2 overall season record into the game. The Prowlers have not yet played an NWAC opponent. Bemidji, meanwhile, is unbeaten. The Lumberjacks are 5-0 for the year and lead the Northwest Conference standings with a 2-0 record. A Bemidji win Friday would put the Lumberjacks in the driver's seat for a repeat NWAC championship season. As it is, the Lumberjacks are already sitting on the passenger's side.

"Bemidji has a very good football team," pointed out Thief River Falls head coach Jim Sims. "They're a well-rounded ball club. They have good size, good speed in the backfield, they throw the ball well and they've got good receivers."

Bemidji has been most impressive in racking up five straight wins over Milaca 26-12, Crosby-Ironton 54-8, Minnehaha Academy 49-7, East Grand Forks 28-0 and Fergus Falls 23-0.

A potent Lumberjack ground game is paced by the one-two punch of seniors Wayne Marty and Lee Hanson. Marty, a 5-9, 160-pounder, has rushed for 521 yards this fall and has scored 10 touchdowns. He averages a whopping 8.5 yards every time he carries the ball. Hanson, 6-0 and 180, has rushed for 315 yards and has scored three times while averaging 5.9 yards per carry. Bemidji has rushed for nearly 2,000 yards already this season.

In addition to the Lumberjacks' obvious ball-carrying talents, Bemidji has developed a dangerous passing attack behind the strong arm of 5-10, 175-pound senior quarterback Jeff Eidsmoe. The Bemidji signal caller has completed 65 per cent of his passes—26 of 40—for 445 yards and eight touchdowns. Jack Schwartz, a big 6-2, 190-pound senior, is Eidsmoe's favorite target with 12 receptions for 222 yards and another big Bemidji receiver at 6-0, 205-pounds, has caught six passes for 120 yards and has scored four touchdowns.

"We know Bemidji has a good football team," repeated Sims, "but we think we have a good football team, too. We're going to have to play an outstanding ball game to beat them. We're going to have to try and play a flawless game. We can't afford to make mistakes; the team that makes the fewest mistakes will win the game."

One thing Sims does not want to do is to allow Bemidji an early lead. "We don't want to fall behind," said Sims. "They're big up front on defense and they're a tough ball club to play catch up football against."

Sims is still in a state of quandary when it comes to the Prowler line-up this week. "We're contemplating some line-up changes," he said, "but we won't know for sure how we'll go until later in the week."

Despite the week of relative rest, Sims does not yet have a definite report on the availability of runningbacks Doug Dallmann and Mike Jury who have been sidelined by nagging injuries. Jury hasn't played since the Prowler season opener August 29. Dallmann has injured against St. Cloud Apollo in the season's third game September 12. Contact drills this week were to decide the fate of the two ball carriers.

+Thief River Falls has now completed its 1975 nonconference schedule and will close the year with four straight Northwest Conference games. The Prowlers host Bemidji this week and then on successive Fridays will travel to Fergus Falls, drive to East Grand Forks and host Crookston.

+Crookston is at East Grand Forks Friday in the week's other NWAC game. Fergus Falls hosts St. Cloud Tech in a nonconference test.

JOAN JURY of Thief River Falls won two events Tuesday as the Prowlers pushed favored Brainerd before losing to the Warriors 105-98 in a girls' high school swimming meet in the Franklin middle school pool. Jury won the 200-yard freestyle race in 2:11.8 and took the 400-yard freestyle event in 4:44.8. She's shown here near the mid-way point of her 200-yard freestyle win.

Brainerd Swimmers Trip TRF With Final Race Win

Highly regarded Brainerd needed a final race win Tuesday to edge Thief River Falls 105-98 in a girls' high school swimming meet at the Franklin middle school pool.

Brainerd's 400-yard freestyle relay team of Mary Mudgett, Kathy Bushman, Barb Rosvold and Becky Hanson won the meet's final event by a one-second margin over Thief River Falls' Shelly Lund, Joy Grant, Marci Pluth and Joan Jury to give the Warriors the meet decision.

It was the first setback of the 1975 season after four straight wins for coach John Hustad's Prowlers. "It was a fine team effort," said Hustad after his team pushed the favored Warriors. "I'm very proud of the team."

Both teams had won six events going into the final relay race.

Joan Jury paced the Prowler showing with a pair of first place performances. Jury won the 200-yard freestyle in 2:11.8 and took the 400-yard freestyle in 4:44:8.

Other Thief River Falls wins were provided by Georgi Desrocher with a 2:40.6 in the 200-yard individual medley, Marci Pluth with a 1:02.3 in the 100-yard freestyle and Kathy Omdahl with a 1:02.3 in the 100-yard freestyle.

Thief River Falls also won the 200-yard medley relay team in 2:10.1. The Prowler relay team members included Beth Nichols, Deb Williams, Desrocher and Omdahl.

Rachael Mudgett and Mary Meyers were double event winners for Brainerd. Mudgett won the 50-yard backstroke in 30.0 and captured the 100-yard backstroke in 1:08.0. Meyers won the 50-yard breaststroke in 34.7 and took the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:17.8.

Other Brainerd winners included Bushman with a 28.5 in the 50-yard freestyle, Karen Campbell with 148.80 points in the diving competition and the meet-clinching 400-yard freestyle relay team.

Thief River Falls continues a busy week's schedule tomorrow (Thursday) when the Prowlers travel to Moorhead to face the Spuds and Bismarck in a 4 p.m. triangular meet. Thief River Falls will host Bemidji in a dual meet in the Franklin pool at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Bemidji Shades Lincoln Football Freshmen 24-18

A 60-yard kickoff return for a touchdown snapped an 18-18 tie in the fourth quarter Tuesday and gave Bemidji a 24-18 freshman football game win over visiting Thief River Falls.

Bemidji posted a 6-0 first quarter lead and stretched that margin to 18-6 by halftime with the help of a 72-yard pass interception return for a touchdown.

Thief River Falls rallied to tie the game 18-18 with four minutes remaining in the fourth quarter on a 13-yard run by Jeff Kosel. However, the ensuing kickoff was returned for the game-winning touchdown.

Kosel scored the first Thief River Falls touchdown on a 42-yard run in the second quarter. Jim Shirley scored for the Lincoln freshmen on a 45-yeard run in the third quarter.

Thief River Falls, now 3-2 for the year, will be back in action tomorrow (Thursday) when the Lincoln ball club travels to Roseau for a 6 p.m. game.

Hanson finished the 2.8 mile race in 15:25. Dan Heleren of Thief River Falls can be seen in the background enroute to his second place finish in 15:32. Thief River Falls easily won the team title.

LHS Runners Win TRF Invitational

Lincoln high school cross country team placed six runners among the top 12 place finishers Tuesday to easily capture their own Thief River Falls invitational cross country meet held on the Thief River Falls Country Club golf course.

The Prowlers finished the late afternoon meet with 26 points. Clearbrook was a distant second with 84, followed by Crookston with 85, Roseau 103, Grafton 112, Bagley 151, Red Lake Falls 154 and Waubun 180.

Mark Hanson of Grafton was the meet's individual champion as he covered the cold, windswept 2.8 mile course in 15:25.

Dan Heleren of Thief River Falls placed second in 15:32 and Prowler teammate Dan Kezar was third in 15:36.

Steve Wraa of Clearbrook finished fourth in 15:38; followed by John Albrecht, Thief River Falls, fifth in 15:46; Ken Larson, Roseau, sixth in 15:45; Tony Brosseau, Thief River Falls, seventh in 15:49; Andy Schnabel, Crookston, eighth in 16:07; Paul Phelps, Thief River Falls, ninth in 16:18; and Mike Nessen, Thief River Faalls, tenth in 16:23.

Nearly 50 runners took part in the varsity portion of the meet. "All of our boys ran well," said Thief River Falls coach Russ Smith who cited Albrecht and Phelps for running their strongest races of the year.

Crookston was awarded championship honors in the B squad portion of the meet since the other competing teams did not field a minimum five-man team.

License Agents Have 1975 Goose, Duck Regulations

Copies of Minnesota's 1975 duck and goose hunting regulations are now available from county auditors and license agents, the department of natural resources reported.

Copies may also be obtained from the department's license center at 625 north Robert street, St. Paul or from the DNR's bureau of information, 350 Centennial building.

Officials pointed out that intensive management efforts in recent years have made the regulations more and more complex, and said no one should attempt to hunt waterfowl without reviewing a copy of the rules.

In light of problems in past years, officials have drawn special attention to several waterfowl regulations:

+ Party hunting for migratory birds is not allowed under federal regulations. Minnesota regulations allow for party hunting of white-tailed deer only, therefore care should be taken by the hunters to take only his daily bag limit of migratory birds, inasmuch as all regulations will be strictly enforced.

+No persons shall kill or cripple any migratory game bird without making a reasonable effort to retrieve the bird and include it in his daily bag limit.

NEARLY FIFTY runners rushed from the starting line Tuesday to begin the annual Thief River Falls invitational high school cross country meet on the Thief River Falls Country Club golf course, Prowler runners identifiable in the photo include early leader Mike Nessen, Dan Kezar, Tony Brosseau (behind Kezar) and Dan Heleren (second from the right). Thief River Falls won the meet's team title by a comfortable 58-point margin over runnerup Clearbrook. Mark Hanson of Grafton took home top individual honors while Heleren and Kezar finished second and third.

AS PROWLER teammate Beth Nichols touched the pool edge, Deb Williams made her dive into the pool to start her leg of the 200-yard medley relay race during Tuesday's Thief River Falls-Brainerd swim meet in the Franklin middle school pool. The Prowler relay unit of Nichols, Williams, Georgi Desrocher and Kathy Omdahl (watching her teammates' progress from behind the starting block) won the event in 2:01.1. Carl Worner of Thief River Falls (far left) and Mary Meyers of Brainerd (middle) awaited the arrival of their relay partners. Brainerd won the meet 105-98.

Regulations at the Thief Lake controlled goose hunting zone are as follows:

1. Hunting station occupancy is limited to successful applicant and no more than two guests.
2. Hunters shall be limited to one trip to the stations either as a guest or a successful applicant; provided, however, that if there are still stations available after hunters without a previous visit have been accommodated, hunters with a previous visit will be permitted to hunt.
3. Reservation dates will not be changed.
4. No hunter shall enter the controlled hunting zone without registering at the check station and obtaining a back tag permit.
5. Transfer of back tag permits to other hunters is prohibited.
6. Hunters are limited to six shells per day in possession.
7. Guns are to be unloaded and cased except within 10 feet of assigned hunting stations and shooting is prohibited from other than assigned hunting stations.
8. The shooting of ducks is prohibited.
9. Dogs must be under control at all times and must be on a leash except within 10 feet of assigned station or while retrieving.
10. Hunters are required to leave the area after each party member has bagged a Canada goose or all their shells are expended.
11. No person shall leave any refuse at any hunting station.
12. Hunters shall personally return their entry permits to the check station and submit geese for inspection.

Entry to the controlled hunting zone will be permitted at 5 a.m. by reservation and 6 and 9 a.m. by drawing.

In loving memory of Oscar Christenson who passed away seven years ago Oct. 2, 1968.

In Memorium

In loving memory of Oscar Christenson who passed away seven years ago Oct. 2, 1968.

God saw you getting weary
He did what he thought best.

You bid no one a last farewell nor even said "goodbye"
You were gone before we knew it, and only God knows why.

UMC Will Host Sunflower Bowl On Saturday

University of Minnesota technical college—Crookston (UMC) will host the annual Sunflower bowl on Saturday. The UMC Trojans will take on Hibbing, with the game getting underway at 7:30 p.m. at Crookston's Central field. Area high school representatives will be presented at half-time ceremonies, and a Sunflower queen will be chosen from among the candidates.

Nearly 60 high schools in the Red River Valley area have been invited to select a Sunflowen queen candidate. For the first time this year, North Dakota high schools in the northeastern part of the state have been invited to participate.

The Sunflower queen will be chosen by a panel of judges prior to the UMC-Hibbing game, and the selection will be announced during half-time. The new queen will be crowned by Kim Jensen, Borop, reigning Sunflower queen who is now a freshman at UMC.

Queen candidates and their chaperones will be guests of the college at a pre-game dinner held on the UMC campus.

Providing music for the Sunflower bowl festivities will be the Warren high school pep band, under the direction of Charles Roux.

STILL NUMBER ONE
SIZE ISN'T EVERYTHING! AMERICA'S NUMBER ONE GAME ANIMAL IS THE SMALL COTTONTAIL RABBIT.
THOUGH PREYED UPON BY A HOST OF OTHER BIRDS AND ANIMALS, THE COTTONTAIL ABOUNDS IN RECORD NUMBERS BECAUSE IT IS AMAZINGLY PROLIFIC. ONE FEMALE CAN PRODUCE SIXTEEN YOUNG IN HER FIRST YEAR OF LIFE. IF SHE AND HER OFFSPRING SURVIVED AND BRED SUCCESSFULLY SHE WOULD HAVE A MILLION DESCENDANTS AT THE END OF EIGHT YEARS!
BUT, SOME ATTENTION TO HABITAT IS NECESSARY TO INSURE GOOD RABBIT POPULATION. THE COTTONTAIL NEEDS AN ACRE OR TWO THAT PROVIDES YEAR-ROUND FOOD, NESTING COVER AND PROTECTION FROM WEATHER AND PREDATORS.
IF THE COTTONTAIL POPULATION IN YOUR AREA IS SMALL, WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT EXPERTS AT REMINGTON ARMS SUGGEST YOU ENGAGE IN A "RABBITAT" IMPROVING PROJECT WITH LOCAL FARMERS. PLANT CLOVER, SET OUT A FEW EVERGREENS OR SIMPLY BUILD A BRUSHPILE ON AN UNUSED CORNER OF A FARM... AND THE COTTONTAILS SHOULD BECOME ABUNDANT.

Herbst Blasts CBS For Show 'Guns Of Autumn'

Robert Herbst, Minnesota commissioner of natural resources, has sent a letter to CBS telling the network that labeling the anti hunting film "Guns of Autumn" a "documentary" is "a mockery and a perversion" of the word.

In his letter to Bill Leonard, vice president of CBS, Herbst said the film was nothing but "biased, blatant propaganda rigged to dehumanize the hunter."

He specifically criticized the film for: 1—omitting any reference to great conservationists who were also hunters such as John James Audubon, Theodore Roosevelt, Gifford Pinchot and Aldo Leopold;

2—the film's demeaning references to hunters for contributing to the acquisition and development of wildlife habitat while ignoring the devestation wrought by the real enemies of wildlife: irresponsible land developers and other destroyers of the natural environment; and

3—superficial treatment of the principals of wildlife management which are fundamental to maintaining abundant game populations.

Herbst concluded by stating that the film "was a disservice to literally millions of sportsmen-conservationists who have labored to preserve a heritage which has been treasured since the founding of our nation."

Most of the film footage was shot at privately owned big game shooting preserves instead of under typical hunting conditions.

Steel Shot Test Taking Place At Tamarac Refuge

Hunters will be required to use shotgun shells loaded with steel shot if they hunt waterfowl at the Tamarac national wildlife refuge.

The refuge near Detroit Lakes has again been disignated a test area by the U.S. fish and wildlife service to evaluate the effectiveness of steel shot, regional director Jack Hemphill said recently. The steel shot program was begun last year.

Though widely referred to as steel shot, the shot shell component is also called "iron shot" by some gun writers, and in federal regulations prescribing the special requirement for waterfowl hunters at Tamarac Refuge.

State and federal biologists discovered that waterfowl ingest lead shot from marsh and lake bottoms while feeding. Lethal effects occur when the birds eat the highly toxic lead omponent. An estimated one to three per cent of the waterfowl population is lost each year to lead poisoning—nationwide. Thus the program is being conducted to determine the suitability of steel shot as a substitute shell component. Despite a smattering of complaints from hunters, observations so far reveal that steel shot is generally comparable to lead shot under typical field conditions when standard loads are used.

Tamarac Refuge is the only area in Minnesota where steel shot is required. Hunting at the refuge will concur with all state and federal regulations. Portions of the refuge open to hunting will be posted "public hunting area" except as described in refuge maps. The fish and wildlife service has requested that persons entering and leaving the area use designated roads.

At least three major ammunition manufacturers are producing shotgun shells loaded with steel shot. Adequate quantities of waterfowl steel-shot loads will be available from retail outlets in the Detroit Lakes area. The special shells are also available from stores in the Twin Cities. As a separate component, steel shot is not yet available to handloaders.

The conservation value of testing shot may ultimately lead to more waterfowl in the hunter's bag and more efficient use of wildlife. The innovative test program will be reevaluated after the 1975 season.

A few skeptics have denounced the program because, they say, "steel shot is good for feeding ducks, but tough on human dentures when roast duck is on the menu." But the gist of the test is predicated on a conservation effort to find a better shot-shell component for gunners so that waterfowl losses to lead poisoning can be eliminated.

Conservationists are concerned and they believe the problem can be resolved. Experimental testing at the Minnesota refuge will help find the answers. Said an optimistic hunter, "Let's get the lead out!"

TRF Student To Perform At UND Half-Time Show

Report Progress On New State Trail Programs

Department of natural resources has issued a progress report on development work completed this summer on four major recreational trails currently under construction.

Taconite trail—Located 14 miles southwest of McCarthy Beach state park and extending to a point 12 miles north of Hibbing, when completed will offer 135 miles of hiking and snowmobiling through some of the most primitive country in Minnesota.

There will be 42 miles of trail completed and ready for use during the winter season. An additional 5 miles is still being worked on and possibly could be completed this fall.

Heartland trail—Runs between Park Rapids and Walker. The trail utilizes an abandoned railroad bed and 28 miles of ties and debris have been removed and the surface graded. In addition, a horseback riding trail has been laid out and is presently being cleared.

A 300-foot long railroad bridge at Akeley has been redesigned for trail use and will be completely enclosed. The entire trail should be completed some time next summer and will include facilities for hiking, horseback riding, snowmobiling and bicycling.

Minnesota-Wisconsin trail—Currently has 120 miles of signed, posted useable trail including a new 20 mile section built this summer between the St. Croix state forest and Nickerson.

Also included is a 10 mile hiking and cross country ski trail located near the town of Sunrise and along the St. Croix river.

Luce Line trail—Originates in Hennepin county and extends westward 104 miles to Chippewa county. The first 18 miles of the trail will be open for multiple use by late fall. A six mile section between Gleason lake at Vicksbury Lane in Plymouth and Stubbs Bay in Orono is reserved for bicycling, horseback riding, hikers and cross country skiers. This section should be completed by the middle of November.

Snowmobilers may use 12 miles of trail from Stubbs Bay to Watertown in Carver county. This section provides a link to Lake Minnetonka which is part of the Hennepin county park reserve destrict.

Cautions Against Phone Damage Due To Shooting

Al Bacon, manager of the local Northwestern Bell telephone office, said that telephone facilities are frequently damaged by careless hunters.

"Sometimes the damage is accidental as when a bird either flies through or near cables when a hunter fires," the manager said. "Other times, we have reason to believe that the damage may be deliberate."

Damaged telephone facilities can result in service outages, an inconvenience to customers, and could be disastrous in the event someone needed to report an emergency.

Grouse Opener

Grouse population is on the upward swing but the present season which opened on September 13 is spotty. One of the better areas was Mille Lacs county in central Minnesota. Hunters with dogs had the best results.

Orin Wolden of Blackduck says that grouse hunting is slow with lots of cover—lots of cover in beautiful fall colors.

Blackduck Winners

Orin Wolden has announced the winners of this summer's fishing contest at Blackduck.

A walleye weighing 12 pounds 6 ounces was caught by Kenneth Brook of Bemidji on Lake Movile. The top northern, weighing 12-pounds nine-ounces, was caught by Leon Kozlowski of Red Wing on Balm Lake. A five-pound 10-ounce large mouth bass won first place in that division. It was taken from Lake Andrusia by Robert Swenson of Crosby. The winning crappie weighed two-pounds four-ounces and was taken by James Hawes of New Holland, Illinois from Lake Medicine. A blue gill weighing one-pound 12-ounces took first prize in that category. Mrs. Evelyn Ammon of Bursville caught it in Sandy Lake.

Minnetonka Report

Fall fishing in Lake Minnetonka is excellent, with northerns and bass hitting. The bass are close to shore and under bridges. Paul Fahlin at Crystal Bay and John Kraavenbrink at Excelsior both say shallow water fishing produce the best results. Blue gill fishing is also excellent.

Big Winnie Walleyes

During the early part of September big walleyes were entered in the contest staged at Grand Rapids. Nine walleyes all over six pounds were registered and six came from Big Winnie. One of the fish weighed eight-pounds 10-ounces and was caught by R. R. Crawford of Bronson, Iowa. Another weighed eight-pounds five-ounces and was caught by Otto Kail of Streater, Illinois.

Minn. Toll-Free Tourism Phone Service Ends

Toll-free tourism telephone information system, a service of the department of economic development's Minnesota tourist information center in St. Paul, terminates today (October 1).

Begun in May, 1974, the toll-free telephone system was designed to provide reports on gasoline and service station availability during the energy crisis period. It was also designed to make vacation planning more convenient by simply dialing the toll-free number to obtain tourist information.

Minnesota residents are encouraged to continue to use the services of the Tourist information center by calling (612) 296-5029 or by writing the Minnesota tourist information center, 480 cedar st., St. Paul, Mn. 55101. The Center is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The nine-state toll-free telephone system for residents of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin who need information on Minnesota vacation destinations will continue to operate.

State Waterfowl Hunting Season To Open Today

Minnesota's 1975 duck and goose hunting season opened today (Wednesday) at 12 noon, with predictions from some state wildlife specialists for one of the better seasons in recent years.

An increase was noted in the number of ducks nesting in the state this summer. With the good water conditions prevalent during the nesting season the outlook is for a prolific hatch of young ducks.

The only dark spot on the hunter's horizon is the failure of the wild rice crop throughout most of the state and uncertainty as to the effect this will have on holding ducks in Minnesota during the season.

Even if the duck population is substantially improved, however, it will still fall short of that desired by the Minnesota department of natural resources.

Although pleased with the increase noted in this year's duck numbers, state wildlife specialists say the improvement in Minnesota is due largely to a state imposed 4 p.m. shooting closure and good water conditions.

They believe the bag limits set by the U.S. department of Interior are too liberal to permit rapid recovery of continental duck populations to desired levels.

The season will open at noon October 1 with basic bag limits of four daily and eight in possession. Limits on mallards, black duck and wood duck are two and four. Only one canvasback or redhead may be taken, and part of the state is closed to all canvasback hunting.

The goose season will open October 1 also with limits of five daily and five in possession. There are special restrictive limits on Canada geese. Hunters are advised to read their hunting regulations for all waterfowl very carefully.

Farm Disaster Aid Programs Need Updating

Two Minnesota farm leaders called for modernization of existing agricultural stabilization and conservation services (ASCS) emergency programs and the Federal crop insurance program during a recent hearing.

Cy Carpenter, Minnesota Farmers Union president, said that better utilization of the Federal crop insurance program would help relieve the present inadequate assistance provided by the federal government during the times of unusual and severe crop and property disaster.

The hearing was being held by the Department operations subcommittee of the U.S. House agriculture committee to review ASCS disaster programs.

Carpenter added, "These programs and others can offer a real service to the farmer who has suffered a loss. The basis for action does exist and it starts with the local ASCS office."

Dave Velde, Red River Valley emergency task force representative, agreed when he said, "The ASCS office does not seem to possess the kind of real concern and innovativeness that is needed to handle disaster situations. With present USDA philosophy it appears that the farmer will somehow be able to pull himself through a disaster situation based on individual farmers aniticipation of possible loss."

Velde said the biggest problem now in implementation of disaster programs is use of low acreage allotments for each farm.

He added, "Any possible payment that a farmer may be entitled to as a result of a natural disaster is restricted by old and very low history allotments. As a result, many farmers were not eligible to receive assistance, not because they have suffered a severe disaster, but because of the low allotments for his farm.

Co-op Month Is Proclaimed By Gov. Anderson

Governor Wendell Anderson has officially proclaimed October as co-op month in Minnesota. The proclamation credits cooperatives with substantial contributions to the state by not only providing jobs, capital investments, credit, competitive prices, quality products and service but also by local democratic control and by returning savings to local users.

Edward E. Slettom, executive director of the Minnesota association of cooperatives (MAC) says that co-op month is being observed nationally with the theme, "Cooperatives—Pioneers in Serving America."

Slettom reported that this year's national theme is a particularly fitting one for Minnesota. "The oldest farmers' elevator operating in the United States was organized in Watson, Minn. in 1886 and the nation's first local petroleum cooperative was organized in Cottonwood, Minn., in 1921," he said.

"The dairy cooperatives and electric cooperatives too were some of the first organized in the nation. Today, there are over 1,500 cooperatives in the state serving over one-half million members with marketing, purchasing, insurance, health, housing, and credit needs.

"October co-op month is a fitting way to remind Minnesota's people that cooperatives were an important part of the economy of Minnesota when they were started and are even more important in the total economy of the state of Minnesota today," he said.

HHH Reports On U.S., Canadian Energy Exchange

"The Canadian decision to curtail energy exports to the United States could well mean the reversal of economic growth and a severe rise in unemployment for states like Minnesota," states Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

"To avert this economic difficulty, I introduced on September 18 legislation calling on the President to initiate negotiations for a Canada-U.S. energy swap.

"Under such a swap, Alaskan oil and U.S. imported oil would be exchanged for the continued flow of Canadian oil to the Northern tier states, New England and the Pacific northwest. Canada would then be able to continue exporting oil and natural gas to our border areas. At the same time, U.S. and Canada energy reserves and usage would be unchanged.

"I do not want to minimize the difficulties involved in arranging a U.S.-Canada energy trade-off. It will involve long and tedious negotiations between our two countries, as well as with oil and natural gas producers and distributors," he said.

"For this reason, my legislation gives the President no specific date by which negotiations must be satisfactorily concluded. Rather it simply calls on him to initiate negotiations on an energy swap in time to forestall a reduction in Canadian energy exports to the United States.

"The Senate committee on agriculture and forestry has favorably reported two measures, which I sponsored, that will restore confidence in the nation's grain inspection system and provide for a quarterly adjustment in milk price support levels.

"The first strengthens the penalties for violations in the inspection area and gives the Secretary of agriculture authority to crack down on key problems. The second, a quarterly adjustment of milk support levels, will help farmers stay current with sharply increasing production costs.

"Further, I am pleased to report that the state office of the Agricultural stabilization and conservation service has approved the proposed Minnesota disaster relief livestock program which would permit farmers to draw upon commodity credit corporation stocks at a favorable rate," he added.

"In light of the flood and drouth which Minnesota has experienced, along with the continuing depressed condition of dairy farming operations, it is urgent that Washington also approve this program without delay."

Persons in active claims status under the five unemployment programs currently in force in Minnesota totaled 78,593 for the week ending September 19 Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of employment services reported recently.

The total is down 437 from the preceding week.

Initial claims filed during the week for the regular program totaled 3,674, down 23 (one per cent) from the previous week but up 886 (32 per cent) from the corresponding week a year ago. Total number of active regular claims was 47,810, down 115 (.2 per cent) from the previous week.

Farm Disaster Aid Programs Need Updating

Two Minnesota farm leaders called for modernization of existing agricultural stabilization and conservation services (ASCS) emergency programs and the Federal crop insurance program during a recent hearing.

Cy Carpenter, Minnesota Farmers Union president, said that better utilization of the Federal crop insurance program would help relieve the present inadequate assistance provided by the federal government during the times of unusual and severe crop and property disaster.

The hearing was being held by the Department operations subcommittee of the U.S. House agriculture committee to review ASCS disaster programs.

Carpenter added, "These programs and others can offer a real service to the farmer who has suffered a loss. The basis for action does exist and it starts with the local ASCS office."

Dave Velde, Red River Valley emergency task force representative, agreed when he said, "The ASCS office does not seem to possess the kind of real concern and innovativeness that is needed to handle disaster situations. With present USDA philosophy it appears that the farmer will somehow be able to pull himself through a disaster situation based on individual farmers aniticipation of possible loss.

Velde said the biggest problem now in implementation of disaster programs is use of low acreage allotments for each farm.

He added, "Any possible payment that a farmer may be entitled to as a result of a natural disaster is restricted by old and very low history allotments. As a result, many farmers were not eligible to receive assistance, not because they have suffered a severe disaster, but because of the low allotments for his farm.

Co-op Month Is Proclaimed By Gov. Anderson

Governor Wendell Anderson has officially proclaimed October as co-op month in Minnesota. The proclamation credits cooperatives with substantial contributions to the state by not only providing jobs, capital investments, credit, competitive prices, quality products and service but also by local democratic control and by returning savings to local users.

Edward E. Slettom, executive director of the Minnesota association of cooperatives (MAC) says that co-op month is being observed nationally with the theme, "Cooperatives—Pioneers in Serving America."

Slettom reported that this year's national theme is a particularly fitting one for Minnesota. "The oldest farmers' elevator operating in the United States was organized in Watson, Minn. in 1886 and the nation's first local petroleum cooperative was organized in Cottonwood, Minn., in 1921," he said.

"The dairy cooperatives and electric cooperatives too were some of the first organized in the nation. Today, there are over 1,500 cooperatives in the state serving over one-half million members with marketing, purchasing, insurance, health, housing, and credit needs.

"October co-op month is a fitting way to remind Minnesota's people that cooperatives were an important part of the economy of Minnesota when they were started and are even more important in the total economy of the state of Minnesota today," he said.

BRANCH OFFICE

Our town philosopher calls our church "God's branch office." He means no sacrilege because he is a very religious man.

He puts into words the feelings that unite all Christians. Rituals may differ . . . doctrines may not always agree . . . denominational labels may seem to keep us apart. Still we share the wondrous knowledge that One Lord is the Savior of us all.

There is no time when this bond of faith is expressed more vividly than on Worldwide Communion Sunday. In our little church about sixty of us will gather. Around the world there will be millions. Together we'll join in an experience that began on the eve of Christ's crucifixion.

Be with us. BE WITH HIM.

MCCL Says Senate Subcommittee Vote Denies Expression

President of Minnesota's 15,000 member pro-life organization charged recently that nine senators have attempted to deny the American people a chance to effectively express their opposition to abortion on demand.

Georgine Alt, president of Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life (MCCL), said that in the September 17 defeat of all proposals for a human life amendment, Sen. Birch Bayh's subcommittee on constitutional amendments tried to close off the only avenue open to citizens concerned with re-including the right of life in the protections guaranteed to all Americans by the laws of our land.

Despite the unfavorable vote, Mrs. Alt said MCCL and other pro-life citizens will not abandon their position. She said MCCL has been working with similar groups across the nation and predicted that the subcommittee's action will spur pro-lifers on to even more diligent efforts to secure constitutional protection for all human beings.

Mrs. Alt said that even though most of the subcommittee members did not bother to attend hearings on amendment proposals, which had been held over the course of a year, they saw fit to vote down every suggested amendment. Proposals ranged from returning responsibility for protecting human life to the individual states to a stricter approach that would have outlawed abortion in most instances.

Sen. Bayh, who voted against all amendment proposals, said he did so because "We cannot let the constitution become an instrument of moral preference." Mrs. Alt said, "Sen. Bayh should be reminded that all laws establish one morality in preference to another. For example, some people would prefer to discriminate against members of minority races, but our laws impose another morality on them for the protection of each individual and of society.

"Sen. Bayh and his colleagues were presumptuous," said Mrs. Alt, "to think that their judgment is superior to the judgment of the American people. Because they were dealing with such an important and controversial issue, they owed it to the citizens of this country to send one of the many amendment proposals to the Senate floor for a vote."

In order to become part of the constitution, an amendment must be passed by a two-thirds vote of each house of Congress and ratified by 38 state legislatures. "However," Mrs. Alt said, "voters won't get a chance this year to tell their federal and state representatives how they feel about an amendment because all proposals have been knocked down by these few senators."

Mrs. Alt said that because of a flood of requests from citizens in every state, hearings have been scheduled in the House of Representatives for amendment proposals introduced there. "I sincerely hope," she said, "that this rash action by the Senate subcommittee will not prejudice the members of the House and that they will give amendment proposals a thorough and impartial hearing soon."

A constitutional amendment is necessary, Mrs. Alt explained, because the United States Supreme Court ruled in 1973 that, as a "non-person," an unborn child is not entitled to the right of life. "According to the decision," Mrs. Alt said, "a woman's right to privacy takes precedence in every instance over the child's right to exist. A woman may legally do away with her unborn child at any stage of pregnancy simply because he or she is an emotional burden, an economic drain, or is otherwise "unwanted".

The supreme court ruling invalidated state laws which restricted abortion for the protection of both the mother and the child and precluded states from making new laws to protect the unborn.

Mrs. Alt said, "Although securing an amendment will be a long and difficult process, the supreme court left no alternative to people who value life in all its stages and conditions." She noted that a human life amendment would also safeguard the rights of other citizens, such as the aged, the infirm, the handicapped and the retarded.

"We are already witnessing a push by euthanasia enthusiasts for allowing the "mercy killing" of defective infants and a "good death" for the elderly and others considered to be unproductive members of society," she said. "This trend must be stopped before it, like abortion, becomes an accepted part of American society—and the only way to do this is through a human life amendment."

FOOD MARKETING ALERT

USDA
Agricultural Marketing Service

As of mid-September, the supply situation in October is expected to look like this . . .

RED MEATS —

Beef . . . plentiful. Output expected to be seasonably high and record large—about 5% above record of a year earlier, 10% greater than 1972-74 average for Oct. Prime and Choice grades, however, will continue to account for lesser share of total beef output than a year earlier.

Pork . . . light. Even though output should increase slightly from Sept. levels, it is expected to be some 22%-25% below a year earlier and well under 1972-74 Oct. average.

POULTRY & EGGS —

Broilers-fryers . . . adequate, with production about 10% ahead of year earlier, 7% over 1972-74 average.

Turkey . . . adequate. New-crop marketings slightly under Oct. 1974 and down 7% from 1972-74 monthly average. Oct. 1 cold storage holdings well under record high of Oct. 1974 but near most recent 3-year average.

Eggs . . . adequate, with Oct. output about 3% under a year earlier, 6% less than 1972-74 average.

MILK & DAIRY PRODUCTS —

Fluid milk, dairy products . . . adequate. July production was below 1972-74 average. Examples: milk, down 2%; butter, 11%; American cheese, 4%; nonfat dry milk, 9%. Aug. milk production was 1% below Aug. 1972-74 average. In comparison with July 1972-74 averages, commercial stocks of butter and nonfat dry milk were down 46% and 36% respectively; American cheese stocks were up 8%.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES, NUTS

Fresh apples . . . plentiful. Record crop forecast at 13% above 1974 utilized production and 18% above 1972-74 average. Fresh Bartlett pears . . . plentiful. Output in Calif., Ore., and Wash. 5% more than in 1974, 8% greater than past 3-season average. Pear production in other states is 40% larger than last year, 27% above 1972-74 average. Fresh grapes (mainly Tokay and Thompson seedless) . . . adequate. Production to increase 2% over last year and to top 3-seasons' average by 17%. Cranberries . . . plentiful. Near record crop to be 1% above last year's, 7% bigger than 1972-74 average.

Canned non-citrus fruits . . . plentiful. Canners' stocks June 1 topped those of year earlier by 65% and were 26% above latest 3-year average for 12 canned fruit items. Canners are now packing 1975 production of many fruits.

Raisins . . . plentiful, with large carryover from 1974 crop and prospects for a near-record grape crop in 1975. Dried prunes . . . plentiful, with 1975 output estimated at 2% larger than last year's average-size crop.

Frozen vegetables . . . plentiful. Holdings July 31 were 12% greater than those of a year earlier and 26% above 1972-74 average. Combined inventories of frozen green peas, green beans, and sweet corn averaged a fourth larger than on July 31, 1974. Frozen potatoes . . . plentiful, with record-high July 31 inventory topping year-earlier stocks by 82% and the 1972-74 average by 66%.

Fresh potatoes . . . adequate, with harvest of large fall crop at seasonal peak.

Canned vegetables . . . adequate, except for green beans which should be plentiful (canners' holdings on July 1 — latest date for which figures are available — were more than double those on July 1, 1974, and the 1972-74 average).

Peanuts . . . plentiful. July 31 stocks from record 1974 crop were 2% under 1974's high level. Another record crop is in prospect for 1975. Walnuts . . . plentiful. Record 1975 crop estimated 22% larger than last year's output and 9% ahead of the record 1973 crop. Almonds . . . plentiful, because of large carryover from record 1974 crop. The 1975 crop is estimated at about 27% under 1974 crop.

GRAINS & LEGUMES —

Wheat . . . plentiful. Production expected to be 19% above last year's record crop and 27% more than 1972-74 average. Rice . . . plentiful. Built to take it. Vega for 1976: An extensive anti-corrosion program. New hydraulic valve lifters, for quieter engine performance. A new torque-arm rear suspension. And Vega offers a tough Dura-Built 140-cu.-in. 4-cyl. engine guarantee.

America's favorite compact car. Our basic compact, '76 Nova, makes even more sense than the 3 million Novas that preceded it. And Concours, the brand-new model featured here, is our highly practical approach to compact luxury.

Chevelle
Enough car for practically anything. It offers room for six at a sensible price. This year, more than ever, its deft blending of mid-size economics, plus room for the average family, makes Chevelle a size whose time has come.

Capture Capering Kids In Memorable Movies

NEW YORK, N.Y. (ED)—Turn most children loose outdoors and you can be sure of one thing—they will not sit still. Given the opportunity, they will run and climb and dangle and ride, with some skipping, skating and sliding thrown in.

Capturing this unending activity on film requires a movie camera. Not just any movie camera, but one which will allow you to follow and film the action, indoors, outdoors, in sunshine or shadow, without worrying about adjustments. The Kodak XL320 movie camera fits this description exactly. As easy to carry as it is to use, it requires only that you drop in a film cartridge, aim and shoot.

Outlining your subject against the sky by aiming upward is a good technique whether you are making still pictures or movies.

Any second now she is going to plop blissfully into that water. With your movie camera you can capture the whole sequence.

You are free to concentrate on what and how you shoot. "What," in this case, is attractive, busy kids who, in themselves, do a great deal to make your movies appealing and interesting. But, no matter how appealing they are, you can enhance your movies still further by the use of simple filming techniques.

First, provide visual variety by mixing long, medium and close shots. As you change your filming position, also change your shooting angle.

Scene length should be varied as well. Five to fifteen seconds (averaging out at ten) is the recommended rule.

Visual appeal is achieved by applying some of the same basics that you use in still photography.

Watch the background and, when possible, adjust your shooting angle to avoid distracting clutter.

Be alert for opportunities for foreground framing, in or out of focus. Branches, fences, gates and so on add just as much to the composition of a movie frame as they do to a snapshot.

It goes almost without saying that you film only while standing still. Movement belongs in the movie, not in the camera.

If you do find it necessary to move the camera in order to keep a running figure in your viewfinder, be sure to do it slowly and steadily rotating your body from the waist.

There is really only one last point to remember. Movies should be fun to make as well as fun to view, so—enjoy.

Given one small boy, a butterfly net almost as big as he is, and a flower-filled meadow, you have the makings of memorable movie footage.

Energy vs. Environment

Manager Bob Graham of PKM Electric cooperative in Warren wrote the following comments in a recent edition of the PKM News:

Many years ago a colorful former Minnesota rural electric co-op manager, Cliff Hove of Alexandria, long since deceased, said: "There are only two laws ever passed by Congress that really helped the farmer. The first was the Homestead Act that gave him a place to live. And the second was the REA Act that made it decent enough in which to live."

Over the years the nation's rural electric cooperatives have gained wide approval, particularly among farm people, for the job they have done in bringing dependable, central station electric service to the sparsely settled areas of this country at prices people could afford to pay.

Of course, this was not accomplished without a lot of help from government in the form of low interest rates, tax concessions, etc. For how else could country people enjoy rates comparable to those available to their city counsins?

In the old days, there was much opposition to this, particularly on the part of city power suppliers. But, government leaders, acting on the principle that gave us single cost postal service and other programs of similar nature designed to bring the benefits of modern civilization to all citizens regardless of where they might reside, persisted in that belief and today we hear little of these old arguments.

But although the dust from the old battles on this score have long since settled, a new battle is now in the making, is indeed in progress. And it affects all power suppliers, city and rural alike, without regard to form of ownership.

That battle has been precipitated by the energy versus environment crisis and the consequent abrupt reversal in consumer rates which heretofore were trending downward even as the prices of other things steadily rose.

Unaccustomed as he is to paying higher prices for electricity, the American Consumer is outraged by the need to pay more for it now. This despite the fact that in his heart he knows the need is there if he is to continue to have abundant and reliable service.

Perhaps, his reaction stems from a sense of frustration, knowing that in most areas he has little choice but to pay the higher prices. However, in the case of electricity he perhaps feels that through government intervention by means of utility commissions and other agencies he has a means whereby the tide of rising prices for electricity be stemmed. And so he blames his power supplier which becomes a scape goat for all his frustrations when it comes to trying to make his dollars stretch to meet his ever expanding obligations.

But he has pinned the tail on the wrong donkey. What he overlooks is that his electrical costs, and indeed all of his costs, ever inflating as they are, are the direct result of government inaction and over reaction in the fields of energy and environment. Rather, he should look to Washington and St. Paul whose omissions and "commissions" are driving energy costs unnaturally out of sight and at a time when we can ill afford further procrastination in coming to grips with the reality of these problems. For the growth and survival of the modern industrial state is dependent upon abundant supplies of energy. Without it we regress into the "Dark Ages" of our past.

Needless Risks

Following editorial is from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

Americans have been shocked and horrified at recent attempts on the life of President Ford.

It is even more frightening to consider that there will almost certainly be similar attacks and that virtually nothing can be done to guarantee the safety of the President. Only sick minds can conceive and carry out such cowardly shootings, but that is a small consolation after death.

This country has suffered through the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy and his brother, Sen. Robert Kennedy, and the cruel and pointless death of Dr. Martin Luther King. Gov. George Wallace of Alabama was shot and crippled while campaigning.

President Ford was a durable center on a good University of Michigan football team in the Big Ten in the 1930's. He knows how to take as well as dish out lumps. Nobody would question his bravery or his willingness to accept risks.

But there is real concern on the part of many who do not feel that the President's current travels are essential to the conduct of his high office. Politicians at every level thrive on crowds, on cheers and adulation. It is important for a leader to go among his people. Is it important enough that a President should place himself at the mercy of those who would destroy him?

It is difficult to see how any matters of importance can be relayed to a President as he pumps the hands of his admirers. There is no opportunity for the exchange of ideas or for probing questions in a motorcade down a crowded street. Aside from cheers and jeers, what can come from such encounters?

President Ford may not like the thought of dodging danger. His responsibility to the United States, however, is greater than his personal desire to continue mingling with people. In plain words, America needs the President far more than he needs stimulating encounters with crowds.

President Ford is entirely right when he says that something has gone wrong in our society if a President can not mix with the public. Something has gone wrong. We all know it. The assassination of another President will do nothing to help matters. President Ford's life will be in danger, no matter where he goes. There is no point in giving would-be killers an advantage by going where protection is even more difficult.

Take Time To Be Safe

Farming seasons are always busy and it is difficult for farmers to find the time they need to complete their work. Despite that hurried pace, however, an editorial by Jack Burke, editor of the Farm Safety Review, holds a lot of truth which farmers would do well to take to heart throughout the year. Here is what Burke writes:

We all recall the race between the turtle and the hare, showing that speed alone won't get you home free. You've got to push on, avoiding detours and distractions, and hang in there until you cross the finish line.

We all know a farmer whose middle name is "hare." He'll slap his tractor in the highest gear she'll pull the load in, pump in all the fuel she'll swallow, rev'er up to the peg then fly away, dirt sailing in all directions. But the poor fellow seldom makes a round without something clogging or getting out of kilter. Stop and start, stop and start.

Just across the fence, Mr. "Turtle" (relatively speaking) is humming along easily, round after round with hardly a pause. At sundown, he's covered more ground, used less fuel, has subjected his equipment and himself to less wear and danger of mishap, and isn't a nervous wreck grouching at his family and kicking the dog.

We all know a farmer so pressed by the clock that he can't be bothered to shut off the power when his machinery clogs or acts up. He'll leap from the seat like a flying squirrel, gears and shafts going like mad, and attack the offending clump or malfunction like a demon passessed, jaws flapping in rapid manufacture of words too rich to print. This "hare" stands a fair chance of ending up in a hospital minus a few parts, losing far more time than he ever saved through the bad practice of fooling with the works while they are turning.

Just across the fence our cooler friend always stops the power, fixes the trouble without incident and still gets the crop in or out on time, as the case may be.

Taking the time to be safe doesn't really mean working at a "turtle's pace," but simply doing the job right, operating comfortably within the limits of your equipment and yourself, and paying attention to what you must do to avoid injury. Taking time to be safe will help you be a winner - ask the guy who never got to the finish line because of an accidental injury.

Borrowed Nonsense

A Texan was visiting an Australian ranch. Pointing to a steer, he asked the owner how old it was. The reply was "two years." "Why, we have yearlings in Texas that big," said the Texan. Next, he asked how much wool a sheep yielded. The response was "Ten pounds." "Texas sheep yield fifteen pounds of wool," was the observation. Just then a kangaroo hopped into sight. "What on earth is that critter?" exclaimed the Texan. "Don't you have grasshoppers in Texas?" the Australian asked.

The theater in the county seat showed "Earthquake" and "Towering Inferno" as a double feature. They advertised the attraction as the "Shake and Bake".

If you don't think, plain English can be confusing, how about this conversation, heard recently in a local hardware store.

"Do you have any four-volt, two-watt bulbs?"

"For what?"

"No, two."

"Two, what?"

"Yes."

"No."

"Daddy, what's polygamy?"

"Having more than one wife. Having one wife is called monotony."

About the only things a child will share willingly are communicable diseases and his mother's age.

Since the discovery of elastic, it is estimated that women take up one-third less space.

MINNESOTA REPORT

WALTER F. MONDALE

Of all the areas that have suffered from the double digit inflation of the past several years, few have suffered more than higher education. The costs of higher education have been increasing so rapidly that a college education is now beyond reach of increasing numbers of talented young Americans. In the past year alone, the College Entrance Examination Board estimated that the need of college students for financial aid increased by $1.2 billion.

The Congress has been working to help meet this need by providing increased support for scholarships and student loans. While we have not succeeded fully in this effort, we have made some very important first steps. One of them was the adoption, in 1972, of the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program (BEOG), which provides scholarships to students attending college or post-secondary vocational schools.

This BEOG program was intended by Congress to apply to all students equally. However, when the Office of Education drew up its rules for administering the program, it became clear that the formula it devised for determining eligibility in the program discriminated against children of farm families and small business families.

Under the original rules, this formula placed an extremely high expectation on families' ability to contribute to the education of their children, and put particularly unrealistic demands on the families of farmers and small businessmen. This formula failed to recognize that substantial assets are required to produce even a minimal income in farming or small business, and assumed that these assets would be available to pay the costs of college.

For example, under the original formula, a farm family of four with one son or daughter going to college and an annual income of $3,000 or less and farm assets of $34,000 would have qualified for no scholarship help at all.

I have been leading an effort in Congress for the past three years to get the Office of Education to change this discriminatory treatment of farm families and small business families. I am delighted to state that, at this time, it appears that a far more equitable formula will be used next year.

The Office of Education's proposed regulations finally begin to provide the special treatment of farm and small business assets that is needed. Under this new proposal, a farm family of four, with one child in college, an annual income of $8,000 and $34,000 in farm assets could qualify for a scholarship of up to $750. Under the previous formula, that family would have qualified for no scholarship help at all.

This is not a total answer to the growing needs for scholarships and loans. Much more needs to be done to make it possible for families to keep up with the spiraling costs of higher education. But this new proposal under the BEOG program is an important step toward providing equitable treatment for the sons and daughters of farm families and small business families, and this good news should be spread as quickly and as widely as possible.

Although we are located deep in the American interior, Minnesota has a huge economic stake in relationships with other countries.

Our state is a crossroad of international trade and investment. In 1973 we ranked 16th in the nation in total exports. They brought a $1.5 billion income to our state — half again as much as our vital tourist industry.

Last year our rich agricultural resources moved us to eighth place among the states in the export of wheat and flour. New overseas markets are vital to our economic future. They mean income for our farmers, jobs in agri-business, continued growth in fields like computers and heart pacemakers, where Minnesota companies have special expertise.

We now have our own world port at Duluth. It boasts the first container handling terminal on the Great Lakes. Last year's container traffic set a new record. Construction is underway on a $3.3 million expansion of the port's meal and grain handling facilities.

Approximately 2,000 jobs depend on activities at the port of Duluth. The port generates an estimated $45 million in income for the local economy, with an additional $75 million of indirect benefit to the Arrowhead region and the state.

Another dimension of our state's international economic interest is foreign investment in Minnesota. Some of the larger, established companies like Shell Oil, Lever Brothers or Thomas J. Liptons are so familiar we seldom think of them as foreign. But at least 18 other firms have invested in Minnesota in recent years.

The benefits of such investments will soon become apparent in the Dakota County community of Coates with the opening of a $3.2 million Nilcon, USA plant. This firm will manufacture a new kind of precast concrete construction material.

The new plant will create 100 new job opportunities with a $1 million annual payroll. That payroll, in turn will generate close to $500,000 in new bank deposits and $560,000 more in retail sales and create 68 new jobs in other local business, according to estimates of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. In addition, there will be a substantial number of construction jobs created in the building of the 56,000 square foot plant. And the community will benefit from a broadened tax base.

It is increasingly important for Minnesotans to look beyond our national borders in the increasingly interdependent world economy. State government, particularly the Finance and International Trade Division of the Department of Economic Development, will continue to seek new markets for Minnesota's products and encourage the investment of foreign capital here. The continuing strength of the Minnesota economy in the years ahead depends on the success of such efforts.

If you're thinking about buying your own phone system, ask the salesman these four questions.
His answers may change your mind.

1. Listen, you say my monthly cost would be a little less if I owned my equipment, but what about the total cost over the long run? Like maintenance—does your price include repair labor costs after the guarantee expires? And how long am I going to have to hold on to the system before it pays for itself? Do you really think it'll last that long?

2. If I should move my business to a new location, how long is it going to take you to hook up my phone system and get it working again? What am I supposed to do all that time without service?

3. If the size of my business should change and my phone system can't adapt to the new size, what will that cost? Is there really any market for an outgrown and used phone system?

4. What about taxes? Is your contract written so costs are fully deductible as an operating expense, or do they fall under capital investment? How about sales tax—wouldn't that wipe out my investment credit?

There are a lot of other important questions you should ask before you make your decision. Give us a call at 218-847-3142 and we'll be glad to fill you in on all of them.

Get the whole story first. Call collect.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

What's more important to you, where you live: Cleaner air? Jobs and a healthy economy? Low electric rates? Cheaper food? Inexpensive transportation?

In the best of all possible worlds, such choices would not have to be made. Unfortunately, we do not live in the best of all possible worlds—although some people act as though we do. The unemployed want jobs, NOW! The homeowner with an electric bill higher than his mortgage payment wants relief, and forget the consequences. And some environmentalists insist on air cleaner than Mother Nature produces.

It is easy to sympathize with each of these viewpoints individually. Put them all together, however, and you have Mission Impossible.

The industrial and agricultural development that provides more jobs and cheaper food often pollutes the air. We can, and should, eliminate the worst of the pollution. But we don't know how to eliminate all of it (at least not at a cost that would be less than prohibitive).

The least expensive, most available fuels for the generation of electricity are also those contributing most to air pollution.

Equipment to reduce some forms of this pollution can cost more than the cost of the powerplant itself. Such expenses, including the cost of cleaner, premium fuels, must be added to the electric bill. . . unless the plant can be located where air pollution does no harm.

Reasonable people, aware of the problems, should be able to make intelligent decisions on how to balance these factors in their own areas. Obviously, local conditions will vary enormously—prevailing winds and prevailing poverty may push the priorities in one direction in one place, while stagnant air and affluence make the opposite couse more sensible elsewhere.

But will reasonable people be given the chance? Congress has had a tendency to legislate extremist positions into law where the environment is concerned. There is a very great threat that it is about to top its past performances on the clean air issue, passing regulations so stringent that further industrial or agricultural development would be forbidden in most of the country.

These prospective regulations are in the form of draft amendments to the clean air act of 1970. (The act itself has now expired. The effect of the proposed amendments is both to renew it and to toughen it.)

A subcommittee of the Senate is talking about dividing the country into two classes of air quality zones.

Class I: Aesthetic and scenic areas such as national parks, forests, wilderness areas, wildlife refuges and monuments.

No development which could affect air quality in these areas would be permitted—in effect, no development at all, since even large-scale farming can "affect" air quality. The catch is, there would also be a ban on development near these areas. The environmental protection agency wants to prohibit "major" new sources of pollution anywhere close enough to these areas to affect the air quality over them. That means, by EPA's own estimates, within 60 to 100 miles. According to proposed standards, a "major" source of pollution could be something as small as an auto body paint shop.

Still sound innocent? Take a map that shows national parks, forests, etc. You'll be surprised how many of them there are. Now draw a 60-mile circle around each of them. The results are appalling. In many states, 80 per cent or more of the land area would be closed to further industrial or agricultural development—and that includes some heavily industrial zones, such as Baltimore, Md.

Class II: This classification would cover the rest of the country, outside of the Class I areas and their protected buffer zones.

Theoretically, some development would be possible in Class II areas, provided that it did not create enough pollution to exceed specified limits. But there's a catch here, too. The "specified limits" are so tough that natural pollution—dust, emissions from vegetation, etc.—already exceeds these limits in many areas. Therefore, once again, the rule amounts to a complete ban on development in some regions, and not much better than that elsewhere.

We are talking, in other words, about a federal law closing vast areas of our country to economic development. Is that a resonable approach to a very real problem? Or is it a political and bureaucratic over-reaction of incredible magnitude?

I think we need clear heads, as well as clean air.

"Work is work if you're paid to do it, and it's pleasure if you pay to be allowed to do it," said Finley Peter Dunne.

That's a wry commentary on the importance of our attitude toward what we do.

Suppose someone offered you a job at moderate pay that required you to spend 40 hours a week inserting a small sphere into a series of holes spaced over a large park, and suppose they insisted that you accomplish the task solely by use of a set of oddly shaped and rather inefficient instruments capable of moving the sphere only by repeated impact?

As work, it would be infuriating; as pleasure, it's called "golf."

Just before the recession, there was a lot of speculation about whether our attitude toward work was changing: Did we still want to work? Did we need more "meaningful" jobs? Had our youth become "alienated" from the traditional work environment?

By and large, such questions have been shelved in the scramble to find enough jobs of any kind. But they will return, especially in a society that is producing far more college graduates than college-level jobs.

In anticipation of economic recovery—and we are recovering—it's worthwhile to review some of the ideas that have been proposed (and in many cases tried) to make work more enjoyable for the workers, as well as more productive.

BETTER COMMUNICATIONS—There are lots of variations on this one. What it all comes down to, though, is a realization that the people who actually do the work are often in the best position to know how to improve upon their methods. Therefore, managers should seek the advice of the workers and then take it.

In some places the program is formal, with worker-management "productivity committees" meeting regularly. In other places, the communication is less formal and less scheduled.

ASSEMBLY LINE ALTERNATIVES—Workers assemble an entire component themselves, or as part of a team, rather than performing a single operation all day.

These programs get mixed reviews. Some workers do well in trials, others prefer the traditional assembly line. And some manufacturing operations are more adaptable to "team" assembly methods than others.

The Swedes claim good results with their team-assembly experiments. On the other hand, American workers who tried the Swedish system (in Swedish plants) were not enthusiastic about it.

FLEXIBLE TIME—In one system, employees pick their starting and quitting time, within a certain range (say, any continuous eight-hour period between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m.). Once chosen, the same schedule is worked every day. In another system, employees may vary their schedule from day-to-day, as long as they put in 40 hours a week. These experiments have been popular with both employers and employees.

The four-day, 40 hour week is another related experiment, although not usually included in the "flexible time" category. Some people like it, others don't. Obviously, it is better suited to some industries than others.

CO-DETERMINATION—Also known as "participative management." Representatives of employee unions sit on the corporate board of directors. The West Germans pioneered this system and seem to be happy with it. Unions in the rest of Europe and in the U.S. have opposed the idea, on the grounds that a union's ability to represent the interests of the worker is compromised if it also participates in management.

Generally, the concept of co-determination is also unpopular with U.S. managers, who tend to regard it as an invasion of management prerogatives. (Of course, anybody—including a union—is free to try to buy enough stock in a company to earn a seat on the board.)

Obviously, there's no single, magic method for making every job more satisfying and productive. But when management and employees join together in an honest effort to improve things, everybody gains. As one steelworker put it, "For years, we've senselessly battered each other around and confronted each other as a matter of policy, only to suddenly discover that we need each other."

Caramel Apples For Family Night Fun

During the fall, plan some family night fun. Spend an evening making one of everybody's favorite treats — Caramel Apples; or shape up some Confetti Mallow Popcorn Balls, delicious crunchy treats studded with chopped gumdrops.

To make Caramel Apples, you'll need a 14-oz. bag of caramels and some water. Just melt caramels with water in a covered saucepan and dip apples into the hot mixture. Invite your family to decorate apples with cereal or miniature marshmallows. Set out raisins, chopped nuts and coconut too; they're all tasty toppings for delicious caramel apples.

Although crisp, juicy apples and creamy caramels are available year 'round, apples are in greatest abundance in autumn. The International Apple Institute reminds you that you can use your favorite harvest-time variety for Caramel Apple-making, making sure that the fruit is firm and vivid in color. They also suggest you wash and dry apples thoroughly for best results.

The apple industry expects a bumper crop this fall, so you'll find plenty of apples in the produce section of your supermarket. You'll find caramels there too, as well as on the candy shelf, with sticks for making Caramel Apples right in the bag.

Caramel Apples

49 (14-oz. bag) Kraft caramels
2 tablespoons water
4 or 5 medium size apples, washed, dried
Wooden sticks

Dip into hot caramel sauce; turn until coated. Scrape off excess sauce from bottom of apples. Place on greased waxed paper; chill until firm. Keep in a cool place.

Variation: Before chilling apples, roll in crisp rice cereal or dot with Kraft miniature marshmallows, cut in half.

Confetti Mallow Popcorn Balls

4 cups Kraft miniature marshmallows
½ cup Parkay margarine
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
3 quarts unsalted popped corn
1 cup chopped gum drops

Melt marshmallows with margarine in saucepan over low heat; stir occasionally until smooth. Stir in vanilla and salt. Pour mixture over combined popped corn and gum drops; toss lightly until well coated. With hands slightly moistened with water, shape into 1½-inch balls; place on greased baking sheet.

Thanks to 4-H

Your reporter has received calls from people having relatives buried at Park Ridge cemetery stating what a good job the City View 4-H'ers have done to keep the grounds mowed and cleaned up. The effort is much appreciated as many of the surviving family members are elderly now, and unable to get out of town or care for the family graves. Mrs. Vern Hamre, one of the adult leaders, said the 4-H plans to keep up the cemetery care, but that at a forthcoming meeting a worksheet will be drawn up so that all 4-H families do not have to work every time. A big "thank you" is extended to the youngsters!

4-H'ers Improve Records With Photography

CHICAGO—It's been said that one picture is worth a thousand words, and that statement certainly holds true when it comes to assembling a 4-H record book! Clear, sharp "before" and "after" photographs of 4-H projects can add more interest and impact to a record book than a comparable number of written pages.

Using their camera skills to visualize 4-H experiences and accomplishments is important to more than 127,000 young people in the national 4-H photography program sponsored by Eastman Kodak Company. Under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, rural and urban 4-H'ers from 9 to 19 participate in a variety of learn-by-doing photography activities.

A wide-angle view

But photography is more than a communications tool. It's a means of artistic expression and a medium for exploring the scientific world. And it gives 4-H'ers an opportunity to benefit the community by visually recording the progress of civic action projects.

To aid 4-H camera enthusiasts, Kodak has helped produce a series of members' manuals and leaders' guides for use in the program. From the basics of camera operation to developing and printing to movie-making, there are educational materials to interest the 4-H photographer at any level of proficiency.

4-H'ers may find that their interest in photography as a useful, enjoyable hobby leads to a lifetime career as a commercial photographer, photojournalist, graphics designer or visual communications instructor.

4-H'ers can earn awards

Kodak also offers incentives and recognition to program members through awards arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee. Foremost among these awards are the $1,000 college scholarships presented to six national winners in the program.

The six are selected from 50 state winners who receive expense-paid trips to the 54th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago. Up to four program members per county are eligible for medals of honor. All winners are chosen by the Extension Service on the basis of their record books.

For the second year, the company is sponsoring a National 4-H Photo Exhibition to be held Nov. 29-Dec. 4 during 4-H Congress. The 1975 show will focus on individual photos and picture series taken by 4-H'ers that record and interpret their 4-H activities and interests.

Additional information on the national 4-H photography program is available from county extension agents.

THE PRESCRIPTION REGULATIONS ARE GETTING STRICTER!

Time was when things were fairly simple. Your doctor examined you, determined what was wrong and gave you a prescription to bring to your pharmacist to be compounded.

Nowadays it is getting more complicated to fill prescriptions. Such terms as Bioavailability, adverse drug reactions and patient medication profiles have come into picture. Then in addition there are many new labeling requirements, special containers, and in a large number of cases complex paper work. The time our pharmacists save in preparing a prescription is more than taken up by all the new requirements they have to follow.

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?"

NCC President Cites 22% Rise In Enrollment

Alex Easton, president of Northland community college, commenting on Northland's 22 per cent enrollment increase this fall, noted "the dynamic and upsurging nature of the college and its services to this area."

"There is still tremendous potential in this area, and a major goal of the college during this coming year will be to encourage more people of all ages to become students at Northland," Easton stated.

"While housing is a major problem for non-commuting students, there are feasible solutions, and Northland and the AVTI are jointly working on this.

"The addition of the associate degree nursing program and an expansion in the activities area, most notably our adding football, will continue the trend toward regionalization that will be beneficial to Thief River Falls and all of northwest Minnesota," Easton said. He added that, "There seems to be a very positive attitude among the students at the college. They are a busy, dynamic group of people and I'm confident they will support continued expansion of the college."

Easton concluded that, "The present enthusiastic environment at Northland is conducive toward continued major increases in student enrollment, and this is one of our major goals for next year as well."

Police Arrest City Youth For Attempted Rape

A suspect in the attempted rape case reported in Thief River Falls September 26 was arrested early Friday morning, according to chief of police Kenneth Froschheiser.

The chief said a 17-year-old city youth was taken into custody between 1 and 1:30 a.m. and charged with sexual conduct in the second degree and burglary following inquiries by Dennis Kiesow, department investigator, and other police officials. The youth was transported to the juvenile detention center in Moorhead, and will be returned this week for an appearance before the juvenile court.

Police were initially informed of the alleged rape attempt at 10:55 p.m. September 26. An 18-year-old girl, alone in her residence, was in the process of washing her hair when a male wielding a knife opened the door and entered the bathroom. He ripped her clothing and made advances threatening a rape attempt, which was averted when the suspect apparently became frightened by a passing car and fled after rifling her purse.

St. Paul—Winnipeg Race Schedules Stopover Here

by Paul Forsberg
Times Reporter

Thief River Falls chamber of commerce is generally appreciative that Thief River Falls will be the third day stopover for the 1976 St. Paul to Winnipeg International 500 snowmobile race, due to the estimated 6,000 to 8,000 potential business customers that will be attracted to the city January 21.

But along with the benefits there are problems. The chamber holds the principal responsibility for organizing and coordinating the local details of the stopover, which has developed into "a heckuva big job", according to Merle Smith, chamber president.

The chamber will also be conducting a fund raising project to raise about $2,000 in expense money. The Thief River Falls Jaycees will provide 10-12 members to perform various duties during the stopover.

Among the services Thief River Falls is expected to provide are starting and finish line areas, a building for the maintenance and overnight storage of the machines, housing for race officials, assistance in developing a race route through the county, and an ambulance and first aid station.

Establishment of a route appears to be the detail nearest to finalization. Pennington county sheriff Charles R. Richards said the snowmobiles will enter the county (after a morning long journey from Walker, the second stopover) in the southeast corner along County road 27. The machines will next proceed straight west along SAR 3. Then, according to the tentative plan, the machines will turn north along highway 59 and head for Thief River Falls. Richards said the exact area of the northerly turn is still in doubt. The entry route into Thief River Falls depends, of course, in the location of the finish line.

Currently, the finish line is planned to be located in a vacant lot behind Gibson's, near the race headquarters at the Country Inn, provided permission from the property owner can be obtained. The position for starting the next day may be situated north of Joppru's warehouse on highway 59 north. To avoid downtown congestion when transferring between the two lines, the machines would be routed down the river and around the city.

The building required to house the snowmobiles must be substantial. It must be able to contain an estimated 125 machines and still be expansive enough to allow room for machine repair. The first choice was an Arctic Enterprises storage building northwest of the city, but this possibility was dropped when it was estimated that the cost of moving present materials out of the building would be excessive.

Hopes now center on the city-owned former D-wKey building. Chamber representatives will have to inquire to the city council for use of the facility.

Probably the greatest problem locally will be to find overnight housing for the race drivers. The chamber is only obligated to find

15 Residents At Valley Home Observe Birthdays

Fifteen residents at Valley Home observed their birthdays during the month of September. Several observed the events at private parties, some with the residents at the home, and all were honored jointly on Monday, September 29, with a party in the main dining room.

Residents observing their birthdays were Ted Lee, Laura Landman, Christine Trulson, Knute Hanson, Myrtle Engelstad, Hildur Johnson, Minnie Gjerde, Lillian Smith, Henry Arhart, Olaf Snetting, Marie Vagle, Emil Boyum, Emma Hjelle, Tillie LaCoe, and Eldora Hermes.

The party, featuring a number of games, concluded with lunch featuring glazed doughnuts.

The previous Thursday, Knute Hanson's family hosted a birthday party in his honor for all residents and staff. The lunch served by the family included birthday cake, bars, ice cream and coffee.

Gail Sistad-Ronald Kotrba Vows Spoken At Grygla

Arrangemnts of multi-colored daisies graced the altar at Grace Lutheran church at Grygla for the recent wedding of Miss Gail Lynell Sistad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Sistad of Grygla, and Ronald Arlen Kotrba, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Kotrba of Goodridge.

Rev. Leland Uden officiated at the double ring ceremony. Nancy Smeby, a friend of the bride, presided at the organ, playing the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Craig Swenson, a friend of the bride, as he sang "Wedding Song," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in a gown of soft polyester organza, lined with taffeta. Lace trimmed the bodice, mandarin collar, empire waistline, skirt and edged the cuffs of her long, sheer sleeves. Her softly gathered skirt, gently shirred at the sides, was complemented by an attached full-length train. A lace Camelot styled headpiece held a mantilla of nylon tulle edged with the same lace that trimmed her gown. She carried a cluster of lavender daisies, white carnations, yellow roses and greenery, accented with yellow ribbon loops.

Maid of honor was Debra Sistad of Grygla, a sister of the bride. Frances Kotrba of Goodridge, sister of the groom, and Sandy Bernstein of Gatzke, a friend of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Their identical gowns of a multi-colored floral sheer over lavender polyester, were fashioned with long sheer sleeves and high ruffled collars. To complete their attire, they wore matching hats and carried bouquets of yellow, lavender and white daisies, accented with yellow ribbons.

Serving as the bride's personal attendants were Bonnie Cwikla, a cousin, and Kathy Horachek, a friend.

Marlin Kotrba of Goodridge attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Bruce Solberg and Lonnie Watne of Goodridge, friends of the groom. Ushers were brothers of the couple: David Sistad and Larry Kotrba. All were attired in black tuxedos with lavender ruffled shirts, black bow ties and yellow carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Sistad wore a medium green polyester A-line, floor-length gown, complemented by pearl earrings and a corsage of yellow and white daisies. The mother of the groom was attired in an A-line gown of mint green crepe accented with long sleeves of a sheer print. Her corsage was similar to the one worn by the mother of the bride.

Special guests at the wedding were Mrs. Mabel Windsness, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Anna Sherry, grandmother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors for approximately 250 relatives and friends. Highlighting the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with white trim with miniature lavender rose buds and bows. At the base of the cake was an open Bible inscribed with the names of the couple. Topping the cake was a miniature bride and groom, backed by a floral arch with flowing ribbon streamers.

Host and hostess at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Sistad, uncle and aunt of the bride. Elaine Kotrba, sister of the groom, presided at the guest book as Carol and Jody Sistad, also sisters of the bride, served the punch.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Orville Maidment and Tillie Eliason. Mrs. Willard Sletten and Mrs. Albert Kotrba poured. All are aunts of the bride and groom.

Waitresses were Lee Ann Holte, Gilda Manderud, Carolyn Dahlen and Julie Brateng, friends of the bride, assisted by Kimberly Sistad, niece of the bride, and Marie Kotrba, niece of the groom, who served as gift bearers.

Following the reception, the parents of the bride served a wedding supper at their home for relatives and close friends.

For traveling on a wedding trip to Canada, the bride wore a mint green pantsuit.

The couple is now at home at Goodridge where the groom is engaged in farming. He is a graduate of the Goodridge high school; and the bride is a graduate of the Grygla high school. Photo, Richard Richards

Esther Mae Sheldahl Weds Mark Hylden At Hoople

Marriage vows were solemnized by Miss Esther Mae Sheldahl of Hoople, N.D., and Mark Lee Hylden of Park River, N.D., at the First Lutheran church of Hoople at three o'clock on Sunday, August 24.

Rev. M. J. Sheldahl, father of the bride, officated at the exchanging of the vows. He was assisted by Rev. Donald Ronning, pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran church of Park River. For the unity candle lighting ceremony, the mothers of the bride and groom gave the lighted candles to the couple as the groom read the meaning of the ritual. Following the lighting of the marriage candle, the assembled guests sang, "Praise to the Lord."

The bride is a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. M. J. Sheldahl, who formerly resided at Plummer. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Hylden of Park River, N.D.

Miss Carole Hurtt was the organist and John Gryte served as pianist. Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," and Handel's "Largo," were played for the processional and "The Hallelujah Chorus," for the recessional. A quartet composed of the bride's friend: Laurie Hall, Kathy Melland, Diane Fedje and Connie Midboe, all of Hoople, sang "Sweet, Sweet Spirit," and together with the soloist, Joe Hylden, a cousin of the groom, sang "Let's Just Praise the Lord." "To God be the Glory," and "The Lord's Prayer," were sung by the soloist.

Creating a setting for the ceremony were bouquets of white gladioli, babies' breath and greens on the altar. On either side were tall baskets of pink, blue, yellow and green gladioli with mums, babies' breath and greens backed by lighted candelabras. The bridal aisle, carpeted in white, was lined with white ribbon bows on the pews.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, was attired in a colonial styled gown of white organza and Chantilly lace over angel white taffeta. The fitted bodice featured tapered, full-length lace sleeves and a lace plastron embroidered with pearls. Matching lace motifs, etched with pearls, enhanced the skirt and watteau train encircled by a deep flounced hemline. Ruffles trimmed the sleeves, neckline and bodice. Her bouffant veil of bridal illusion fell from a lace Camelot headpiece. She carried the same white Bible which her mother had carried on her wedding day. Topping the Bible was a bouquet of red sweetheart roses and babies' breath accented by a white lace ruffle. Her necklace, featuring a sterling silver cross with a diamond center, was her wedding gift from the groom.

Kathy Melland of Hoople was the bride's personal attendant.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Mary Nossum of Perham, a sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Rachel Hanson of Scottsdale, Ariz., cousin of the bride, Julie Hylden of Park River, a sister of the groom, and Coral Donnelly of Grafton, N.D., a friend. Their gowns of sheer nylon over soft crepe, with colonial necklines and long sleeves, were fashioned in pastel shades of blue, yellow, green and pink. Each carried a nosegay of babies' breath and carnations, tinted to match their gowns.

Flower girl was Robin Sheldahl of Tacoma, Wash., a niece of the bride. She wore a pink sheer nylon dress, identical to the bridesmaids', and carried a white basket of pink carnations and babies' breath.

Daniel Hylden attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Clifton Hylden of Park River, cousin of the groom; and David Rossum of Grafton, and Robert Olson of Devils Lake, N.D., friends of the groom.

Ushers were Michael Hylden of Park River, Keith Gronhove of Grand Forks, cousins of the groom, and John Donnelly and James Silliman of Park River, friends of the groom. Ring bearer was the groom's cousin, Wade Webb of Grafton. He wore a white tuxedo, identical to the groom's.

Helen Morstad and Jerry Vatnsdal distributed the wedding programs.

The mother of the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of pink polyester with a nylon bodice complemented by long chiffon sleeves. The groom's mother wore a long-sleeved gown of pink sheer nylon over taffeta accented with a white lace bodice and lace cuffs. Their identical corsages were fashioned of red roses interspersed with babies' breath.

Honor guest was Handy Lykken of Edinburg, N.D., grandfather of the groom.

Approximately 350 relatives and friends attended the reception that followed in the church dining hall. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. LaVoy Olson of Hoople, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Holm of Edinberg, N.D., and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Winter of Park River. The women of the church were in charge of the serving.

Mrs. Trudy Vatnsdal of Cavalier, N.D., and Mrs. Dorothy Gronhovd of Grand Forks, aunts of the groom, cut and served the three-tiered Lady Windemere wedding cake iced in white and decorated with pink, blue and yellow flowers with green leaves. A Christogram topped the cake and between the ornate pillars that supported the upper tier were a miniature bride and groom.

Pouring coffee were aunts of the bride: Mrs. Homer Hanson of Scottsdale, Ariz., and Mrs. Violet Paulson of Clear Lake, S.D., and aunts of the groom: Mrs. Ann Hylden of Park River and Candy Morstad of Fordville, N.D. The Kransekake, the traditional Norwegian wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, was served by Mrs. Nancy Sheldahl of Salem, Ore., and Mrs. Carol Sheldahl of Tacoma, Wash., sisters-in-law of the bride. They also registered the guests. Sally Webb and Joan Hylden ladled the punch. The groom's favors were distributed by Randy Morstad of Fordville and Todd Webb of Grafton.

Waitresses were Jane Augustine, Denise Springen, Betty Jo Fagerholt and Sharon Hurtt, together with Mrs. Bernice Fedje, who was in charge of the bridal table. Betty Jo Fagerholt also pinned the flowers. Susan Hanson, Suzette Riske and Debbie Langerud were in charge of the gift table.

For the wedding trip to Winnipeg and the Riding Mountains of Alberta, Canada, the bride wore a baby blue pants suit with a pink and blue scarf at the neckline.

The bride is a graduate of Valley high school at Hoople and is attending North Dakota State University in Fargo. The groom, a graduate of Park River high school and the State school of Science at Wahpeton, is a senior at Concordia college in Moorhead.

Mr. and Mrs. Hylden are now at home at University Village, No. 239, Fargo.

by Ellen M. Spray

The weather was perfect. A nicer weekend couldn't have been chosen for playing hookey from work. Even the Master Artist cooperated by providing scenic masterpieces as we traveled along the lakes, through the forests, up the hills and down the valleys. However, it was ironic that the weekend began and ended with Women's Lib.

Just before leaving this city that Friday morning, I stopped at a filling station. Soon a customer rapped at my window and said, "Lady, (at least he knew I was a woman) this is a serve-yourself section and you must wait on yourself." A short time later, he repeated it. If someone from the station hadn't come to my rescue, I'd be there yet. Women's lib is fine in some instances, but this woman doesn't intend to fill the gas tank, put air in the tires, add oil to the motor, climb a telephone pole, or dig sewers.

After arriving at our destination, we found a weekend full of activities, such as breakfast with a number of relatives, an antique auction sale, and a musical variety program, followed by an open house for the teenagers sponsoring the program. Before leaving that area, we attended Sunday morning services. The pastor was a woman.

It is always interesting to attend activities in a small community. The musical variety program that night featured three separate groups: the teenagers with their singing and instrumental numbers, an adult group from a neighboring town, and a father and son duo. The 10-year-old boy, who played the guitar and violin with equal ease, was the star of the evening.

It was also a very emotional evening. From where we were sitting, we could see behind the backdrop. It was very evident that the man in the blue suit was very nervous by the way he was pacing the floor. Yet when the program began, he was as calm as the other people in the group. Except for his pacing before the program, there was nothing about him to attract attention. It wasn't until I overheard the conversation of the people in the back row that the man's identity was known.

The songs that the adult group sang told a story. It began with the group, minus the man in blue, singing, "Birmingham Jail." He played the instrumental accompaniment. He had the lead part in the gospel hymn, "Lord, Help me Jesus, I've waited so long, help me Jesus, my soul's in Your hands." While he sang, the filled auditorium was as quiet as if he were the only one present. He had a terrific voice. He then stepped back and played the instrumental accompaniment as the group sang the popular number that includes the words, "Won't you be a little kinder, to a brother who is weaker . . ." as he sang, the closing song, "Put your hand in the hand of the Man who stilled the waters," I shed tears, tears for the man in blue who so stupidly had murdered his wife and children so he would be free to pursue "the other woman"; tears for his teenage nephew who dashed up on the platform to greet him; tears for his relatives who lived in that community where the gruesome act was committed, tears for the ones who heard the message in the songs and wouldn't forgive; and tears for those believing that "Something like that will never happen in our family."

As we left the auditorium, I heard a teenager softly singing, ". . . help me Jesus, my soul's in Your hand."

Today's recipe comes from Mrs. Gladys Thorson, who lives on a farm northeast of Grygla. She has three children, Mrs. Brian (Marie) Wiseth, who resides on a farm near Goodridge, George, Jr., who is employed in this city at Kelly Hardware, and Jamie, at home. Mrs. Thorson's recipe is for Broccoli Souffle. Thanks, Mrs. Thorson.

Child Clinics To Be In Warren And Newfolden

Early and periodic screening clinics are scheduled for Warren, October 16, and Newfolden, Oct. 20, according to Viola L. Rud, Marshall county public health nurse.

The clinic is open to any child between six months and six years of age. After an appointment is made one of the EPS nurses will visit in the home to do the Denver developmental test. This is an evaluation of the child's motor language, and sound skills. It is a game to the child and he is more at ease in his own home.

At the clinic the child is weighed, measured and head circumference measured. This is plotted on a graph and evaluated against normal growth patterns.

Next the child's vision and hearing is checked. Even on small children it is possible to determine whether they are hearing sounds and whether there is vision and that the eyes are straight.

The child's nutrition habits, health history, immunization status are evaluated and the child is examined by a nurse with some special training in this area. Then the child's blood and urine tests are done. Immunizations are given if the child's doctor approves.

A report is sent to the child's physician. The clinic does not replace a physician's process care, it is a screening and is an additional service for well children aimed at finding a possible problem early, said Mrs. Rud. Any problems are referred to their family physician for diagnosis and treatment.

Karlstad Given Loan To Build Potato Storage

Approval of a $375,000 loan to help complete the financing for a potato storage warehouse at Karlstad was announced today by Wilmer D. Mizell, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

Karlstad development corporation applied for the loan from the economic development administration, U.S. department of commerce.

The corporation is building the warehouse, to be leased to Valley Quality Products, Inc., in connection with the long-range economic development program of Kittson county. Aim of the program is to create jobs and increase incomes through the orderly development of local resources.

Valley Quality Products officials anticipate that operation of the warehouse, which will include packing facilities, will create the equivalent of 31 jobs. The temperature-controlled storage warehouse also is expected to strengthen the market for potatoes grown in the region, the officials said.

A $262,000 private loan has been arranged for the project. The Minnesota area redevelopment administration will lend $75,000 and the Karlstad Development corporation will provide $37,500 to complete the $750,000 total cost of the project.

The EDA loan is repayable in 20 years at an annual interest rate of eight and one-eighth per cent.

Safety Council Gives Tips For Safe Halloween

Here are a few safety tips to think about before your trick and treater goes out on Halloween:

(1) Don't let the little ones go out alone; go with them but stay in the background so you don't spoil their fun.

(2) Make a rule...nothing is eaten until you can look it over after the kids get home. Check for pins and other foreign substances.

(3) Another rule...don't go into any house that isn't lighted and don't go in alone.

(4) Costumes should be short-avoid tripping. Loose-for, extra clothes, and sew or press on reflective tape for protection in the dark.

(5) Don't wear flammable materials. Make cotton fabrics fire-retardant by dipping in a solution (2 quarts warm water, 7 ounces borax, 3 ounces of boric acid).

(6) Use face makeup instead of masks that obscure vision. And—the kids should wear their own shoes, not Mom's high heels or Dad's old boots.

(7) Don't carry sharp objects—make a cardboard sword or hatchet. Also, a flashlight beats a candle for safety.

(8) Use reflective tape on the treat bag and other props.

MEA President Urges Teachers To Get Involved

by Donald C. Hill, President Minnesota Education Ass.

During the last few months, many news media have commented on and printed letters and editorials about what public employees, and, more specifically, teachers, should be doing in the political world.

A good deal of the comment has been to the effect that teachers should not get involved politically, should not strike, should not contribute to campaigns, should not run for public office. Should not. Should not. Should not.

The question I raise is: What should they do?

It is in my mind illogical that teachers, who are asked to perpetuate democracy and the free enterprise system, should not take an active part in it.

Everyone should take part in the democratic process, which sometimes involves confrontation, strikes, walkouts, slowdowns, lockouts, mediation, arbitration and all of the other possible employee-employer activities.

Teachers would be remiss if they did not lobby, work hard to elect proeducation candidates to public office, and promote their philosophy to the best of their ability. At the same time, we must realize that when we do so we run the risk of antagonizing the very ones we are trying to persuade, the taxpayers.

It is incumbent on all in a democracy who have concern for the future to get involved. And it's counterproductive for anyone to tell others they should not.

Those who believe that public employees are owned by the public and, therefore, should not have the same rights as others under the Constitution of the United States are naive and destined to be disappointed by those of us who will continue to speak out, vote and argue our case in the public forum.

As a teacher representative, I've been asked (really been told) not to be so noisy, not to disturb the public with what I consider to be important issues. But, I will speak out!

It is important that my opponents also speak out. How else can the voters have a chance to decide? We are not in a popularity contest. Those of us who speak adamantly run the risk of disapproval of listeners and of readers.

The alternative to this is silence and apathy. Is that a better way to go? A few select persons will make decisions for us—behind closed doors. I refuse to believe that this is healthy for any of us. The temptations are too great to manipulate, to orchestrate decisions.

Should we get involved? Is the price worth it? Each of us must decide. For me, the alternative to being vocal and demanding on the societal structure is an impossible one.

Our system depends on freedoms, including freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of the press.

Those of us who believe this must say so.

housing for the race officials, but will attempt to insure accommodations for the drivers too—and rooms for the evening of January 21st are already scarce. The rooms reserved for the race officials, plus the large number of reservations placed by snowmobile manufacturers for their drivers, have sharply reduced the number of available rooms in Thief River Falls and in other area municipalities.

Although members of the chamber race committee were able to free some rooms from motel owners who were reserving vacancies for regular customers, the chamber may be forced to advertise for space in private homes.

The thousands of racing fans who are expected in the city "Will have to fend for themselves," according to Smith. The chamber hopes the city council will allow visitors with trailers and campers to dwell at the sports arena parking lot.

However, regardless of the final arrangements, the lingering factor of the unknown will cloud the entire enterprise. If considerably more than the 125 machines arrive (which is possible depending on weather and snow conditions) and if the number of spectators exceed expectations, the best laid plans could go awry.

The city's degree of success in resolving the number of problems, both clear and unforeseen, may determine whether the race stopover in Thief River Falls becomes the beginning of a tradition or a one-time venture.

Blaze Destroys Hallock Theatre Tuesday Morning

A Tuesday morning fire in Hallock completely destroyed the Grand theatre. The building was formerly the Hallock city hall and the site of several basketball tournaments. In addition to the theatre it housed an upstairs apartment and dental offices.

No one was hurt in the blaze, which was first noticed by passers-by at about 11 a.m. For an hour Hallock firemen battled the smoke and flames and apparently had the situation under control until an explosion within the building caused the fire to burst out of control. By late afternoon only the front and east wall of the structure still stood.

A 40 mile per hour northwest wind threatened to spread the fire to other buildings, and three apartments were vacated, but firemen were able to contain it. Cause of the fire and the subsequent explosion are currently being investigated.

'Mainstreaming' To Be Topic Of MSU Workshops

A series of three one-day workshops aimed at enhancing understanding of the "mainstreaming" concept in public grade and high schools will be held this school year at Moorhead state university. The concept calls for educating physically and mentally handicapped youths in classes with regular students.

Scheduled for October 18, "Mainstreaming I" will take a close look at the concept from sociological, legal, administrative and governmental perspectives and seek reactions from representative parents, teachers, school administrators and special education leaders.

Open to all interested persons, the workshops are recommended for teachers from all fields and school administrators.

Major topics for this first workshop on the MSU Campus are: "Multidimensional Assessment: A Prerequisite for Mainstreaming in a Pluralistic Society," "State Department of Education View on Mainstreaming" and "Mainstreaming from an Administrative Point of View."

One graduate credit may be earned through participation in any two of the three workshops. The second one will be held in February and the third in April or May.

Registration fees for the workshop are: $10 for non-students, $5 for part-time MSU students (taking less than 12 credit hours) and $2.50 for full-time MSU students.

Pre-registrations are encouraged by Friday.

National 4-H Week Observed Through Sat.

"4-H—'76 . . . Spirit of Tomorrow" is the theme of this year's national 4-H week which began yesterday (Sunday) and continues through Saturday.

More than seven million 4-H'ers, leaders and parents will take part in the annual salute to the head, heart, hands, and health program.

Observances are expected to center on the 1975 4-H bicentennial theme, commemorating the nation's 200th birthday and accenting the history, ideals, and goals of the American youth movement now flourishing in over 80 countries.

Wayne Odegaard, Associate extension agent, Pennington county, says that county 4-H'ers are doing their part to make it happen. 4-H'ers will be visiting local grade schools and telling the 4-H story. Also, many of the 14 clubs in the county are planning special recruitment drives and recognition events.

National 4-H week is proclaimed annually by the Cooperative extension service, which conducts the 4-H program in all 50 states.

Since its beginnings around the turn of the century, 4-H has offered practical learning and citizenship experiences to millions of young people. Among the most popular projects today are those related to anumals, food, clothing, bicycle care and safety, and arts, crafts and music.

Boys and girls interested in joining 4-H are invited to call the Pennington county extension office during national 4-H week or any week of the year.

Pharmacists In Minn. Implement Generic Drug Law

Pharmacists across Minnesota are pushing their efforts forward to fully implement the generic drug law passed by the 1975 legislature, according to Arnold D. Delger of St. Paul, president of the Minnesota state pharmaceutical association.

Delger, who is also a past member and president of the Minnesota state board of health, announced that the professional association is mailing a supply of consumer education leaflets to each of its 2,000 members. The leaflets are designed for use by pharmacists to give to patients to whom they have dispensed a lower cost, but generically equal drug. The leaflet states:

"This prescription has been professionally dispensed by your pharmacist with a high quality generic drug—the precise drug and strength prescribed by your doctor—and at a savings to you.

"Ask you pharmacist for pharmaceutical advice if you have any questions regarding this medication—dosage schedule, cautions, interactions with food or other drugs, or any other question regarding your drug therapy."

Delger announced also that MSPhA has distributed an explanation of the new law to pharmacists of the state to assist them in fully utilizing the new law to the consumer's benefit. Discussion of the new law is also being conducted during a series of meeting throughout the state during the fall.

The law was enacted to eliminate the unnecessary expense involved with brand name prescribing; he said. "The pharmacists of Minnesota were the primary force behind the enactment of the new law and are continuing to be the primary force behind its full implementation," Delger concluded.

Minn. Traffic Deaths Still Down For '75

For the first eight months of this year, the state's traffic death toll remains below that of last year, the Minnesota department of public safety reported recently.

At the end of August, the fatality count was 482 compared with 526 at that time in 1974. Though deaths recorded during July exceeded the total for July, 1974, the low count of 64 in August of this year set a long time record low. The most recent August with a lower total was in 1959, when only 49 deaths were recorded.

Though pedestrian deaths continue to run higher than last year, with 74 compared with 60, motorcycle and bicycle fatalities through August are at comparable levels with a year ago.

In a recap of fatalities by county, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen and Stevens have perfect marks for the first eight months.

NW Bell Asks Hearings Set On Rate Hike

Northwestern Bell asked the Minnesota public service commission (PSC) Thursday to schedule hearings on a new rate application.

It said persisting inflation is continuing to undermine the company's ability to assure good service to its Minnesota customers.

Specific proposed rate increases were not included in the filing, but the company said they would be determined and announced to the public in advance of the hearing date.

In a statement announcing the application, the company said it has been unable to earn anywhere close to the rate of return authorized by the public service commission last November.

The PSC authorized a 7.97 per cent rate of return on the value of Bell property used in providing phone service within the state during 1973—the "test year" which was the basis of the PSC order.

However, because of continuing inflation and added investment in new facilities required to provide service, the the rates effective last December did not improve the company's return from the 6.0 level experienced in 1973. Even if the December rates had been in effect throughout 1974, the return would have been only 6.29 per cent.

The company now expects its 1975 return to be 5.6 per cent.

During the past 10 years, the company said, it has absorbed much of the heavy price inflation in the general economy without equivalent rate increases. The U.S. government consumer price index for the Twin Cities metropolitan area rose 59 per cent from 1964 through 1974. One-party basic residential telephone service rates in the Twin Cities grew 34 per cent during that period.

"NWB employees have made commendable efforts to cut costs and increase productivity," the statement continued. "But there is a limit to what can be done without seriously impairing service."

The company said it is presenting no specific rate or revenue request to the commission at this time because it wishes to base its request on the most recent operating data available at the time of the hearings. This, it said, would help to reduce the earnings attrition caused by delays inherent in the regulatory procedure.

Angry Reaction

Approximately 45 people gathered in Newfolden Monday evening were in a hostile mood. The few who spoke professed the sentiment of many and it appeared to come forth following years of frustration. "I've come to the point where I've had enough," one farmer said, and he meant it.

While the meeting of the Marshall county improvement association was called to discuss elk depredation and the charging of Gordon Foss with the killing of five elk, the discussion quickly turned to other wildlife problems. And before long, it became apparent that hunter problems were more of a cause for concern than wildlife problems.

It seems to us that the irresponsible, careless and downright criminal element among the hunting public reaches new heights each year. The "slob" hunters who destroy property, disregard posting signs, spray bullets around farm buildings and livestock, threaten life of land owners and clutter the countryside with discarded trash are becoming commonplace.

When this type of hunter encroaches upon the private land owner who has seen part of his living eaten, trampled or fouled by whatever species of wildlife inhabits the land, it adds enough insult to injury to cause even the most mild-mannered farmer to be extremely irritable.

And the fact is, the land-owner can see absolutely no hope for any consideration of his problem or hope for improvement. His complaints fail to bring relief and he is ridiculed as a chronic griper. In the same situation we suppose we would be more than a little angry ourselves.

Good hunters can actually do very little to prevent the careless or irresponsible hunters from doing what they will. But sportsmen must finally come to realize that they have a bigger responsibility for the game they hunt than simply buying a hunting license and waterfowl stamp.

Sportsmen have taken pride, and rightly so, in the fact that they have supported wildlife conservation through license purchases and taxes on guns and ammunition. Very few object to the surcharge on small game hunting licenses in Minnesota for wetland acquisition. Many hunters contribute to such organizations as Ducks Unlimited, which leases and manages waterfowl breeding and production areas in Canada.

Why then, we ask, should it be so difficult to provide a means whereby the farmer can be compensated for actual cash losses caused by wildlife—specifically protected big game and waterfowl?

We don't believe the problem is a wide-spread one in Minnesota. It is concentrated where the concentrations of game and waterfowl are located. And we don't believe the hunter should bear the full brunt of the cost, but he should provide the initiative as he has in the past when a wildlife need has been evidenced.

It should not be necessary for a farmer to break the law to protect his property and living. It should be possible—as one person stated on Monday evening—for farmers and wildlife to co-exist. And it shouldn't take a great deal of intelligence to realize that responsibility for wildlife doesn't really end with habitat and propagation. The expensive part—sustaining the wildlife with adequate food—is not the responsibility of the farmer.

We would propose some relief for farmers in this regard through the addition of another $1 surcharge on both small game and big game licenses in the state. Based on last year's figures (316,000 big game hunters and 289,000 small game hunters), this would bring in $615,000 to start a fund. This amount should be matched with an equal appropriation from general revenue and each collection should be annual. Unexpended funds should be allowed to accumulate at interest against a widespread future need.

Small claims could be verified and paid by personnel working out of the regional offices of the department of natural resources. Large claims could be subject to a county review board which includes a DNR employee, a farmer and an insurance agent or similarly qualified person. The review board could also mediate disputes over small claims settlement.

There would probably be some abuses under such a program, but they would likely be minor in comparison to the abuses which the farmer now takes. There might be some difficulties in administering the program, but we don't think they would be sufficient to preclude making the effort.

We will go a step further in saying that we believe lands on which claims would be paid for wildlife depredation should be opened to public hunting. Such an arrangement seems no more than fair.

It is time—no, it is past time—for sportsmen and conservation officials to realize that the future of wildlife in Minnesota depends on the attitude of the farmer who feeds it. And right now, friends, that attitude is anything but pleasant.

What Next, MCLU?

Minnesota Civil Liberties union (MCLU) is challenging the constitutionality of the provision which restricts elective office to persons over 21 years of age.

The case involves David J. Meyers, 19-year-old college student, who was a write-in candidate for court commissioner in Nobles county and received 275 votes as the only candidate. The county auditor refused to certify Meyers for the office on the basis that the constitution states he must be 21 years of age.

The MCLU suit contends that the age requirement discriminates against citizens 18, 19 and 20 years of age by denying them the right of all other voters to hold elective office.

MCLU further contends that to deny the voters the right to vote for Meyers violates the United States constitution which provides: "The right of citizens of the United States who are 18 years of age or older, to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of age."

We believe the MCLU is charging across pretty shaky ground, and that its contentions won't get the time of day in district court. Not only is the constitutional provision a good one, it was determined in proper fashion and duly enacted.

The civil liberties union may just as well carry its challenge into another area—a geographic one. How about denying voters the right to vote for Meyers because they live outside Nobles county? Doesn't that make just about as much sense as the situation in question?

Frustrated Agriculture

Following editorial is from the "Marketer" publication:

Agriculture is frustrated. For the first time in years, American agriculture has found a real export market for our huge supplies of grains. We have realized these export markets are a necessity for farmers to be able to receive a reasonable return for their grain. We have the supply. We have the grain on the coasts. We have the buyers. Now to add to the confusion, the nation's most recent addition to the list of self-appointed economic experts, the Longshoremen, refuse to load the grain onto foreign ships for export, "in fear of higher prices."

Over the past ten years, did the American farmer quit buying farm machinery for "fear of higher prices" when labor unions struck the steel industry? When labor received a wage increase, did agriculture refuse to buy American-made products? How many Japanese tractors do you see on U.S. farms today?

When labor bargained for less hours and lower output, did the American farmer also reduce his productivity? Do American consumers think that lowered labor output and higher labor wages are not eventually passed on to consumer in the form of higher retail prices?

It almost appears that the consuming public and some segments of our government are nearly obsessed with the mania of blaming inflation on agriculture. The American farmer, frustrated as he is, may have the feeling that he stands helpless with no one to listen to his plea. What's more, he may think that nobody really cares!

America—wake up! Our strength for today and our hope for tomorrow is not merely in our ability to withdraw into our isolated borders and selfishly consume, but in this nation's tremendous capacity to produce and market efficiently!

Borrowed Nonsense

Little kid was talking in church and a little girl told him to keep quiet or the two men in the back would come and quiet him.

"Who are they?" he asked. "The hushers," she replied.

"I'm really glad you could come," said small Jimmy to a guest. "Now Dad can do the trick he said he'd do."

"And what might that be?" asked the lady sweetly.

"Well," said Jimmy, "he said that if you came he'd climb the wall."

The big-city governments of the U.S. are overextended and overmanned. They need to skake up and simplify the complex structures they have developed through the years. They desperately need to improve productivity. They need to end once and for all the idea that a city is run primarily for the benefit of its employees.

Red plastic Junior Fire Marshal helmets are a feature of Fire Prevention Week in many communities, although this three-year-old photographed by the Monroeville, Pa., Times Express showed a moment of indecision about hers. The Junior Fire Marshal program seeks to teach small children basic fire safety. Helmets are awarded youngsters who complete a home safety check.

When it comes to announcing the weekly Minnesota State High School League football computer ratings, we find ourselves in a somewhat awkward position at the Times because our publishing dates do not correspond with the release dates of the MSHSL polls.

The computer polls, used to determine the top four teams in each of the five classes who will qualify for state playoff berths, are brought up to date each week. Unfortunately, the weekly releases arrive at the Times on Thursday—too late, of course, for Wednesday's paper and completely outdated by Monday's edition since a full weekend of ball games has already been completed.

Despite the deadline difficulties, we nevertheless use the MSHSL material, rearranging a few words to make it clearly understood that games have been played since the figures were published. In spite of the time lapse, the ratings published in the Times still give readers a good indication of how the playoff position battles are going.

Three Northwest Conference teams were among the top eight schools in the Class A portion of the latest MSHSL grid poll (remember now, the poll was announced prior to the October 3-4 weekend results).

Bemidji was tied for fifth in the Class A standings with 116 computer points. Thief River Falls and Crookston shared eighth place with Mora with 115 points. St. Thomas Academy was the Class A leader with 130 points, followed by Pipestone with 125, Hibbing 120 and Hutchinson 118. Bemidji shared fifth place with Albany and Mound.

The computer poll scoring system awards 100 points for each win against a team in the same or higher classification. Fifty points are awarded for a tie. In addition, 10 bonus points are earned for every win that a defeated opponent has accumulated, or five bonus points for every tie a defeated opponent has on its record. Total points are then divided by the number of games played.

It was interesting to note that going into Friday night's game against Bemidji, Thief River Falls was the only team among the 100 rated schools throughout the five classes that had more than one loss. The Prowlers were 2-2 at the time of the poll. There were 56 unbeaten teams in the polls and 43 teams with one loss. There were, in fact, five unbeaten teams who did not even rank among the top 20 schools in Class C.

Thief River Falls losses to Class AA size Grand Forks Red River and St. Cloud Apollo is why the Prowlers were still among the Class A leaders. A loss to a larger-size school is not counted toward a smaller school's record. Thus, the Prowlers were actually 2-0 in the eyes of the computer.

Class AA members include schools with 950 or more students in grades 10-12. Class A includes schools numbering 400-949 students, Class B is 200-399 and Class C is 199 and under. There is also a nine-man class. There are 78 teams competing on the Class AA level, 100 in Class A, 113 in Class B, 156 in Class C and 65 nine-man teams.

Thief River Falls flirted for playoff possibilities for awhile. However, Friday night's setback at the hands of Bemidji erased whatever state playoff dreams floated in the Prowler heads. As it was, it would have been extremely difficult if not downright impossible to make the playoff field because of the loss of possible points in the Red River and Apollo games and the open date on the Prowler schedule.

Lakers Enjoy Big Win

Detroit Lakes, an opponent Thief River Falls manhandled here 33-14 back on September 5, stunned highly regarded Little Falls 29-22 last week, a victory termed "probably the biggest win I've ever had as a head coach," by the Lakers' Marv Kostelecky.

The Lakers defeated the previously unbeaten Flyers by stopping Little Falls from scoring after the Flyers picked up a first down at the Detroit Lakes two-yard with 25 seconds remaining in the game.

Members of the Detroit Lakes coaching staff ran seven 100-yard dashes at the start of practice Monday after saying they would run a 100-yard dash for every point in the spread if the Lakers beat the Flyers.

Key NWAC Conference Game

Bemidji Spoils TRF Homecoming By 21-6

Bemidji inched closer to its second straight undisputed Northwest Conference football title Friday as the aggressive Lumberjacks put a damper on Lincoln high school homecoming activities with a 21-6 decision over Thief River Falls on the Prowler athletic field.

The undefeated Lumberjacks combined a powerful offensive ground game with a smothering defensive effort to stretch their season record to 6-0 and increase their Northwest Conference mark to 3-0. Bemidji needs only a win over Crookston in two weeks to wrap up another NWAC crown and earn a repeat post-season conference playoff game appearance against the West Central Conference winner.

Thief River Falls, meanwhile, slipped to 2-3 for the year while losing its conference opener. The Prowlers play an NWAC game at Fergus Falls this week.

The charged-up Prowlers scored first Friday when backfield star Bryan Olson burned the Lumberjacks with a startling 76-yard touchdown run 4:53 into the first quarter.

Thief River Falls got its hands on the ball for the first time after forcing a Bemidji punt and promptly went to work. Quarterback Jeff Lindquist, a surprise starter after suffering a severe ankle sprain in practice Wednesday, rushed for seven yards on the first Prowler play from scrimmage. Olson followed with a two-yard gain to set up a third-and-one call from the Prowler 24. Olson then stunned the Bemidji defense by charging through the middle of the line on a simple dive play that went for a remarkable 76-yard touchdown romp. The Prowler fullback was touched only twice as he sprinted unmolested downfield. The extra point kick was wide to the right.

Bemidji came right back and matched the Prowler score with an impressive 55-yard touchdown march after an electrifying 32-yard kickoff return by Dan Dow who weaved his way through the onrushing Thief River Falls defense and nearly broke the return for a touchdown.

A 10-yard pass completion at the end of a scramble from quarterback Jeff Eidsmoe to wide receiver Jim Grimm started the Bemidji drive. The rest of the march featured dive plays by the hard-running Bemidji backs until the strong-armed Eidsmoe passed 11 yards for a first down to starry end Jack Schwartz who made a diving catch at the Thief River Falls 11 yard line.

Bemidji fullback Lee Hanson scored on the next play with a spinning run through the middle. His second effort made it a 6-6 ball game with 1:27 left in the first quarter. The game remained tied when the Prowlers' Matt Overby broke through to block the extra point kick by Gary Hazelton, snapping a string of 17 straight conversion kicks for the Bemidji kicker.

The Lumberjacks took a 13-6 lead into halftime with an awesome second quarter touchdown march that covered 51 yards in nine plays after Bemidji stopped a Prowler fourth down gamble near midfield. Lindquist wasn't able to pick up a needed half-yard for the first down on the play, giving the Lumberjacks possession at their own 49 with 9:07 remaining.

Schwartz came up with another eye-opening diving catch for a 12-yard gain and a first down at the Prowler 39 to get the drive started. Dow ripped off 15 yards around left end for another first down and Hanson carried the ball four straight times to the three to set up a short touchdown run by Marty with 5:31 left. Marty muscled his way through the middle, just getting the nose of the ball into the end zone on a third down play. Hazelton made the kick.

Thief River Falls, outplayed by an obvious margin nevertheless kept the Lumberjacks off the scoreboard and made a real game out of it until a crucial fourth quarter error.

A short punt by Schwartz presented Thief River Falls with good field position at the Prowler 40 with 8:40 remaining in the game. Runs by Jay Kverno and Olson gave the Prowlers a first down at midfield and appeared to supply the spark that might lead to a tying touchdown. However, a strong individual effort by Kverno for 10 yards and another apparent first down met with sudden disaster when the ball popped free as the Prowler junior tried to get additional yardage on second effort. Marty recovered the ball at the Bemidji 34 with 7:27 left.

Four plays later Bemidji had an insurance touchdown thanks to the individual brilliance of Hanson whose uncanny open-field running left many a Prowler in his wake. Hanson ripped off a nifty 36-yard run to the Prowler 21 and then two plays later scored from 17 yards out. On both occasions he was stopped cold, only to bounce off a would-be tackler and continue downfield. Eidsmoe passed to Jim Grimm who made a finger-tip catch of the ball for the two-point conversion for a 21-6 score with 5:44 remaining.

Bemidji coach Ray Kavanagh indicated equal satisfaction with his team's offensive and defensive play. "We ran the ball as well as we have all year," he said. "Defensively we played well. But, it would have helped (Thief River Falls) if they could throw the ball. We weren't concerned about the pass; we just played for the run."

Kavanagh did have praise for the Prowlers. "They're one of the toughest teams we've played and they are the hardest hitting team we've faced."

BEMIDJI DEFENSIVE back Jack Schwartz leaped in front of Thief River Falls end Bob Forberg to intercept a second quarter Prowler pass during Friday night's Northwest Conference football game in Thief River Falls. Bemidji recovered from an early 6-0 deficit to beat Thief River Falls 21-6.

Bemidji and Crookston remained unbeaten in Northwest Conference football action Friday, setting the stage for a crucial Lumberjack-Pirate meeting in two weeks.

Bemidji defeated Thief River Falls 21-6 while Crookston blanked East Grand Forks 22-0 in Northwest Conference play Friday. Fergus Falls, the fifth NWAC member, dropped a one-sided 41-7 nonconference decision to St. Cloud Tech.

Bemidji 21, TRF 6

Lee Hanson scored two touchdowns and rushed for 134 yards to spark Bemidji past Thief River Falls 21-6.

Hanson scored on runs of six and 17 yards in the first and fourth quarters, respectively, as the Lumberjacks stretched their season record to 6-0. Bemidji is 3-0 in Northwest Conference play. Thief River Falls fell to 2-3 for the year and 0-1 in league play.

BEMIDJI RECEIVER Jim Grimm stretched to haul in a finger-tip catch to complete a successful two-point conversion pass from quarterback Jeff Eidsmoe during the fourth quarter of Friday night's Thief River Falls-Bemidji Northwest Conference football game played on the Prowler athletic field. Mike Wigness defended on the play for the Prowlers. Bemidji won the game 21-6 to stretch the Lumberjack season record to 6-0. Thief River Falls fell to 2-3.

Cards Remain Undefeated With 27-0 Win At Mentor

Tom Martell rushed for 154 yards and scored two touchdowns Friday to spark Plummer past Mentor 27-0 in a North Tri County Conference football game at Mentor.

The win was the sixth straight for the Cardinals who maintained their lofty position atop the North Division standings in the North Tri County Conference.

Plummer held only an 8-0 lead through three quarters before adding three fourth quarter touchdowns. But the Cardinal defense effectively checked the Mentor offense as Plummer racked up its third straight shutout and fourth overall.

Martell scored the only touchdown in the first half when he went in from five yards out. Quarterback Jerry Fisher passed to Martin Hess for the conversion points.

Plummer finally broke the game open in the fourth quarter when Martell bounced off several tacklers and scored on an eye-opening 20-yard run to hike the Cardinal lead to 14-0.

John Greenwald made it 20-0 when he scored from a yard out after gaining 39 yards on the previous play before being hauled down at the one.

Carl Torkelson intercepted a pass and returned it 23 yards for a touchdown and Mark Genereux place kicked the extra point for the final scoring.

Martell's 154 rushing yards came on 21 attempts for a sparkling 7.3 yard average. Greenwald added 86 yards on 16 tries as the Cardinals totaled 242 yards on the ground. Fisher completed four of 19 pass attempts for an additional 20 yards.

Plummer coach Gary Brantl cited the offensive work of Martell and Greenwald and the defensive play of Martell, Todd Gustafson, Torkelson and Dan Willett. Gustafson and Martell were both credited with eight unassisted tackles and Torkleson had seven.

"I was pleased with our defensive play," said Brantl. "Offensively we sputtered, but we finally played well on offense in the fourth quarter."

Plummer's 6-0 record will be tested Friday when the Cardinals and McIntosh clash in an 8 p.m. game at Plummer. The Cardinals and Scots are both unbeaten and lead their respective North and South division standings in the North Tri County Conference.

Nordics Shutout Argyle Club 14-0

Marshall County Central high school enjoyed a successful 1975 homecoming Saturday as the Nordics blanked Argyle 14-0 in a Top of the State Conference football game at Newfolden.

Casey Riske and Jeff Sorenson scored touchdowns in the second and fourth quarters, respectively, to complement a strong Nordics defensive show.

Hard-hitting Newfolden linebacker Rick Waterworth recovered an Argyle fumble at the Eagle 15 yard line to set up the game's first touchdown.

On the first offensive play from scrimmage after the fumble recovery, Riske sprinted around the right side on a counter play to put the Nordics on the scoreboard with 3:59 remaining in the first half. Duane Floberg broke through the middle for the conversion points.

Newfolden quarterback Jeff Sorenson added an insurance touchdown at the start of the fourth quarter when he broke loose for a 40-yard touchdown romp on a quarterback draw on a fourth down play. Sorenson set up the touchdown by intercepting an Argyle pass moments earlier.

Coach Sam Gebhart's Nordics, now 2-4 for the year, will play a 7 p.m. Top of the State Conference game at Karlstad Saturday.

Area Football Teams Ranked In Playoff Polls

New leaders in two classes emerged among the five classes in the second weekly ratings of Minnesota high school football teams as play went into the second portion of the 1975 campaign for the state's 512 teams.

First rating leaders Minneapolis Roosevelt in Class AA, Blooming Prairie in Class C and Lake Benton in Nine-man remained atop their respective divisions.

The top four teams in each division qualify for the Minnesota State High School League-sponsored state playoffs in November.

Minneapolis Roosevelt, with 130 computer points, was rated six points better than second ranked Richfield. Fridley was in third place with Duluth Denfeld, Edina West and Osseo tied for fourth place. All teams had perfect 5-0 records.

St. Thomas Academy replaced Rochester Lourdes as the top squad in Class A. St. Thomas beat Rochester Lourdes 42-6 last week to move up from second to the top position. Pipestone is second, Hibbing third and Hutchinson fourth. All teams were unbeaten.

Gaylord, Granite Falls, Lakefield and Onamia all moved to the top of Class B with identical 120 power points.

Blooming Prairie topped the Class C standings with 128 points. McIntosh was a close second with 126 points. Esko, Hector, LeRoy-Ostrander and Sebeka all had 120 points.

Lake Benton was the nine-man leader with 133-plus points, followed by Cherry, Audubon and Welcome.

Other northwestern Minnesota team ranked among the top 20 teams in the various classes heading into the weekend schedule included Bemidji, tied for fifth place in Class A; Crookston and Thief River Falls, tied for eighth place in Class A; Fertile-Beltrami, 11th in Class B; Mahnomen, 16th in Class B; Karlstad, seventh in Class C; and Plummer, tied for ninth in Class C.

Grygla Stops Erskine 18-6 For Homecoming Victory

Grygla celebrated 1975 homecoming in winning fashion Friday as the Eagles beat Erskine 18-6 in a North Tri County Conference football game.

Three different ball players scored touchdowns as Grygla improved its record to 2-4. The Eagles will host Clearbrook Friday at 1:30 p.m. in another North Tri County game.

A pair of first half Erskine fumbles were turned into touchdowns by the opportunistic Grygla offence.

Grygla recovered an Erskine fumble at the Comet 19-yard line early in the first quarter and turned it into a 6-0 lead when quarterback Gary Satre hit receiver Jeff Stanley with a 19-yard scoring pass on third down.

The Eagles recovered another Erskine fumble late in the first quarter, this time pouncing on the loose ball at the Comet 30. Tom Olson promptly ripped off a 20-yard run to the Erskine one-yard line and Gordy Moe bulled through the middle on the next play for a 12-0 ball game.

Erskine sliced the difference to 12-6 in the third quarter when Mike Mattison scored on a three-yard run off left tackle.

However, Grygla wrapped up the decision when Dale Warne went around end to score from four yards out in the fourth quarter.

The teams matched rushing figures for the game, 143-141 for Grygla, but the Eagles racked up 96 yards through the air as Satre completed 10 of 19 attempts in a strong showing. Erskine managed to complete only one of 10 pass attempts for eight yards. Olson was credited with 166 yards total offense for the game.

Grygla finished with a 12-8 first down advantage and Erskine topped the penalty yardage charts 45-40. Erskine was also troubled by fumbles, losing four bobbles. Grygla lost one fumble.

Grygla coach Jerry Lindstrom praised the defensive play of Olson and Arlo Hagen. Olson was credited with 29 points in the Eagles' defensive point scoring scheme and recovered two fumbles. Hagen totaled 21 defensive points and was credited with a fumble recovery. Offensively, Lindstrom cited the running of Olson and the passing of Satre.

"The fumbles gave us good field position," said Lindstrom. "And we had some fine blocking in the offensive line to give Satre time to pass."

TRF 3, EGF 2

Thief River Falls completed its Bicentennial meet sweep with a 3-2 decision over East Grand Forks.

Marty Minor supplied the Prowlers with a 6-1, 6-1 win over Mary Kelly in number one singles.

Lincoln Freshmen Lose To Roseau 6-0 In Overtime

The loss reversed a 22-14 Thief River Falls decision over Roseau a week earlier and left the Lincoln freshmen with a 3-3 season record.

Thief River Falls will be back in action tomorrow (Tuesday) when Middle River visits the Prowler athletic field for a 7 p.m. game.

Burslie, McIntosh Top Huskies 36-0

Chad Burslie rushed for 259 yards and scored 24 points to carry powerful McIntosh to a 36-0 North Tri County Conference win over Goodridge Friday in a high school football game played at Goodridge.

The undefeated Scots led 8-0 at the end of the first quarter on a 48-yard run by Burslie, followed by his own two-point conversion.

McIntosh made it 22-0 by halftime. Burslie scored on a three yard run that was followed by a 37-yard scoring jaunt by younger brother Kerry. Chad added the conversion points.

After a scoreless third quarter, McIntosh tacked on a pair of fourth quarter touchdowns. Paul Keicher scored on a six-yard run and Burslie added a 15-yard scoring run. Burslie also scored a two-point conversion after Keicher's touchdown.

Despite the score, Goodridge coach Ken Ewertz was excited about his team's play against the heavily favored Scots. "We played a fantastic game," said Ewertz. "It was a really great team effort, both offensively and defensively, considering the ball club we were playing. The kids never gave up. We played a heck of a third quarter."

Thanks largely to Burslie, McIntosh totaled 428 yards on offense, with the entire total coming on the ground. The Scots tried to pass just three times, having two passes picked off while another fell incomplete.

Goodridge totaled 164 yards on offense, including 113 yards rushing and 51 more through the air as Rick Easthouse completed eight of 21 pass attempts.

McIntosh was hampered by 115 yards worth of penalties. Goodridge was penalized for 20 yards. McIntosh ran up 20 first downs while Goodridge picked up two McIntosh fumbles.

Goodridge, still looking for its first win of the year, will host Middle River in a 7:30 p.m. North Tri County Conference game Friday.

BUILDING A MESSAGE to expectant parents about pre-natal classes to begin November 4 at Northwestern hospital services is Linnea Dimich, one and one-half year old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Tom Dimich of Thief River Falls. Dr. and Mrs. Dimich began attending the pre-natal classes held in the spring of 1974 and Linnea was born during the period the classes were in session. Expectant parents interested in enrolling in the five-session course, offered free of charge, are urged to contact instructors Mrs. Vern Isaacson (681-5463) or Mrs. Wayne Martin (681-7432).

Expectant Parent Classes To Start

Five sessions of pre-natal classes for expectant parents are scheduled to begin November 4 at Northwestern hospital services in Thief River Falls, according to Mrs. Vern Isaacson and Mrs. Wayne Martin, instructors. The classes will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. on five consecutive Tuesdays. There is no charge for attendance.

Any couple expecting a baby, whether it is the first child or not, and who has not attended a prenatal course before, will find the classes helpful, the instructors said. Many couples with one or two children attend the classes when they are held each spring and fall.

Next pre-natal classes will not be held until March, the instructors noted.

New to the program this session will be explanation of the new fetal monitor being used in the obstetrics department during labor; discussion of breast feeding by Mrs. Sandra Holmstrom of the LaLeche league; and hints on relaxation during labor by Dr. Steve Levinson of the hospital's day-night unit staff. Relaxation can be a most important key for a mother having discomfort during labor.

Agenda for the program includes the following:

Session One—Reproduction and anatomy, signs and symptoms of pregnancy and fetal development.

Session Two—Nutrition, exercises presented by Mrs. Bonnie Ness, of the physical therapy department of the hospital, and abdominal breathing for labor.

Session Three—Labor and delivery, tour of the OB department;

Session Four—Post partum or care after delivery and infant care;

Session Five—Infant nutrition, family planning, review of medical expenses by Norman Peterson, hospital administrator. Certificates of completion and gifts will be presented at the last session.

Mrs. Isaacson and Mrs. Martin are registered nurses in the OB department.

TRF Bicentennial Events Books Ready For Public

Copies of Thief River Falls' Bicentennial events book are ready for distribution. The books, which are free to the public, are available at First Northwestern state bank, Northern state bank, First Federal savings and loan association, the chamber of commerce office, and the Community development office, located in the basement of the city auditorium.

Thief River Falls Bicentennial events book lists locally sponsored events planned to celebrate our country's 200th birthday. Besides listing events, the book contains articles and information of historical interest.

Thief River residents can also provide additional support to the local Bicentennial celebration by purchasing "Sustaining Memberships" in the Bicentennial commission. These memberships sell for $1 and are available at the Community development office.

Office Filings End Tues. With Four Races Set

Two late filings recorded shortly before the 5 p.m. Tuesday deadline brought to four the number of competitive races in Thief River Falls city elections November 4.

On Monday Milan Borsheim filed for first ward alderman against incumbent Roger Worth. Clayton Restad filed Tuesday for alderman at large, opposing incumbent Arnold Narverud.

Gary (Doc) Carlson has filed in opposition to his brother Robert for mayor and Joyce O. Peterson will run against incumbent Ambrose Wysoski in the third ward. Milton Reierson, fifth ward alderman, is unopposed. The office of mayor is a two-year term and alderman is a four-year position.

Open House At Newfolden Post Office Slated

Open house will be held at the Newfolden post office Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p.m., according to Harvey E. Stokke, postmaster. Cake, coffee and nectar will be served. Free door prizes will be given for men, women and students and everyone is cordially invited.

The new building is leased by the United States postal service from Leisure Development, Inc., of Marshall. Blueprints, contracting orders, etc., were handled by the area real estate and building office in St. Paul.

Building construction was done by Skoglund Construction company of Holt.

"A fine job was done on the planning and construction of this building and this open house will give the public a chance to inspect," postmaster Stokke said. "We will be on hand to answer any questions you may have."

Mrs. Frances Cook, a former employee of the Newfolden post office will act as hostess for the day.

National Moto-Cross Winner

Daughter Of Former Residents Is Champ

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Teri Kezar is 18 years old, weighs 110 pounds, plays tennis three times a week, runs three to five miles a day five days a week and is women's national moto-cross champion. She won the national motorcycle racing title July 4 and 5 at Carlsbad, Calif.

Diminutive Teri, who looks like she would be more at home on an old Shetland pony than a powerful racing motorcycle, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. (Teck) Kezar of Phoenix, Ariz. Teck is formerly from the Middle River and Thief River Falls area and his wife is the former Eldora Hoefer, daughter of the Andrew Hoefers of rural Thief River Falls. Teck's mother, Mrs. Amanda Kezar, lives at the Skylite apartments, 415 Arnold av. S.

The Kezar family returns to visit in the area about once a year and currently is staying at the Hoefer farm about eight miles southwest of Thief River Falls. A main topic of conversation among local friends and relatives this year has been Teri's national championship.

To win the national crown, all Teri had to do was beat about 35 of the top women professional motorcycle riders in the country at six hours of racing in six different races over a two-day span.

That's all.

Her win earned $1,500 in prize money, a "whole van full" of accessories, a trip to Acapulco, Mexico, a 125cc Yamaha racing motorcycle, half a dozen trophies and some national recognition in a sport which she intends to pursue with renewed vigor.

The national women's championships were something new for Teri who has been MAGAZINES containing articles about her national championship moto-cross racing are reviewed by Teri Kezar of Phoenix, Ariz., during a visit at the farm of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hoefer of rural Thief River Falls. Teri's mother is the former Eldora Hoefer and her father is E.R. (Teck) Kezar, also formerly of this area. Teri has added some personal touches to the van she uses for going to races—like an ultra liberal use of colorful carpeting.

FFA Grain Drive Set In TRF Area October 16, 17

About 40 students in the Thief River Falls chapter of the Future Farmers of America will participate in a grain drive for Camp Courage to be held in the area October 16 and 17.

The FFA members will stop at the farms to collect grain donations which will be sold to a local elevator. Trucks will be furnished and driven by FFA members.

Grain drives are designed to help sponsor handicapped rural youths at Camp Courage. The center, open to both handicapped adults and children, is located 50 miles northwest of the Twin Cities between Maple Lake and Anandale.

Board Will Seek Arbitration On Teacher Contract

Following a review of negotiation, mediation and arbitration activity Monday evening, the Thief River Falls board of education approved requesting the state mediator to declare an impasse in mediation with the district's teachers' council and to certify items for binding arbitration.

Contacted by the Times Tuesday, chairman Don Hejlik of the teachers' council said that the council will meet Thursday at 4 p.m. to discuss steps to be taken next. He indicated that the mediation session held on October 1 had failed to produce any significant movement toward settlement. More than 20 items, including all financial items, remain unsettled between the board and teachers.

Monday evening the board reviewed its position concerning the release of teachers for negotiation, mediation and arbitration meetings held during working hours. A decision was reached by the board that there will be no school district pay for personnel absent during normal working hours for these pur-

Intruder Given Eviction From Local Residence

Mrs. Myrtle Thune of 523 Tindolph av. S. had to call a neighbor this morning to forcibly remove an intruder which broke into her home.

In response to the summons, neighbor Paul Puppe captured a confused ruffed grouse which had crashed through a south window of the Thune residence and, apparently none the worse for the experience, was doing solo flights around the Thune living room.

Mrs. Thune said the effect of the forced entry was quite startling, although the incidence of grouse crashing into and through windows during the fall is not at all uncommon in this area.

Student Housing Study Shows A Need For Rooms

Student housing feasibility study prepared cooperatively by the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute and Northland community college was released this morning at a meeting held at the college.

Present to discuss student housing needs with interested persons were Dr. William Corliss, superintendent of schools; Richard Berry, associate director of the area vocational-technical institute; and Dr. Theodore (Alex) Easton, president of Northland community college; Arnt Aune, director of the AVTI; and Bill Kottke, dean of instruction at Northland.

The feasibility study was prepared to indicate the need for additional student housing in the community if the two schools are to have continued enrollment growth. Both the college and AVTI have seen students go elsewhere because they could not obtain suitable housing locally.

The study includes responses to surveys taken of students attending the two school and information on student housing obtained by Berry and Ken Wiebolt, Northland dean of students, on visits to colleges with student group housing on campus.

According to administrators of the two schools, interest has been expressed in construction of student housing and the report was prepared to make comprehensive information available to anyone interested in such a project.

Both Northland and the AVTI had substantial enrollment increases this fall and a number of new programs are being planned for addition to the AVTI curriculum pending construction of building additions in the near future.

City Settles Wages With Union Tuesday

Terms of the long-awaited 1975-76 wage settlement between city teamster's union employees and Thief River Falls were finally approved at a special meeting of the city council Tuesday night in the city auditorium council chambers. Contract negotiations had begun exactly one year ago.

The total estimated package cost increase over the two years is $104,160. It covers 56 union employees, but no CETA employees. The package was unanimously approved by the aldermen present. Mayor Robert Carlson and alderman Roger Worth, chairman of the labor negotiating committee, were absent.

A breakdown of the settlement indicates the employees will receive a 40 cents per hour raise Jan. 1, 1975 (retroactive), an additional 10 cents per hour July 1, 1975 (retroactive) and a 40 cents per hour hike Jan. 1, 1976. This represents an estimated increase in 1975 of 11.7 per cent and in 1976 of 9.8 per cent.

This wage scale is exactly the same as the 40-10-40 proposal that was presented to the council August 26, and was rejected for being too costly. However, the current package omits the equity adjustments for some employees that were discussed at that time. Wage schedules for all new employees were included in the contract, with schedules for all employees hired or placed on wage schedules prior to Jan. 1, 1975 continuing.

Also passed by the council Tuesday night was the special assessment roll for 1974 sewer and water extensions project in the southeatern area of the city. At a hearing during a council meeting September 23, R. D. Ohlhauser, who owns property on lot 12 north of the A & W drive-in, argued that his assessment was inequitable to the benefits he would receive.

Through correspondence with Robert Severson, Ohlhauser's attorney, the city has discussed a possible agreement with Ohlhauser whereby a portion of his property may be traded to the city for use as a park or children's playground in exchange for the $3,809 special assessment he will be charged. Discussion on this possibility will continue. As of now the assessment roll is unchanged from the form in which it was originally proposed.

Two resolutions were passed regarding the Northwestern hospital medical office building addition. The council approved payment of $57,780 to Lee Plumbing & Heating of Thief River Falls for construction completed to date, and passed a resolution providing for the issuance of and determining the form and details of the $2,800,000 general obligation temporary hospital bonds.

Board To Cooperate On Beet Plant Site

Pennington county board of commissioners, in a meeting Tuesday in the county courthouse, adopted a resolution to cooperate with Red Lake county in an attempt to secure a sugar beet plant site in this locality, which is considered the north end of a possible sugar beet plant area.

The agreement stipulates that the preferred site of the proposed plant would be on the county line, but regardless of the actual site in either county, the two boards would cooperate. It was further stipulated that Pennington county would share the cost of an access road if such a road would be situated on the county line.

In adopting the agreement, the board followed the lead of the Red Lake county commissioners, who had previously passed a similar resolution.

In other matters, the board accepted a bid of $12,859.95 from Traffic Marking Services of Buffalo (the lowest of two bidders), for road marking and striping of all county roads. The county will finance the marking operation, with costs to be recovered later from the federal government.

At the request of Norman P. Peterson, executive vice president of Northwestern hospital, the board agreed to enter a co-op purchasing agreement with the state to enable the purchase of radio equipment for the hospital. Cost of the equipment, which will be used to standardize ambulance communications, will be shared equally by the state and the hospital.

Robert Kosel was appointed to fill a vacancy left by Kenneth Onken on the Agassiz health council.

Senior Meals Program Given Mutual Approval

Northwestern hospital board of trustees approved an agreement with the Tri-Valley Opportunity council recently to provide a senior meals and activity program at the hospital.

Tentatively scheduled to begin this week, the program has been deferred to early November because of inaccessability to the building due to new construction.

Cynthia Sackett-C. Riska Vows Spoken At Winona

Miss Cynthia Kay Sackett was united in marriage to Clemens Riska, Jr., on September 27, at 3 p.m., at the Valley Baptist church in Winona with Rev. William Williamson of Rochester officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Charles Sackett of Winona and formerly of the Viking community. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Clemens Riska, Sr., also of Winona.

At the piano was Mrs. Duane Chader, a cousin of the bride. She played a medley of hymns prior to the service. For the processional, she played Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus." The recessional was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," from "A Midsummer Nights' Dream." Mrs. Chader also accompanied the bride's father as he sang "Savior Like A Shepherd Lead Them," prior to the exchanging of the vows.

Two fall arrangements of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and ivory gladioli graced the chancel.

The bride was excorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length gown of ivory lace over satin, styled in empire fashion with long sleeves and a high neckline. Completing her ensemble was a wide-brimmed, ivory colored hat with long ribbon streamers. Her only jewelry was a gold chain choker with pearls, a gift from the groom. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and babies' breath.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Riska of Winona, brother and sister-in-law of the groom. Mrs. Riska was attired in a floor-length gown of a floral print, complemented by a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

The bride's brother, Alan Sackett, served as usher. A reception followed at the bride's parental home where a buffet supper was served. Guests were seated at tables centered with yellow candles surrounded by autumn floral rings. Centering the serving table was a two-tiered wedding cake, decorated with yellow roses and topped with a wedding bell ornament.

Mrs. Orville Peters of this city, aunt of the bride, and Miss Ruth Riska, sister of the groom, cut and served the cake. Alan Sackett served the punch and Mrs. Duane Chader registered the guests. The gifts were opened by the bride and groom prior to leaving on their brief wedding trip.

Guests attending the ceremony and reception were from Indiana, Winona, Mankato, Rochester, Viking and Thief River Falls. Among them were Mrs. Alton Sackett of Viking, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Stella Lubinski of Winona, grandmother of the groom, who were the honor guests.

The couple is now at home at 460 High Forest, Winona.

Phyllis J. Peterson And Ernest Fitzlaff Wed Here

Miss Phyllis Joan Peterson of St. Paul and formerly of Thief River Falls, and Ernest D. Fitzlaff of Minneapolis exchanged marriage vows recently at an afternoon ceremony at the Assemblies of God tabernacle in this city.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Peterson of Thief River Falls and the late Orvin Peterson. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. John Schreiber of Jackson.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Rev. Kenneth Swenson of St. Paul. Marlene Waller of Minneapolis, fiance of the bride's brother, served as organist. She played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied Alan Tims of Litchfield, a friend of the couple, as he sang, "Love Theme," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Whither Thou Goest."

Forming the background for the ceremony were lighted candelabra graced with arrangements of pink, yellow, blue and white daisies, greens and multi-colored satin bows.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her brother, Ordean Peterson of St. Louis Park, and given in marriage by her mother, was attired in a floor-length, A-line gown of sheer white organza over taffeta. Cluny lace trimmed the empire bodice styled with a V-neckline and long, sheer, fitted sleeves, trimmed with matching lace. Her full A-line skirt swept back into an attached chapel-length train featuring tiers of Cluny lace. A coordinating Camelot headpiece, studded with pearls, held her veil of double bridal illusion, edged with Cluny lace. She carried a bride's Bible, topped with yellow roses and white daisies. Her only jewelry was a gold chain necklace with miniature pearls, a gift from the groom.

Attending the bride were her sisters: Miss Geri Peterson of Minneapolis, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Ruby Ohnstad of Bemidji and Mrs. Darlene Huston of Plentywood, Mont., as bridesmatrons. They wore identical gowns of sheer dotted Swiss over polyester crepe in pastel green, yellow and blue, respectively. The gowns, featuring a wide ruffle around the hemline, were fashioned with sleeveless, empire bodices with scooped necklines, topped by long-sleeved jackets. To complement their attire, they wore hats with satin ribbon streamers to match their gowns and carried bouquets of daisies in pink, yellow, blue, green and white with babies' breath and multi-colored bows. Their necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Renee Houston of Plentywood, Mont., a niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her gown of lilac dotted Swiss was styled with a gathered bodice with high neckline and short puffy sleeves, trimmed with white lace and lilac ribbon. She wore a white hat with lilac satin streamers and carried a basket of multi-colored daisies and babies' breath.

Personal attendant was Elna Taggart of St. Paul, a friend.

Carrying the rings was Brent Helland of Jackson, a friend of the couple.

Best man was Tom Fitzlaff of Austin, a cousin of the groom. Serving as groomsmen were the groom's brother, Ed Fitzlaff and his cousin, Doug Fitzlaff, both of Jackson. They, together with the ring bearer, wore white tuxedos, black trousers, and ruffled shirts to match the gowns worn by the bride's attendants and flower girl. Their carnation boutonnieres were tinted to match their shirts. The groom wore a white tuxedo and ruffled shirt with black trim, white trousers and a boutonniere fashioned of two yellow roses.

Attired like the attendants were the acolytes, Miss Julie Hallblade of Minneapolis, a cousin of the bride, and Brad Fitzlaff of Jackson, a cousin of the groom. Ushers were Lyle Hagenbeck of Newfolden, cousin of the bride, and Dave Schreiber of Jackson, step-brother of the groom.

The mother of the bride was attired in a mint-green floor-length gown accented by a corsage of white daisies and yellow roses. A similar corsage complemented the peach colored floor-length gown worn by the groom's mother.

Following the ceremony, the bride's mother hosted a reception in the church parlors. Mrs. Joyce Sang of Grand Forks, a cousin of the bride, was at the guest book. Punch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Bear Jacobs of St. Paul, friends of the couple.

Highlighting the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake iced in white and decorated with yellow roses with mint green accents. Between the tall Roman pillars that supported the second tier was a flowing fountain surrounded by a miniature wedding party. A bride and groom ornament topped the cake. Fresh leather leaves surrounded the cake which was cut and served by Mrs. Margaret Rupprecht, a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Grace Hallblade of Minneapolis, aunt of the bride. Aunts of the groom, Mrs. Nelda Fitzlaff and Mrs. Velma Mikelson of Jackson, poured.

Waitresses were Darlis Schreiber of Jackson, step-sister of the groom, Virginia Hagenbeck of St. Paul and Mrs. Sharon Anderson of Arlington, Tex., cousins of the bride, and Mrs. Judy Dupree, a friend. Northland Teachers Defeat District Division Proposal

Proposal of dividing the district into two divisions was defeated at the district meeting of the Northern division of Retired Teachers held in Thief River Falls on Saturday.

The sentiment was that division of the district would be more practical at a later date after more locals have been formed, as the resulting districts would be stronger. It was noted that a new local had been organized recently in Hallock. Representatives of that local were present at the meeting.

Also included on the agenda was election of two Thief River Falls women to the district office. Elected were Ellen Peterson, to fill the office of president, and Bertha Hastad, who will serve as secretary.

Olger Olson reported on the Bicentennial project, "Pride in America." He stated that several manuscripts had been received; and he also announced that any additional manuscripts should be sent to Mrs. Mildred Wik of Thief River Falls.

Special music at the meeting was provided by "The Mothers Three" trio composed of Jan Peterson, Melba Penning and Jan Lindbloom, accompanied by Ida Nordvall. They sang "Autumn Leaves," "Happy Wanderer, "Match Maker," and "I Believe."

The meeting was held at the Redeemer Lutheran church with the Northland Retired Teachers local of Thief River Falls hosting the noon luncheon.

The next meeting of the Northland Retired Teachers will be held November 19.

There are some designs that seem to be heaven-sent because they're the answer to all "what'll-I-wear-over-it" questions. This is one. The pantcoat of "seal" fakery coupled with skirt inserts, under-collar and down-front trim of imitation leather. Metal rings on the "leather" inset belt hold a loose tie belt of the same material. The look that's very new and very now.

Are both length and width vital in good shoe fitting?

When the professional shoe fitter measures your feet, the first things he considers are length and width. When we consider width, we think of the width at the ball of the foot and the width of the heel, or more properly the narrowness of the heel. If the width at the ball of the foot is too narrow, you may develop the common disorder of a fallen metatarsal arch, bunions and callouses - very much the same disorder as from a shoe that is too short. If the width is too wide, you can develop burniing feet and foot rotation.

In a proper fitting shoe the professional shoe fitter can determine the proper width by having you stand and by drawing his thumb and forefinger together across the ball of the foot. The leather should give slightly but should slip easily out of the fingers when they meet. If you can pinch the leather together, the shoe is too wide. If there is no give, the shoe is too narrow. This test must at all times be conducted with the ball of the foot in the proper place, otherwide a misleading conclusion can be obtained.

Linda Pikop-Richard Penning Vows Exchanged At Zion

Miss Linda Marie Pikop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Pikop of Thief River Falls, and Richard Stanton Penning, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Penning, also of this city, exchanged marriage vows on September 6 at 7:30 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church, before an altar graced with candelabras with greens and turquoise ribbons.

Rev. Alexander Stoffel officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with candelabras with greens and turquoise ribbons. At the organ was Mrs. Carl Nordvall, who played Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," for the processional. Soloist was Deborah Penning, a sister of the "One Hand, One Heart," Dunlap's "Wedding Prayer" and Malotte's "Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in a gown of white chiffon over satin styled with a fitted, pleated bodice with a small stand-up collar and long sheer sleeves. Lace trimmed the collar, cuffs and accented the waistline. The bride's ensemble was made by her friends. The gown was made by Mrs. Clayton Bannerman, and her triple-tiered veil, edged with lace in daisy pattern, was made by Julie Komonko. To complete her attire, the bride carried white roses and babies' breath with sprengeri and turquoise bows.

Serving as personal attendant was Eileen Ranta of Minneapolis.

Maid of honor was Nancy Lindberg of this city. Bridesmaids were Wendy Goddard of Grand Forks and Kelly Sue Pikop, a sister of the bride. All wore identical gowns in turquoise, blues and greens, styled with empire waistlines, full, floor-length skirts, and elbow-length sleeves. At the square necklines they wore turquoise necklaces, gifts from the bride. To complement their gowns, they wore white hats with turquoise ribbon streamers and carried white mums and greens tied with turquoise ribbon.

Serving as flower girls were Kristy Sue Thibert, and Rae Ann Bannerman, nieces of the bride. Their gowns, in blues and greens, were fashioned with high waistlines, puffy sleeves and rounded necklines. The rings were carried by Ricky Olson of Fergus Falls, a cousin of the bride. Like the men of the wedding party, he wore a dark green tuxedo with velvet trim, white ruffled shirt and a white carnation boutonniere.

Best man was Jon Markstrom, a friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Lee Barron, a friend, and David Penning, brother of the bride. Serving as ushers were friends of the groom, Jim Barry and Blaine Rugland, both of Thief River Falls.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Pikop was attired in a mint green poly-knit floor-length gown with long chiffon sleeves. Her corsage was composed of three daisies accented with a white ribbon bow. The mother of the groom wore a peach colored, floor-length gown featuring a sleeveless lace bodice. Her daisy corsage was complemented by a peach colored bow.

Honor guest at the ceremony was Mrs. H.A. Penning of Pipestone, grandmother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors for approximately 250 relatives and friends. Serving as host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knutson, uncle and aunt of the bride. Susan Wysoski, a friend of the couple, presided at the guest book as Mary Knutson and Beth Berquist, cousins of the bride, served the punch.

A three-tiered wedding cake, iced in mint green and decorated with white daisies, graced the serving table. On either side of the cake were smaller cakes, decorated to correspond with the center cake. The cakes, baked and decorated by Marilyn Bannerman, sister of the bride, were cut and served by Mrs. David Olson and Mrs. Robert Knutson. Pouring were Mrs. Abby Berquist and Mrs. Gilford Knutson. All are aunts of the bride.

Cousins of the bride, Patty Wienbar, Debby Wienbar and Nancy Knutson served as waitresses. At the gift table were Paula and Carol Penning.

Mr. and Mrs. Penning are now at home at 1210 19½ Street south, Moorhead. The bride and groom are 1973 graduates of Lincoln. The bride is also a 1974 graduate of the Thief River Falls Area Vocational-technical school and is employed in Moorhead by the Clay County Welfare department. The groom is a 1975 graduate of Northland Community college and is attending Moorhead State University, majoring in business administration. Photo, Jim Solsten

Reviewer Says Concert Wasn't All That Good

by Alex Stoffel

This past Sunday afternoon in the Lincoln high school auditorium, a male quartet called "The Revelers" presented the first concert of the association's 1975-76 season. The program was varied, being presented in five sections. The first section consisted of a series of patriotic melodies and included William Billings' "Chester," which nearly became our National Anthem.

The second section was comprised of three Franz Schubert songs which happened to have been written expressly for a male quartet. This was a nice surprise as all too often, arrangers are prone to take Schubert's solo art songs and arrange them for a quartet. They were quite well performed and sensitively done by the quartet, and in the mind of the writer, represented the finest effort of the afternoon.

The third section was a delightful series of authentic American folk songs, well done with vitality and energy. "Drill Ye Tarriers" and "Beaver Creek" were a special treat. It was good to have the chance to hear folk music which is a little more off the beaten path of common programming.

Section four, following the intermission, was a series of "Revelers' Favorites", meaning specifically songs which earlier quartets using the name of The Revelers had sung with a well-favored response on radio programs in the 30's and early 40's.

The final section featured music from the American theatre. Songs from "Gigi" and "Cabaret" were included. The quartet seemed to catch a little spark when they performed the Cohan medley, and the four George M. Cohan songs were very enjoyable.

It is the writer's feeling that sometimes people go to concerts such as this one and leave feeling that it really wasn't all that good and that maybe something they can't quite put their fingers on was missing. Yet because they are not trained musically, they rarely say anything publicly. In this particular case, the judgment may have been justified. Suffice it to say that there were technical lapses which marred the performance, and that the spark and vitality and stage presence which could have carried the day were too infrequent.

Nevertheless, the program of the afternoon was varied and diverse. It is the writer's hope that the members of the concert association found the performance enjoyable.

Autumn Colors May Be Found Throughout State

Most Minnesotans look forward to the colors of autumn with the hope that this year they will have the long anticipated Indian summer to prolong the panorama of blazing colors and provide those last shirtsleeve weekends before the first snow falls.

There are specific areas in the state where hardwoods can be seen at the height of color. For most trees, but particularly red oak, poplar and birch, the period of brightest color may last only a few days. It's important to know exactly when to take a fall foliage trip. The drive should be made when the color is at its fullest.

The department of natural resources provides weekly information to statewide radio stations on the foliage conditions. Reports from state forests are gathered each week on tree color progress. The Minnesota tourist information center at 1-(800)-652-9008 will also make this information available. Twin Cities residents should call 296-5029.

Once the leaves begin to turn, there are numerous areas of the state where one can drive to see a panorama of color. Two specific routes in Pioneerland in southwestern Minnesota follow the Minnesota river. One is from Ortonville to Granite Falls and the other from Fort Ridgely to New Ulm. Brilliant yellows may be found on any part of the Minnesota river valley and its tributaries as their banks are lined with elm, ash and cottonwood.

Viking-Land in northwestern Minnesota has a little of everything. The Red River valley has elm, ash, cottonwood foliage, typical of river valleys. The northern section of the region has generous stands of aspen and birch. A particularly beautiful drive is from Bagley to Itasca state park near Bemidji. Other areas for good color are Maplewood state park near Pelican Rapids and the area between Glenwood and Starbuck.

Just about any drive off main highways in Heartland (north central Minnesota) will provide good viewing where there are several especially colorful areas. One is the short drive from St. Joseph to Collegeville and St. John's university campus. In the same area, but a little south, is the Jacobs Prairie-Cold Spring-Horseshoe Lake area which is maple and birch country. Another recommended drive is the south and west shores of Mille Lacs lake where maples are plentiful.

The North Shore drive in the Arrowhead region is nationally known as one of the most scenic drives in North America. In Autumn, particularly above Two Harbors, aspen and birch provide a rich golden scene. Just inland from the shore on U.S. highway 1 is a colorful combination of red maple and poplar in the Finland area. And there's a small area of maple and birch in the southwest corner of Itasca country. The drive there between Grand Rapids and Hill City shows a panorama of reddish orange and yellows.

The southeastern corner of the state in Hiawathaland already has an established reputation for fall foliage, especially in the Minnesota memorial hardwood state forest which extends from Hastings to the Iowa border. The Forest is primarily oak and hickory but the area immediately along the Mississippi river has elm, ash and cottonwood. Another area of river valley and hardwood forest is the Root River valley in southeastern Minnesota. You will find New England-like towns tucked into folds in the hills as the river winds its way to the Mississippi.

Another special site a short distance from the Cities is the University of Minnesota Arboretum near Chanhassen on Minnesota Highway 5. Maples are the prominent tree, though all colors and types of hardwood trees and fruited shrubs may be found. Visitors may drive through the Arboretum or take any one of several hiking trails

Trunk Highway Projects For 1976 Planned

Regular trunk highway construction program for calendar year 1976, involving 22 counties and based on the continuation of the annual funding level established from forecasts of availability of state fund revenue for the 1976-1977 biennium, has been recently announced by highway commissioner, Frank D. Marzitelli.

Projected total costs for the calendar year 1976 program are approximately $49,729,000. The state's share will be approximately $14,918,500.

Federal aid eligibility is a prime consideration for scheduling, from the standpoint of maximizing limited state funds and avoiding the ultimate lapse of federal funds, should state revenue continue at the current level.

The 1976 calendar year trunk highway construction program includes grading, surfacing, widening, signing and lighting. Some bridge construction and repair is also included.

One of the counties profiting from the program will be Polk, with signing to be done at TH 32, TH 59, Erskine weigh station and Oak Lake rest area.

Tourism Project At Mille Lacs Receives Grant

Approval of a $365,000 grant to help develop a campground and stimulate long-range growth of tourism on the Mille Lacs Indian reservation in Minnesota was announced recently by Wilmer D. Mizell, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

The Mille Lacs reservation business committee, with offices at Onamia, applied for the grant from the economic development administration, U.S. department of commerce.

The committee is developing the campground, adjacent to the Mille Lacs Lake marina, in connection with the reservation's overall economic development program aimed at creating jobs through the use of tribal resources.

In addition to creating jobs in the operation or the campground, committee officials expect the project to encourage development of the tourist industry and to provide business opportunities on the reservation.

The EDA grant will meet the total cost of the project, which will include the construction of access roads, water and sewer systems and cottages, and the development of a camping area.

Farm Marketing Down In Minn. By $261 Million

"Cash receipts from farm marketings during the first five months this year were down by nearly $261-million or nearly 15 per cent below the same period in 1974," Agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald reported recently.

"Farmers simply don't have the grain inventory or the fair prices on milk, poultry, meat animals and eggs after experiencing two of the most disastrous crop production and livestock-poultry marketing years in history.

"Last year's gross farm income record of an estimated $4,559,780,000 was achieved by record grain and field crops sales totaling $2,591,027,000. Farmers sold reserves from bumper 1972 and 1973 crops to do that. Weather damage cut 1974 crop production more than 30 per cent," commissioner Wefald said.

Cash receipts for the January to May 1975 period were $728,632,000 for crops and $789,300,000 for livestock, dairy and poultry marketed by Minnesota farmers.

Compared to receipts for the same period last year, crops receipts for 1975 were down by $155,078,000 or nearly 18 per cent, and livestock-poultry receipts were down by $105,779,000 or nearly 12 per cent.

Commissioner Wefald said that the latest farm income statistics provide a new measure of the disastrous losses experienced by the state's meat, milk and egg producers still penned in, with the singular and only recent exception of hog producers, in one of the most prolonged cost-price squeezes.

Gross income of Minnesota's animal protein product suppliers in 1974 by $184,286,000 or nearly nine per cent below the $2,134,619,000 level in 1973. This loss, plus that reported for the first five months of 1975, adds up to more than a $290-million cut in gross income for dairy, livestock and poultry farmers in the 17-month period.

Fifth among all states in total cash receipts from farming in 1974 behind California, Iowa, Texas and Illinois, for the first five months of 1975 Minnesota has dropped to sixth, passed by Kansas.

Crop marketings accounted for 57 per cent of Minnesota's gross farm income in 1974, a new high and the first year that livestock, dairy and poultry sales failed to provide the majority of Minnesota farm income.

Autumn Colors May Be Found Throughout State

Most Minnesotans look forward to the colors of autumn with the hope that this year they will have the long anticipated Indian summer to prolong the panorama of blazing colors and provide those last shirtsleeve weekends before the first snow falls.

There are specific areas in the state where hardwoods can be seen at the height of color. For most trees, but particularly red oak, poplar and birch, the period of brightest color may last only a few days. It's important to know exactly when to take a fall foliage trip. The drive should be made when the color is at its fullest.

The department of natural resources provides weekly information to statewide radio stations on the foliage conditions. Reports from state forests are gathered each week on tree color progress. The Minnesota tourist information center at 1-(800)-652-9008 will also make this information available. Twin Cities residents should call 296-5029.

Once the leaves begin to turn, there are numerous areas of the state where one can drive to see a panorama of color. Two specific routes in Pioneerland in southwestern Minnesota follow the Minnesota river. One is from Ortonville to Granite Falls and the other from Fort Ridgely to New Ulm. Brilliant yellows may be found on any part of the Minnesota river valley and its tributaries as their banks are lined with elm, ash and cottonwood.

Viking-Land in northwestern Minnesota has a little of everything. The Red River valley has elm, ash, cottonwood foliage, typical of river valleys. The northern section of the region has generous stands of aspen and birch. A particularly beautiful drive is from Bagley to Itasca state park near Bemidji. Other areas for good color are Maplewood state park near Pelican Rapids and the area between Glenwood and Starbuck.

Just about any drive off main highways in Heartland (north central Minnesota) will provide good viewing where there are several especially colorful areas. One is the short drive from St. Joseph to Collegeville and St. John's university campus. In the same area, but a little south, is the Jacobs Prairie-Cold Spring-Horseshoe Lake area which is maple and birch country. Another recommended drive is the south and west shores of Mille Lacs lake where maples are plentiful.

The North Shore drive in the Arrowhead region is nationally known as one of the most scenic drives in North America. In Autumn, particularly above Two Harbors, aspen and birch provide a rich golden scene. Just inland from the shore on U.S. highway 1 is a colorful combination of red maple and poplar in the Finland area. And there's a small area of maple and birch in the southwest corner of Itasca country. The drive there between Grand Rapids and Hill City shows a panorama of reddish orange and yellows.

The southeastern corner of the state in Hiawathaland already has an established reputation for fall foliage, especially in the Minnesota memorial hardwood state forest which extends from Hastings to the Iowa border. The Forest is primarily oak and hickory but the area immediately along the Mississippi river has elm, ash and cottonwood. Another area of river valley and hardwood forest is the Root River valley in southeastern Minnesota. You will find New England-like towns tucked into folds in the hills as the river winds its way to the Mississippi.

Another special site a short distance from the Cities is the University of Minnesota Arboretum near Chanhassen on Minnesota Highway 5. Maples are the prominent tree, though all colors and types of hardwood trees and fruited shrubs may be found. Visitors may drive through the Arboretum or take any one of several hiking trails

CHILDREN'S THEATRE company of the Minneapolis society of fine arts will present "Mother Goose" at the Lincoln high school auditorium at 2 p.m. on Saturday, October 18. The local appearance is sponsored by the Thief River Falls community arts council. Admission to the event will be 75 cents for children under 12 years of age, $1 for students and $2 for adults. Tickets may be purchased from the Chamber of Commerce office, Larson Music company or at the door on the day of the performance. The touring group includes seven actors and actresses and a small live orchestra playing an original musical score. The show includes more than 60 different "Mother Goose" rhymes and tales and is designed for children from four to 10 years of age.

Trunk Highway Projects For 1976 Planned

Regular trunk highway construction program for calendar year 1976, involving 22 counties and based on the continuation of the annual funding level established from forecasts of availability of state fund revenue for the 1976-1977 biennium, has been recently announced by highway commissioner, Frank D. Marzitelli.

Projected total costs for the calendar year 1976 program are approximately $49,729,000. The state's share will be approximately $14,918,500.

Federal aid eligibility is a prime consideration for scheduling, from the standpoint of maximizing limited state funds and avoiding the ultimate lapse of federal funds, should state revenue continue at the current level.

The 1976 calendar year trunk highway construction program includes grading, surfacing, widening, signing and lighting. Some bridge construction and repair is also included.

One of the counties profiting from the program will be Polk, with signing to be done at TH 32, TH 59, Erskine weigh station and Oak Lake rest area.

Tourism Project At Mille Lacs Receives Grant

Approval of a $365,000 grant to help develop a campground and stimulate long-range growth of tourism on the Mille Lacs Indian reservation in Minnesota was announced recently by Wilmer D. Mizell, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

The Mille Lacs reservation business committee, with offices at Onamia, applied for the grant from the economic development administration, U.S. department of commerce.

The committee is developing the campground, adjacent to the Mille Lacs Lake marina, in connection with the reservation's overall economic development program aimed at creating jobs through the use of tribal resources.

In addition to creating jobs in the operation or the campground, committee officials expect the project to encourage development of the tourist industry and to provide business opportunities on the reservation.

The EDA grant will meet the total cost of the project, which will include the construction of access roads, water and sewer systems and cottages, and the development of a camping area.

Farm Marketing Down In Minn. By $261 Million

"Cash receipts from farm marketings during the first five months this year were down by nearly $261-million or nearly 15 per cent below the same period in 1974," Agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald reported recently.

"Farmers simply don't have the grain inventory or the fair prices on milk, poultry, meat animals and eggs after experiencing two of the most disastrous crop production and livestock-poultry marketing years in history.

"Last year's gross farm income record of an estimated $4,559,780,000 was achieved by record grain and field crops sales totaling $2,591,027,000. Farmers sold reserves from bumper 1972 and 1973 crops to do that. Weather damage cut 1974 crop production more than 30 per cent," commissioner Wefald said.

Cash receipts for the January to May 1975 period were $728,632,000 for crops and $789,300,000 for livestock, dairy and poultry marketed by Minnesota farmers.

Compared to receipts for the same period last year, crops receipts for 1975 were down by $155,078,000 or nearly 18 per cent, and livestock-poultry receipts were down by $105,779,000 or nearly 12 per cent.

Commissioner Wefald said that the latest farm income statistics provide a new measure of the disastrous losses experienced by the state's meat, milk and egg producers still penned in, with the singular and only recent exception of hog producers, in one of the most prolonged cost-price squeezes.

Gross income of Minnesota's animal protein product suppliers in 1974 by $184,286,000 or nearly nine per cent below the $2,134,619,000 level in 1973. This loss, plus that reported for the first five months of 1975, adds up to more than a $290-million cut in gross income for dairy, livestock and poultry farmers in the 17-month period.

Fifth among all states in total cash receipts from farming in 1974 behind California, Iowa, Texas and Illinois, for the first five months of 1975 Minnesota has dropped to sixth, passed by Kansas.

Crop marketings accounted for 57 per cent of Minnesota's gross farm income in 1974, a new high and the first year that livestock, dairy and poultry sales failed to provide the majority of Minnesota farm income.

Minn. August Milk Production At 15-Year Low

Minnesota's dairy industry made the nation's biggest cutback in August milk production and the 54.8 million gallons was the lowest volume for that month in 15 years, Agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald reported recently.

August milk production dropped by 9.3 million gallons or 14.5 per cent below Minnesota's July volume. Compared to last August, this year's milk production was down 4.4 million gallons or 7.5 per cent.

Minnesota's milk output for the first eight months of 1975 is estimated at 553.2 million gallons. That is the lowest total for the same period since 1953, and represents the loss of 26.4 million gallons compared to the January to August period last year.

Dairy farmers in Minnesota receive one of the lowest average prices for milk in the nation. Minnesota's mid-August price average for farm milk was 66 cents a gallon, compared to the national average of 73 cents or a disparity of nine per cent.

Average milk production per cow in Minnesota during August was 62.5 gallons. That was down 4.6 gallons or seven per cent compared to August, 1974, and reflected the forced cutback in feeding rations for dairy herds. It was the lowest average production for August since 1971.

Although the August inventory of 877,000 milk cows was a new all-time low for the month for Minnesota, it also was the first time since December, 1961, that the state's dairy farmers have made a monthly increase in their herds. The August total was 2,000 more cows than had been estimated in July, which remains the overall all-time low inventory for Minnesota.

Texas dairymen made the nation's second largest cutback in August milk production, by 1.8 million gallons, compared to Minnesota's 4.4 million gallons cut. Neighboring Wisconsin, the leading dairy state, upped August milk output by two per cent to 131.7 million gallons. Nationally, August milk production was 828.4 million gallons, down only one per cent from that month in 1974.

THOMAS MOTORS
THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINN.
118 North Main Avenue 681-2147

Teri Kezar Is National Champ At Moto-Cross

"racing with the guys" for about two and a half years. She is the only known female professional moto-cross racer in the United States, having entered the professional ranks only in January of this year. Her experience in competition served her well in the national event.

The national title races included the following: On July 4, a two-hour race over a five-mile course in the morning on 125cc bikes (Teri borrowed her bike from a friend and finished third) and a two-hour race over the same course in the afternoon on 250cc bikes where she finished first. On July 5 over a different course, she rode two 30-minute races on 125cc bikes and two 30-minute races on 250cc bikes. She finished second on total time in the first two races and won first place in both of the 250cc races.

Points toward the championship were awarded according to placing—first place equalling one point—with the low point total winning. Teri accumulated only seven points to take the title.

Teri took to the moto-cross track at the tender age of 14, only two weeks after she got her first bike, a 100cc Yamaha. An apparent natural at the sport, she promptly won her first three races in the powderpuff class—now referred to more popularly as the women's division. She raced in the powderpuff class for about a year, moving up the power ratings to a 125cc CZ cycle and a 125cc Husky.

A consistent winner in races against the girls, Teri moved into the novice class which is open to any inexperienced racers with any motorcycle. She flew a 250cc CZ cycle in that class for about six months before deciding the competition was too rough—physically.

"Those guys are crazy," she said. "When I moved to the amateur class it was to get in with better riders where the chance wasn't as great to get run over." In the amateur class she rode a 450cc Maico.

In January of this year she advanced to the expert class—the same thing as turning from amateur to professional. She started racing for money instead of trophies (she won more than 40 of those in her first two and one-half years of racing) and, although the prize money doesn't come close to paying expenses, it does help to pay a few bills.

To qualify for the expert class, she had to win five amateur races in succession. This she did, admitting that it takes a little luck along with consistent riding to win that many races in a row.

Racing in the open expert class at Metro Cycle Park in Phoenix, she won the season points title for 1975 in her first year as a pro. Her 381 points topped the second place finisher by more than 30 points. That point total made Teri Arizona state champion over approximately 30 male drivers in contention for the title.

During the racing season—which is the year around in Phoenix—Teri practices only when she rides in competition. During the summer she will ride on Friday and Saturday nights, clean and repair her bike on Sunday, then put it in her special van until the next weekend. In the winter she will normally race only on Sunday.

In addition to Phoenix, Teri has raced on tracks in Tucson, Taylor, Prescott, Mayer and Casa Grande in Arizona and three tracks in California. The ventures into new territory are for a change of scene and to race against different riders. "You get tired of being beaten by the same guys every week," she explained.

Teri wears a lot of protective equipment when she races, and although she has taken countless spills, she has never been seriously injured. She does her own upkeep and repair on her bikes and modifies the fork, tires and shock absorbers according to track conditions.

Teri says that the start is 60 per cent of the race and she likes to get out in front right from the start. Other important factors she lists are confidence, concentration, conditioning and consistency—plus finding the fastest line around the course which includes jumps, holes, turns, mud and other handicaps. She estimates her top speed at any point on the course would be 65 to 70 miles per hour.

Two weeks after winning the national title, Teri and nine other of the top 10 finishers participated by invitation in a "Super Bowl of Moto-Cross" at the Los Angeles coliseum. About an hour before she was to race, someone stole her bike and roared onto the course while the "500" race was in progress. The thief piled up on the machine and severely damaged it. Emergency repairs were made with the assistance of other participants and their followers and Teri finished second on the patched-up cycle.

With a national title in hand and a house full of trophies, what lies ahead for tiny Teri, the Phoenix fireball? She wants to apply for a license from the American Motorcycle association (AMA) to race in the semi-pro division. Her 1975 total points championship against the guys in Arizona and her national title against the gals in Carlsbad should help convince the AMA she is good enough to race in that division.

"In the semi-pro class you run two 45-minute races instead of two 10-lap races," Teri explained. "I'm better at the longer races where endurance counts as much as speed."

And while moto-cross racing is most popular in the West, Teri has pioneered a growing trend with an idea from northern Minnesota. She wears a hockey jersey for racing and a number of other racers have now gone to the roomy jerseys as well. It's good to know this area may have contributed a little something toward her success.

BSU Offers Child Development Associate Title

Many adults working with young children in day care programs, nursery schools and head start centers across the country are channeling their experiences towards a new professional title.

In Minnesota, the child development training program at Bemidji state university is offering an intensive competency-based education program to assist participants in gaining the title of child development associate. Persons completing the program receive a CDA credential and are considered capable of assuming the teaching responsibility for a group of young children on a daily basis.

Dan Gartrell, CDTP program director, places great importance on the one-to-one nature of the training. "The CDA program is intended for persons already in the field and is individualized and personalized. Primarily, it's disigned to utilize the strengths and fill the needs of each candidate," Gartrell explains.

It is only in its third year as a pilot project at BSU and 90 candidates are currently enrolled. Of the first 100 CDAs given credentials in the United States, eight were graduates of the Bemidji training program. About 75 child care centers exist across northern Minnesota, indicating need for such a vocational concern.

"Recognizing child development associates is one criteria that the state department of welfare looks at to license day care, nursery schools and head start centers," Gartrell adds.

New Work-Study Program Begins In Minnesota

Higher education coordinating commission has allocated $500,000 to some 81 institutions in Minnesota to implement a new work-study program for post-secondary education students, Commission executive director Richard C. Hawk announced recently.

Rules and regulations for the program also have been adopted by the commission. The 1975 Legislature authorized the program and appropriated $1.75 million for the biennium, $500,000 in fiscal year 1976 and $1.25 million in fiscal year 1977.

Participating institutions include the University of Minnesota and its coordinate campuses, the seven state universities, the 18 community colleges, the 33 public area vocational-technical institutes and several private institutions.

Under the program the student applies to the school to participate. He or she must be a Minnesota resident or plan to enroll full-time in a Minnesota post-secondary institution. Graduate students are eligible.

The student should contact the financial aid officer at the institution he or she plans to attend or is attending. The school selects the students to participate on the basis of financial need. The institution also arranges the employment which may be with the post-secondary school or any non-profit, non-sectarian agency located in the state.

The maximum a student may earn is the amount of the student's financial need minus all scholarship and grant dollars awarded to the student for that school year. Hourly rates generally range from the minimum wage to $3.50 per hour.

The commission administers the program, and it allocates the funds to institutions on a formula basis which takes into account the school's full-time fall term equivalent enrollment. Not more than 50 per cent of the institution's work-study allocation can be used to employ students by the schools.

DON'T PLAY WITH FIRE...PREVENT IT!

LOSS PREVENTION SUGGESTIONS FOR HOMEOWNERS

If you can answer "yes" to these forty-six questions about "correctable hazards" and "special precautions", your home ranks very high in safety. As a conscientious homeowner and head of your household, you are endeavoring to fulfill your responsibility to safeguard the lives of your family and their guests, and to protect your valuable possessions. Every "no" answer spotlights a serious condition which could result in a catastrophe to life and property. Although your insurance coverage may cushion the financial shock of a loss, it can never compensate for injuries and loss of life that may occur when these common hazards are not corrected; nor can insurance coverage compensate for the inconvenience you suffer through severe damage or total destruction of your home. Show your interest in caring for the health and safety of your family and property by eliminating the "No's".

Region 8 Tournament To EGF

Newly formed Region Eight AA committee voted Wednesday to name East Grand Forks as the site for the 1976 Region Eight hockey tournament.

The decision by the committee oddly enough went against the wishes of the Region Eight coaches who voted a week earlier to have the annual event remain in Thief River Falls where it has enjoyed tremendous success over the past five years.

However, the coaches' vote was only a recommendation to the decision-making committee.

Members of the new Region Eight AA committee include Charles Sell, St. Cloud Tech; Norman Maguire, Little Falls; Russ Carlson, Detroit Lakes; Larry Selk, East Grand Forks; Robert Anderson, Alexandria; Bill Fury, Sauk Rapids; and John Conzemius, Wadena.

East Grand Forks' bid for the region tournament was a one-year request for the new Civic and Recreation Center there. Presumably, Thief River Falls will get the 1977 event.

Swenson Injures Knee At Dartmouth

Rob Swenson, former Lincoln high school football standout, has run into bad luck again with the Dartmouth College football team.

The Dartmouth senior fullback was one of the most impressive Big Green runners in preseason practice and had also improved his blocking considerably, wrote the Dartmouth sports information department.

Swenson beat out veteran Frank Wilson and highly-touted sophomore Curt Oberg for the starting fullback spot against the University of Massachusetts in the Dartmouth 1976 football season opener September 27.

Swenson, who missed his entire sophomore year at Dartmouth because of a knee operation, looked impressive in the first half against Massachusetts with 36 yards on seven carries.

But early in the second half fate struck again. Swenson was given the call inside the five-yard line and was stopped. He was injured on the play and was helped off the field and missed the rest of the contest.

The diagnosis is a badly bruised and hyperextended knee (the same one he had previously injured).

Swenson missed last week's game against Holy Cross and was listed as doubtful for this week's Ivy League season opener against Pennsylvania.

An all-state performer for the Prowlers in 1971, Swenson came into his own late in the 1974 season for Dartmouth and finished the year with 146 yards in 37 rushing attempts. "Hopefully he follows his 1974 pattern when he returns to the Big Green line-up," said one Dartmouth official.

Swenson, one of the very best footbzll players ever to play for the Prowlers, rushed for 2,060 yards and scored 210 points during a brilliant, three-year Lincoln career.

Smith, Knoff Meet Saturday

A pair of former District 31 athletic stars—Kent Smith of Thief River Falls and Kurt Knoff of East Grand Forks—will be on the same field Saturday when Nebraska hosts Kansas in an important Big Eight college football game in Lincoln, Neb.

Knoff is a third-year starter in the Jayhawks' defensive secondary. The senior strong safety was an all-conference pick in 1974 has been touted for All-American honors this fall.

Smith, redshirted a year ago, has seen extensive duty with the Cornhuskers this year. A specialty team starter, the Nebraska sophomore backs up All-American monsterback Wonder Monds in the "Huskers' defensive backfield.

Smith enjoyed his biggest college thrill last week against the University of Miami when he intercepted a pass and returned it 40 yards for a touchdown in front of over 76,000 rabid Nebraska fans. Unfortunately, the play was called back when a Nebraska lineman was called for roughing the passer.

The game will be a big one in the Big Eight race. Nebraska is favored because of its 4-0 record and lofty fourth place rating in the nation's college football poll. However, Kansas has been a real surprise this fall, posting a 3-1 record to date with upset wins over highly regarded Kentucky and Wisconsin.

An unusual twist to the game has the contest labled as Nebraska's homecoming even though the Cornhuskers haven't been away from home yet, playing five straight home games to open the season. Nebraska holds an NCAA record of 78 straight sellout crowds of over 76,000 fans.

Conference Unbeatens Plummer, McIntosh Clash Fri.

Undefeated division leaders Plummer and McIntosh clash Friday at 8 p.m. at Plummer in a key North Tri County Conference football match-up.

Both teams own perfect 6-0 season records and are highly ranked in the Minnesota State high school league Class C football playoff poll. Both teams are coming off shutout victories Friday when the Cardinals blanked Mentor 27-0 and McIntosh drilled Goodridge 36-0. Plummer leads the North Division of the North Tri County Conference standings while McIntosh heads the south Division.

"We've got three games left," pointed out Plummer coach Gary Brantl, "and we're going to have to win two of the three if we want to win our division."

The division winners will clash in the North Tri County Conference playoff game Fri., Oct. 31, at Oklee. If an undefeated winner emerges from that conference playoff game, a state playoff berth may well be in the offering.

"We can't afford to make mistakes," continued Brantl whose team will visit Middle River next week and then close the season Fri., Oct. 24, at Oklee. "That last game against Oklee will be the championship game," explained Brantl. Oklee currently boasts a 5-1 record for a close second to Plummer in the North Division. "All three games are important, but that last one will determine everything," added Brantl.

McIntosh has a two-game lead over Gonvick in the South Division.

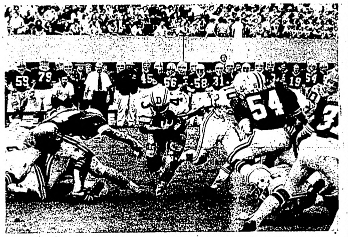
"The key to our success from now on will be our offense," stated Brantl. "Our defense has looked sharp all season (the Cardinals have posted three straight shutouts and own four shutouts in six games this fall). Offensively we've looked good at times, but we need some consistency."

The rest of last week's North Tri County Conference results found Gonvick beating Middle River 28-6, Oklee stopped Clearbrook 24-6 and Grygla beat Erskine 18-6.

Other area games on tap Friday will find Grygla hosting Clearbrook at 1:30 p.m. and Goodridge will entertain Middle River at 7:30 p.m.

Marshall County Central high school will play a 7 p.m. Top of the State Conference game at Karlstad Saturday following the Nordics' 14-0 homecoming game win over Argyle last week.

Elsewhere in last week's Top of the State action, Karlstad beat Stephen 14-6, Roseau edged Baudette 20-14, Crookston Cathedral outlasted Warroad 30-24 in double overtime, Hallock blanked Kennedy 14-0 and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart whipped Greenbush 32-8.



ROB SWENSON, Lincoln high school graduate and now a member of the Dartmouth College football team, rushed through a huge hole in the middle of the Massachusetts interior line during Dartmouth's 1975 football season opener September 27. Prowlers Win Sub Section Tennis Tournament Title

Thief River Falls took a major step in achieving a second straight state tennis tournament berth Tuesday by winning the newly formed South Sub Section Eight AA tournament at Bemidji.

The Lincoln high school girls blanked Fertile in a first round tournament match Monday and then surprised Crookston 3-2 and East Grand Forks 4-1 in Tuesday matches.

Coach Pat Johnson's Prowlers now advance to state-tournament qualifying sectional play Saturday.

Thief River Falls will challenge Moorhead Saturday in a first round Section Eight AA tournament test. The match will be played in the Alex Nemzek fieldhouse on the Moorhead State University campus. Wadena and St. Cloud Apollo clash in the other section match Saturday. The Saturday winners will meet in the section championship match Monday at Brainerd, with the winner advancing to the state tournament.

South Sub Section tournament play will continue at Bemidji tomorrow (Thursday) when individual competition takes over. Tomorrow's winners will advance to sectional action Tuesday at Brainerd.

"Everybody played good, strong tennis," acknowledged Johnson about her team's championship performance. "We especially played beautiful tennis against Crookston. The girls looked real good."

Prowler wins over Crookston and East Grand Forks reversed regular season losses to the two squads. Crookston beat Thief River Falls 4-1 during the year and East Grand Forks claimed a 5-0 decision over the Prowlers.

Despite the regular season losses, Johnson said she was not surprised by the tournament results. "They've been working real hard and they were kind of hungry after losing to Crookston and East Grand Forks during the season."

Other South Sub Section tournament results found Crookston blanking Roseau 5-0, East Grand Forks stopped Waubun 4-1 and Bemidji beat Mahnomen 4-1 Monday. East Grand Forks upset Bemidji 4-1 in Tuesday's other semifinal match.

Thief River Falls' tournament championship squad includes Marchelle Cuppett in number one singles, Marty Minor in number two singles, Kris Gibson in number three singles, Pam Prichard and Jennifer Pluth in number one doubles and Kelly Bjorkman and Lori Lundin in number two doubles.

Prowler line-up for tomorrow's Sub Section individual competition will include Minor and Cuppett in singles and Prichard and Pluth together in doubles.

"Crucial" NWAC Game

Prowlers Hope To Regain Title Dreams At Fergus

Thief River Falls visits Fergus Falls for a 7:30 p.m. Northwest Conference football game Friday and the Prowlers will be hoping history repeats itself again this year.

Since Fergus Falls joined the Northwest Conference in 1973, the Otters have been just what the Prowlers have needed to rejuvinate their sagging football fortunes after suffering near NWAC title-costing defeats at the hands of Bemidji.

In 1973, Thief River Falls bowed to Bemidji 32-14 to slip to a 2-4 season record and 1-1 in league play. However, a week later the Prowlers bounced back to stun Fergus Falls, then undefeated conference leader, 30-19 to jump right back into NWAC contention.

Then in 1974, Bemidji crushed Thief River Falls 32-0 to even the Prowler season record at 3-3 and push the Lincoln ball club near elimination from conference title consideration with another 1-1 NWAC mark.

But, again Thief River Falls jumped right back into the conference picture with a decisive 21-12 triumph over the Otters in the Prowler homecoming game.

Now in 1975, Bemidji has again doused Thief River Falls' Northwest Conference pennant fever following last week's 21-6 Lumberjack win that dropped the Prowler season record to 2-3 overal and 0-1 in conference play. Another loss will kill Prowler title hopes altogether.

It should be pointed out that neither time—1973 or 1974—did Thief River Falls wins over Fergus Falls bring the Prowlers conference titles. But the Prowler wins over the Otters sure did make the final two weeks of the season interesting.

And that's what Prowler head coach Jim Sims hopes to accomplish in his third meeting with the Don Stueve-coached Otters.

Bemidji is the current Northwest Conference leader with a 3-0 record. Crookston is right behind at 2-0, followed by Fergus Falls 1-2, Thief River Falls 0-1 and East Grand Forks 0-3.

Bemidji and Crookston are both involved in nonconference play this week. The two conference unbeatens clash at Crookston next week. A Bemidji win over Crookston would make the Lumberjacks undisputed NWAC champions. However, a Crookston win over Bemidji would immediately thrust Thief River Falls back into title contention. If the Prowlers can beat the Otters who are already out of the title picture.

A Crookston win over Bemidji, coupled with Thief River Falls wins over Fergus Falls and East Grand Forks over the next two weeks would set up a climatic Prowler-Pirate season-ending confrontation in which Thief River Falls, Crookston and Bemidji could all wind up in a first place tie.

"This is a crucial ball game," pointed out Sims. "I still feel we can play good football. But we have to go out and get it done. We didn't play very good football against Bemidji. We look at the films and wonder how we stayed so close."

"We'll stay with what we've done," stated Sims. "But if we find there are players who don't want to play, they'll sit down."

Sims said "defensive consistency" is what his team must strive for this week. The Prowler coach said the week layoff because of an open date on the Thief River Falls schedule prior to the Bemidji game might have been the cause of Prowler problems against the Lumberjacks.

Bryan Nelson and Chuck Welle have both quarterbacked the Otters' Houston Veer offense this fall. The two signal callers have passed for a combined 233 yards.

Jon Erickson and Mike Thomas, a pair of look-alike seniors, have supplied most of the Otters' rushing offense. Thomas, 5-11, 165, has rushed for 482 yards while Erickson, 6-0, 171, has gained 404 yards on the ground. Junior Dave Boese rounds out the backfield.

Cameron Kolle, a 6-2, 190-pound senior heads the Fergus Falls receiving corps. He's caught 10 passes for 131 yards this fall. Junior Tim Lillquist is the other Otter end.

"Their line is big, their backs are equal in ability and they throw the ball very well," said Sims about Fergus Falls. Sims compared the Otters' size to Bemidji.

Meanwhile, changes could again be in store for the Prowlers, especially in the offensive backfield where quarterback Jeff Lindquist is still a question mark. Lindquist suffered a severly sprained ankle in practice last week, but played against Bemidji. Sims pointed out that it has been nine games since the Prowlers have been able to start the same offensive backfield two games in succession. "That's really frustrating," he said, shaking his head.

"We've been fortunate against Fergus Falls in the past," said Sims. "We're going to have to regroup and go after them Friday."

Prowlers Fourth At Strong Staples Meet

Powerful St. Cloud Apollo, Glenwood and Pierz took home top honors Tuesday during the talent-laden Staples invitational cross meet.

Coach Russ Smith's Thief River Falls squad was a fourth place finisher in the Class AA field. Thief River Falls won the junior high school portion of the meet.

St. Cloud Apollo won the Class AA title with 51 points, followed by Little Falls with 81, Bemidji 90, Thief River Falls 98, Moorhead 128, Fergus Falls 168, Rocori 200, Park Rapids 204, Melrose 224, Wadena 235, Detroit Lakes 266 and Crookston 268.

Glenwood won the Class A crown, Pierz was the Class B champion, Moorhead took the junior varsity event and Thief River Falls won the junior high meet.

Tom Poliseno of Little Falls was the Class AA individual champion with a 15:53 effort over the windy three-mile course.

Top Prowler runner was Dan Heleren who placed 11th, followed by Dan Kezar 12th, John Albrecht 19th, Paul Phelps 23rd, Mike Nessen 33rd, Steve Geatz 41st and Tony Brosseau 53rd. There were 84 runners taking part in the AA meet.

Smith cited Phelps for a strong performance in the tough field. The Prowler coach expects Thief River Falls, Little Falls, Bemidji and Alexandria to battle for a Class AA state meet spot behind St. Cloud Apollo. Top two teams in each region advance to state meet competition.

Some 116 runners took part in the junior varsity meet. The Prowlers' Kevin Culkin finished 19th, Dave Glauque 27th, Jon Ballingrud 37th and Ron Erickson 65th. However, Thief River Falls did not field a full five-man team and did not figure in the team scoring.

Thief River Falls won the junior high school title with an easy 67-point victory. Thief River Falls totaled only 38 points, followed by Staples with 105, Little Falls 109, Remer 177, Osakis 184, Detroit Lakes and Park Rapids 212, Bemidji 276 and Wheaton 381.

Kevin Murphy was the top Thief River Falls junior high runner, placing third. Bob Fitzgerald placed sixth, Tom Brosseau eighth, Todd Trickle 10th, Greg Brosseau 11th, Jeff Oseid 13th and Todd Bergland 31st. A total of 91 junior high school runners took part in the meet.

DEER SEASON for this bow and arrow hunter ended almost as soon as it began. Steve Glauque, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glauque of Thief River Falls, bagged this two-year-old doe from a tree stand north of Middle River about 6 p.m. Saturday—opening day of the season. He was hunting with his father who had seen the same deer earlier in the day. Steve missed his first shot, then hit perfectly behind the front shoulder. The deer traveled about 100 yards before it fell. This is Steve's second year of bow and arrow hunting for deer. His dad collected a deer with bow and arrow in 1973.
